B. Who responded

We're trying to understand if we're hearing from everyone, and whether the submissions we receive are representative of the diversity of Wellington.

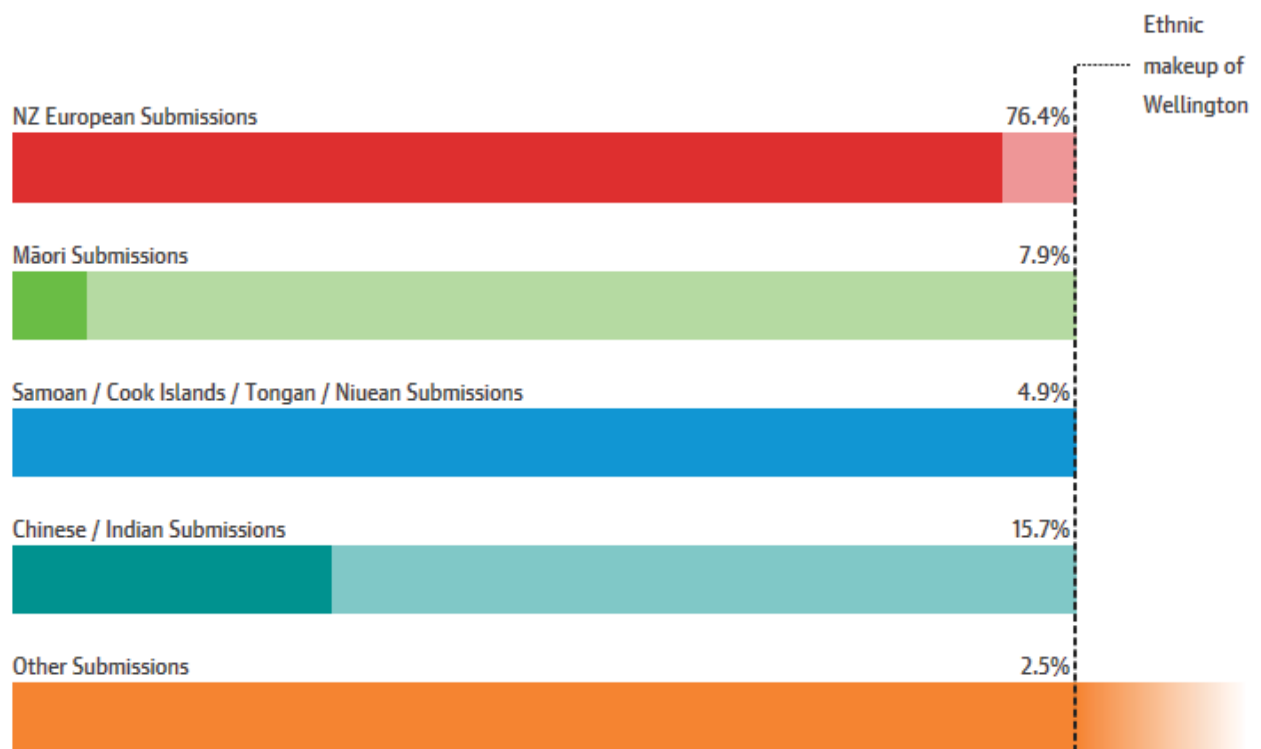

Age distribution of Wellingtonians and people who gave feedback

Most people who submitted were in the age group 19-30, with 33% of submissions. They make up 19% of Wellington's population.

Wellington ethnicity distribution

The bars on this graph represent the proportion of submissions from each ethnic group. People can belong to more than one ethnic group, which is why this graph adds up to more than 100%.

Need more community-owned and community-driven arts activities, to balance the international programme. Recognition of cultural diversity in Wellington is important and communities should have major say and ownership of how their contribution to Wellington society is recognised and celebrated.

Wow - finally I get to write without these loaded questions. I don't think that anyone objects to some of these ideas, but for me, the issue is cost and timing of it. I saw that the Mayor noted that completing the plan in accordance with council plans would be akin to having a $160k debt on a $600k property (I may be slightly out with my numbers) and so borrowing to accelerate these was in order.

I would note the following :

- Borrowing to cover some of your costs that are clearly expenses that could be deferred or reduced (i.e. cultural events, rainbow crossings) is never sensible. Rates have, and are forecast to exceed all reasonable measures of CPI, and that is not OK. Some of the silly spending needs to be cut in order to ensure that we don't have to borrow - or don't have to borrow as much.

- As any bank would tell you, it's one thing to cover the interest (and we are currently all fortunate to be in a period of really low interest rates), but every loan given should show an ability to ultimately repay the debt.

....and that for me is the sticking point. You can talk all you want about investment and the appropriateness of intergenerational debt, but you end up with a higher interest bill in the interim and therefore higher rates. However, on top of this, the rates will increase further (again well in excess of CPI) in order to start to even contemplate repaying borrowings.

I know it's not a popular thing to be cutting culture - but here's the thing. People will support anyone who is shown to be trying to do the right thing. The right thing here is given the enormity of some of the projects being proposed, you cut back on the discretionary things.

It's a simple message that aside from the opportunity to contribute via this small box (where the other leading questions purport to give you a mandate without my ability to suggest that this should be done over time or in priority to other things. I hope that you take this on board. Thank you.

I think that your first priority should be to make sure that those who currently reside in Wellington, and who pay rates, have appropriate services and facilities, before worrying about lifting standards for others. Once you have looked after your ratepayers, you can then look to consider looking after others who may want to come here in the future - but let's face it, over 50% of the population of New Zealand want to live in Auckland anyway....

Bike lanes, bike lanes - and parking fees. Really unimaginative.
At no stage can any analysis tell me about how much use bike lanes are to the elderly and those with families - or indeed at times of rain or if you want shopping. Bike lanes as a supplement, not instead of, roads could work, but with each proposal I see, there's less space on already tight roads, one way streets, or removal of car parking spots. So every day of rain (and let's face it, we sometimes get it in Wellington), you have the same cars competing for less spots and facing more congestion due to bike lanes. If you've got the cash, put it towards subsidising public transport so there's a real option instead of pushing people to bike lanes and reducing options for all.

In terms of weekend parking charges - really ????? At the end of the day, businesses in the CBD pay rates so that you can provide the infrastructure to allow people to come and shop at their store. It's great to have people coming in, enjoying themselves for 2 hours, going home happy and their credit cards used. Businesses who pay rates are happy, rate payers are happy - it's a thriving economy. But no, even after rate increases that exceed (and will continue to exceed CPI), you want to introduce more charges to subsidise even sillier things.

Don't do it - again, remember who you should be acting in the interests of. Ratepayers. Businesses and private people. Hey - if you think that there's congestion and not enough carparks in the CBD - rip up some of those silly bike lanes !

I like some of these ideas, but let's face it, we seem to be poor at having a reason for people to come and visit. Every tourist wants to see Te Papa and ride on the Cable Car - and many seem underwhelmed by the latter. You've got tourists coming in - great - now give them something really cool. Is it the movie museum ? Perhaps. But don't spend silly money on it. Spend wisely and have something that is still worth it even after it's original purpose. You create that idea, then work with the right people - if they're coming to you, then we've failed at it.

I have mentioned earlier - a lot of this expenditure is in my view discretionary, and unwise at a time when you are using borrowing to undertake real projects that matter. Right now, we don't have the infrastructure to support lots of new people as well. But in this document to date, let me summarise how I think it's going :
We want to do some really important stuff to strengthen the area for those who live here and for the future - that bit's good
We want to do some other stuff that's really not that essential - that bit's bad.
We want to offer you less services as a result of this, and charge you more - less carparks, no free weekend parking, more crazy cycle paths - again bad
We want you as ratepayers, who are already paying more than CPI increases, to pay more and leave a legacy of debt for you for the future - and again, if you didn't hear me earlier, this is really bad.
Remember the benefits should accrue to those who fund your operations.

Is there anything else you think WCC should be prioritising over the next 10 years?

Comments:

Well, you see that's where I think you're wrong. You're asking us to pay more for less services, and I think you're telling fibs. The core services of roading, parking and accessibility decrease for most with the introduction of charges for parking and reduction in road space due to the proposed implementation of bike lanes. It's really a silly thing to say that core services in these areas are not going to change, as they clearly are being reduced.

WCC should be living within its means, and rates should not increase at a rate greater than inflation.

Over the last 3 years (to the Jan 2018 quarter), CPI has increased by 3.7%. The 16/17 plan alone saw an average increase of 3.6% - of which residential increased by 5.4% on average.

These plans again propose to increase the rates above inflation. In a proper business, you consider this for extraordinary things that need immediate attention, and at the same time, look for other savings to reduce the impact of this. You don't then undertake additional discretionary and non-essential expenditure that has the effect of increasing borrowings – and future rate charges – further.

Other comments

Would you like to make any further comments to support your overall submission?

Comments:

Get back to core services.

Given you have competing priorities that will cost more than your income, look to cut back discretionary or non-essential spend.

Bike paths are not essential.

Rainbow crossings are not essential.

Reliable mass transit is the way forward. Less focus on cycling because a small proportion of the population will use even perfect cycleways. Wellington is spreading and we need better mass transit links between the outer suburbs, not cycleways.

We still need more Council support for private owners of EQ prone buildings - particularly residential apartments - to enable them to strengthen. That support needs to include a supportive and realistic planning environment where due consideration is given to the cost of strengthening options, and also a pool of funding for loan investment where owners are unable to borrow privately to undertake the work.

Support housing development, but concerned that council may not understand a) the range of housing that is appropriate (eg multi-storey apartments are liveable for many) and b) the different risk profile faced by owners in those developments (eg collective insurance, responding to changes in building requirements)

Worried that my responses to LGWM seem to have been interpreted as support for light rail because I favoured more investment in transport. Light rail risks being a very expensive white elephant for Wellington. Please carry on improving the bus network.

We also need to recognise that much of the casual parking for those coming into Wellington has disappeared since the 2016 earthquake.

stop wasting money on cycle ways. commuters don't use them so stop kidding yourself suggesting they will. it is disingenuous and disgraceful. the money on cycle should be spent on core infrastructure that benefits the majority, be it improving water resilience or put towards fixing the appalling gridlock the city centre has been allowed to become.

I strongly support coastal resilience work at Worser Bay.

I believe the form should be a low timber sea wall to 'protect the toe of the dune' before replanting, as required in the 30 year term Resource Consent issued in 1998 for the establishment of the Worser Bay sand- dunes.

The sands of Worser Bay arrived after the 1855 earthquake. According to the WCC Archives very large document 'Worser Bay Sand Nuisance' sand drift has been a problem delivering numerous failed solutions since early settlement.

In 1998 after analysis by Tonkin and Taylor, contoured sand-dunes were established. Much of the prevailing Marram Grass previously covering Worser Bay natural dunes has since been eliminated in favour of Pingao and Spinifex. However due to the steep gradient of the dunes and Marram grass being a sand-binder compared to Pingao and Spinifex which require sand movement, the dunes have returned to a state of high sand movement 'nuisance' and low plant coverage as subsequent storm surges have washed away the fore- dune plantings.

According to an OIA request - council has spent $60, 740 on beach cleanups and maintenance between 2013 and 2017. $7152 was spent on a temporary boulder wall after the June 2013 storm and most recently $18,633 was spent on a failed replanting programme in May 2017.

The only section of Worsler Bay that is currently resilient is the southern area of Worsler Bay where there is a low exposed timber sea wall at the toe of the dune and 100% coverage of Marram grass. I believe that this solution be extended along the length of Worsler Bay.

According to the Coastal Processes Report Pg21 by Tonkin Taylor in reference to Centreports proposed Channel Dredge project - Worsler Bay receives sand from longshore transport from a south-west to north-east direction with an overall migration rate of 680 cubic meters per annum.

Wind returns sand from a north to south direction.

The most recent attempts at controlling the sand nuisance problem was bolstering the dunes with Spinifex and Pingao. 90% of these plants were washed away 23 May 2017. Without accounting for protecting the toe of the dune, longshore drift of sand, wind patterns and choice of plant species, the 'sand nuisance' file at WCC archives will just get larger.

There is also more detailed resilience work required around the temporary boulders as coastal erosion bites towards the roadway.

I strongly support further resilience work at Worsler Bay and recommend a low timber sea wall be established at the toe of the dunes.

Worser Bay Southern Dune Restoration Project

Meeting: Wednesday 25 January 2017

Invited:

David Chick, Deane Virtue, Peter Hemsley, Brian Thomas, Chris Calvi-Freeman, Steve Rencen, Paula Newton, Hamish Beachman, Callum Strong

Overview:

A large Southerly storm in June 2013 eroded approximately 50% of the dune face at Worser Bay, Seatoun Wellington, leaving the dunes with a vertical profile on the seaward side.

The dunes sands have slowly re-built but the dune plants have not recovered. Winds from North – East, North and North-west (wrapping into the bay) now freely blow sand up and over the Marine Parade roadway and houses from 159-187 in winds as little as 15knots.

Wellington City Council have contracted firms to do irregular sand clean-ups of the roadway, usually dumping the loose sand back on top of the dunes only to blow back onto the roadway and houses.

Residents of Worser Bay have initiated a Dune Restoration project to address the ongoing wind blown sand issue that affects residents, motorists, cyclists, walkers, children and beach goers.

Below is an outline of what Worser Bay residents would like the WCC to lead on.

Worser Bay Southern Dune Restoration Project

Phase One: February 2017 onwards:

Immediately reduce risk of accidents on road and paths.

Define neglected area to receive 100% focus. This is around 120 meters, starting about 10meters north of the bus stop and extending just past the concrete blocks south where the road was undermined in the June 2013 storm.

Stretch and secure a mesh/hessian geotextile as an urgent interim measure on the worst part of the loose dunes to mitigate wind blown sand.

Clear drains with care and road swept weekly as a matter of course, without continual prompting from residents.

Phase Two: February – August 2017:

Develop a seaward wall extension and planting plan.

Construction of wall extension and dune contouring.

June – July: Intensive planting of Spinifex and Pingao. Seaward planting must be above the newly constructed wall as acknowledgment that any planting is under threat from southern winter swells.

Dense top dune planting on flattened contour to mitigate the narrowness of the southern dunes.

Resident community participation in planting to ensure proper planting as some past observations have been of plants sticking half out of the sand or still contained in black plastic potting bags.

Rope barriers and signs to notify public of the works and dune health.

Phase Three: August 2017 – ongoing:

Maintain clear roads and paths.

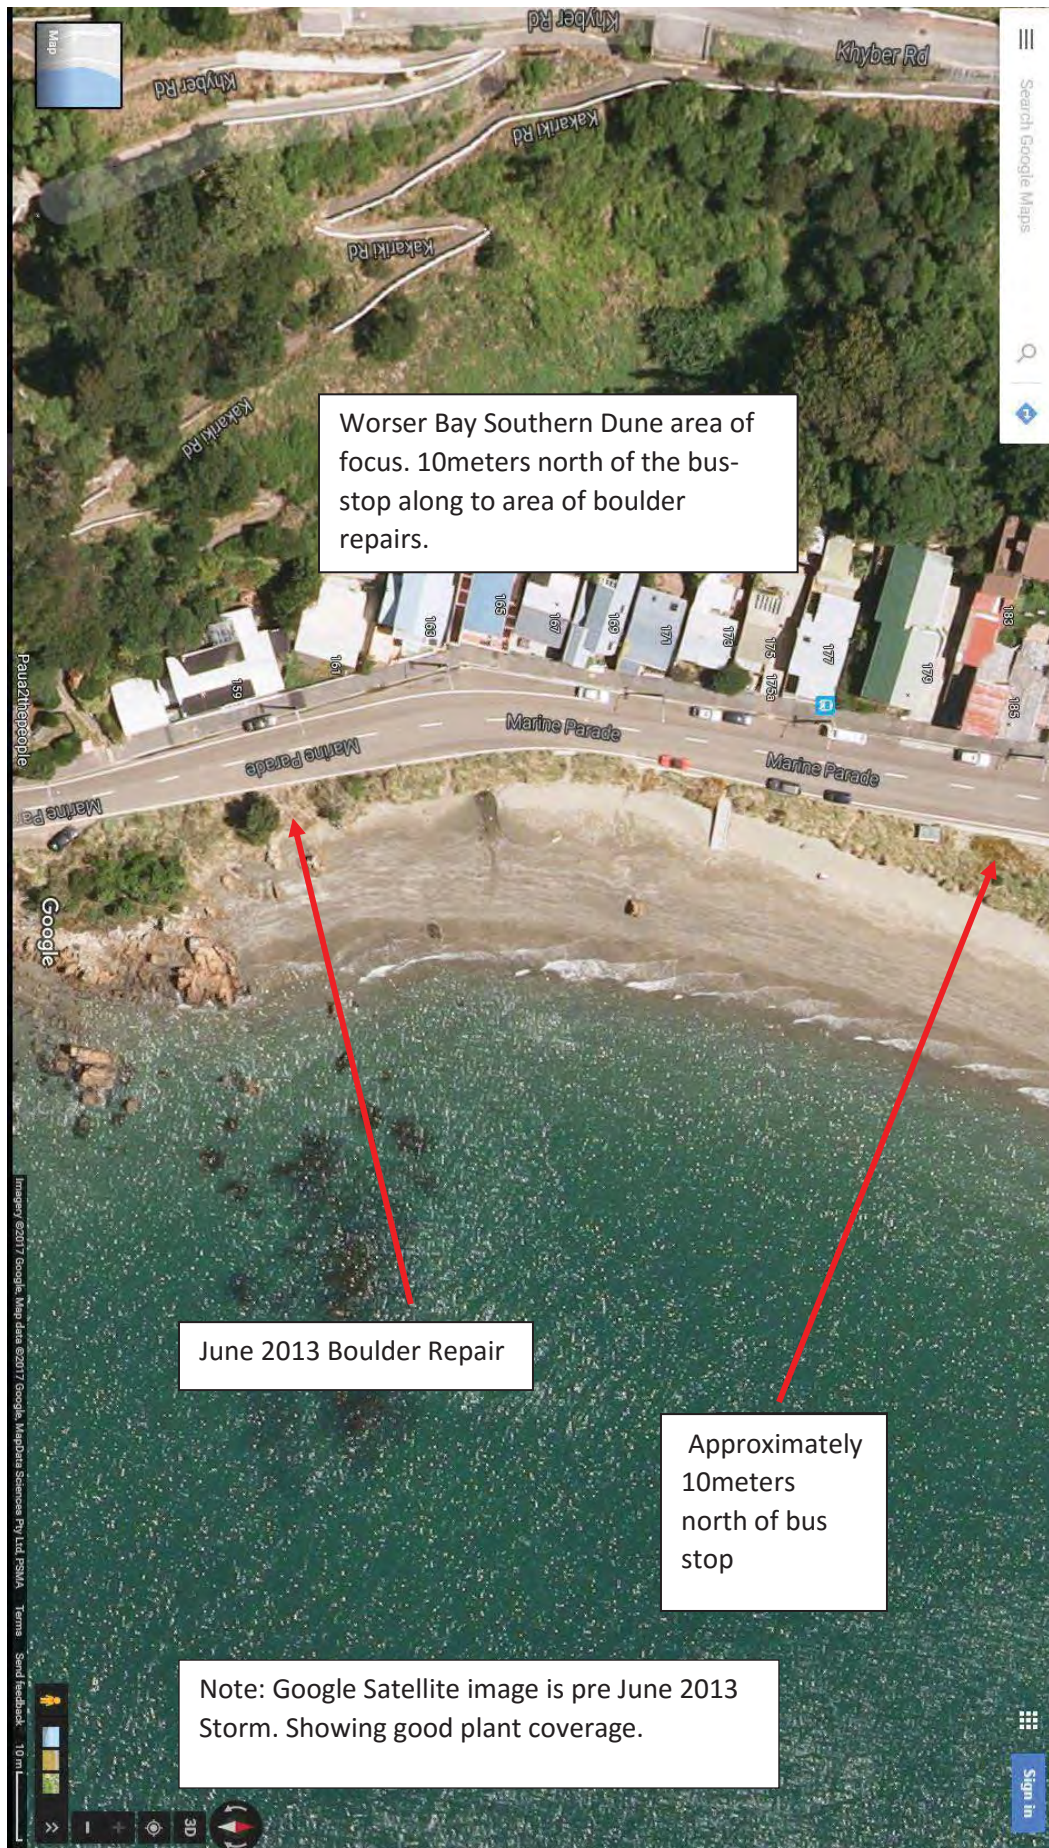

Replant and maintain areas regularly with evaluation of dune states.

Educate Worser Bay residents and contractors regarding best practice for returning sand from gutters, paths, roofs and gardens to reduce contamination.

Additional work:

Look at piping the natural spring water emerging at 193 Marine Parade across the road and down to the sump by the shower at the toilets/changing room/boat shed. This will stop wet sand accruing in the gutters, driveways and eventually footpaths which creates a hazard for small children on bikes and scooters.

You are aware that the living wage isn't high?

With new housing comes higher rentals? How is a lower income family meant to afford living in a council flat if they will now be designed for upper middle class couples? Yes I know you have to match the market rate, but this plan is the best way to move working class families out of the city.

I am personally against Cycle ways in Wellington due to car-park space being stolen. And hold personal resentment towards cyclists. As a driver, I remember the billboards that said "Don't pop my bubble" and that has stuck with me. I am always generous for a cyclist spaces. But as a pedestrian, I do not support cyclists having unpredictably access going on roads, on footpaths, using crossings, running redlights, and weaving through cars with no indication where there next pedal will take them. Cyclist need billboards telling them road etiquette just as much as drivers do. The tier of priority goes Pedestrian - Cyclist - then Cars. Cyclist do not come out on top.

Paying for weekend parking... money for Wellington's projects will need to come from somewhere so I can understand the logic there. But weekdays costs are already so steep and a 2hour time limit is very constraining on a weekend shopper, or a family day-out. Time limits and costs should be adjusted for weekends to avoid city resentment. I personally seek out hair dressers and other lengthy commitments in Petone or Porirua as the city is no longer appealing to interact with. I live in Hataitai and then Khandallah, and attend Vic Uni Kelburn but I do actively avoid the city.

Outer city suburbs need better parking spaces to encourage public transport use. Khandallah, Ngaio, Wilton, Wadestown and areas like these have car parks... but not enough to support the housing developments which have green lights from this council. 150 homes in Croftondowns up Silverstream Road are set to built... with a small carpark. Not to mention the main arterial route these homes will have to the city is the Ngaio Gorge. This is a guaranteed problem which has not been looked at from this council. These are a very nice suburbs who pay generous rates so would be good to know the council hasn't forgotten about them because we aren't Newtown or have cycle way.

I love Wellington and do plan to settle in the Region. But already accepted that with the current developments and goals of the city, I will settle in either Porirua or the Hutt.

These upgrades and growth plans are good, but don't neglect the linkage to the Wellington Region who will always be supporting these plans once built/achieved.

With regards to the LGWM. The outcome was that fifth plan (1A) had strong support and is not mentioned above. In addition that study seemed to have a preferred outcome (a new highway through town) which seems in conflict with the current priorities of the government, which makes it doubtful that it will find funding. Our mayor already switched to the new priorities by announcing that LR will come to Wellington but obviously before the council will start anything we will have another government switch, i.e. while LR might have a chance of getting funding now there is no plan whatsoever and LR is not mentioned in this 10-year plan at all. This is in conflict with the statement by LGWM that Wellington will be big enough in 10 years for LR (if you start LR planning only in 10 years LR comes earliest in 20 years, more likely 30 years).

Rising Oceans:

A long term plan should be started on what coastal areas Wellington will defend and which it will be fine with losing to the ocean (in theory most of the area around the harbor could be protected but areas facing south could be too expensive).

Growth:

This to me sounds like a regional problem. Having a second business district either in Hutt or Kapiti and more medium-density housing around train stations has a bigger impact than what can be done within Wellington proper (due to limited space in the center).

Zoo:

200k visitors per year does not sound very impressive.

Movie Museum:

I agree that the land adjacent to Te Papa should be developed.

* the current plans do not show any thinking with regards to north-south traffic (i.e. pedestrians moving between Courtenay and Te Papa/Waterfront)

* I strongly oppose that Sir Peter Jackson will put the risk onto ratepayers. Either he donates his collection to the city (who then builds a museum for it) or he keeps it but then he has to take the risk on for his museum (i.e. no short term lease on the museum if it is build with ratepayers money).

We need to have a goal of 100% recycle as San Francisco does. Why do we not have organic waste recycle facilities - Christchurch does. Need to have strong education programme to reduce waste pollution eg plastic, yet there is nothing in this on any of the above. Water - one simple way to reduce water consumption is to have water meters, many places eg Auckland, Kapiti have this and when its implemented people reduce water use. Water in our taps is not free, it has to be stored, treated etc. Tracks funding comes under environment in council budget, yet from 2016/17 figures tracks are badly underfunded, less than $2m a year for 350km of tracks, why is there no mention of this in the proposals.

Can we not learn from Auckland - urban sprawl and resulting congestion. We need far more apartments and inner city living and if more housing is to be in suburbs FIRST public transport and active transport options need to be integrated not an add on. Go to Helsinki see what they have done. Shelly Bay is proposed yet nothing has been said about transport links. If this is to go ahead there has to be a bus service a one way system - at least from the Cutting to Scorching Bay so a bus service and good cycling and walking provision. Congestion from Eastern Suburbs is already appalling, without better AT and PT options this will get even worse with Shelly Bay development unless changes are made to access.

The Cycle plan is totally underfunded, and time frame way too long. 20 years is ridiculous and the amount planned way too low for real change. Half of this is from NZTA anyway, and represents just $3.6m a year from rates, which judging by the cost of altering the 1.5km of Island Bay (projected $2m) wont provide much protected cycle infrastructure, Lots of green boxes - you cant get to, white lines and sharrows, none of which is safe cycle infrastructure. As you point out the cost per rate payer is just $2.4 per year - less than a bus ticket. There is NOTHING about how you will measure success, eg % reduction in people travelling in private transport into the city, how you are planning on disincentivizing car use, eg congestion charges, reducing parking in CBD.

Why has town hall suddenly increased to $88M, there is no good explanation, just vague justification - This is an increase from the $57 million consulted on in the Long-term Plan 2015-25. The increase is mainly due to increased project contingency and cost escalation. This needs to be consulted on properly with good explanation and an option B.

Loosing more parking to silly folly projects. We have lost Readings carpark, Building by Amori hotel, Building by farmers. Enough.

Years 4-10 is too long to wait for safe cycling in Newtown, there are hundreds of people who cycle through the area at the moment and do so under very stressful and unsafe conditions, it is through sheer luck that there have been no serious accidents involving people on bikes yet. Also, I believe there is latent demand numbering in the thousands, Newtown residents can largely cycle along flat, easy routes into the CBD, but the traffic conditions along Adelaide Rd, Cambridge and Kent Terraces are awful, they completely prioritise private-car traffic flow at the expense of the safety of people on bikes and on foot. Please consider bringing the improvements forward.

I agree with the principles of the SHIP to make better use of existing Council housing sites and increase the number of social and affordable housing units in Wellington, providing the latter actually happens, and they don't end up being chipped away at and becoming the 'oh too regular' 20% affordable and 80% fully commercial developments 'due to market forces' that seem to keep happening around NZ. Shelly Bay should have been one of these, and oh look, it's going to be all commercial, and have council subsidy...

This is equally my concern with the SHA's, that they could end up being just another way to push these 'Shelley Bay like' developments through, against rate payers wishes.

Having read the LGWM consultation documents I am concerned about most of the options, beyond option one. Where is the return on investment coming from? Looking at the figures, most of it seems to be 'head in the cloud' thinking, without any properly thought out cost-to-benefit ratios or realistic financial projections. We can't hope to ever recoup the cost to the taxpayer, plus most of it seems to benefit very specific communities/suburbs with no thoughts or planning whatsoever about other major population areas which have equally pressing transport issues.

Don't get me wrong - I come from a one car family and use my bicycle both to commute on a daily basis, and for virtually all my personal trips - so am all in favour of better public transport and improved cycle routes. However, this shouldn't be at the expense of cars (as so much of the LGWM plan seems to be) but rather complimentary to the road network. We should be making it an easier and a better option to use alternative means of transport, not taking a punitive approach to car drivers ("if we make it bad enough, people will be forced to find another option"). Because people will still choose to drive their cars, and thinking you can change that is a hiding to nothing. Instead, lets make our transport systems work for everyone, and get people out of cars by making other options more attractive.

The movie museum and convention centre is a good idea in principle, but the council need to find better ways to fund this, rather than using rate payers' money. If it's not a viable commercial venture, then it shouldn't be going ahead, and if it is, it should be funded on a commercial basis.

I think Zealandia and other community groups' work to reduce the number of pests (e.g. possums, rats) and to increase native birdlife in the region is exemplary and brings a great sense of pride to this Wellingtonian. I would support a movie museum if it actually supported more than just Peter Jackson, the Weta workshop/digital etc.. It could be a great thing for the industry, and the supporting industry of museum professionals, but the scope is too narrow to Wellington's movie industry elite.

The Zoo projects look great and will be a terrific asset for the city.

I do not believe money invested in a master cycle plan is the best use of rate payers money - particularly as most are unlikely to use them and the benefits therefore limited. Fix what most use - buses, trains and roads. Spend in infrastructure is wisest

I don't know whether the amount of waste going into the land fill is a big issue. We need to be practical about the disposal of waste and not throw good resources after bad!
The Town Belt is a wonderful asste and must be protected. The need for additional land in the town belt should be weighed against the need for more quality housing.

The housing supply is clearly inadequate both in terms of the number of dwellings and the quality of those dwellings. We need to invest in quality dwellings for all members of the community. New Zealand is sparsely populated and Wellington is not a big city. There should be plenty of room for everyone - we should resist the trendy cry to build lots of "tiny houses", we should build houses that people can live in long term.

The paper acknowledges current issues with congestion and highlights that the population will grow. The proposals are heavily biased toward cycling and public transport - even though the paper acknowledges that Wellington already has high participation in cycling and public transport. The paper refers to the Ngauranga/airport corridor but makes no mention of improvements to roads for car and commercial road transport. The topography of Wellington makes cycling difficult for everyone except the young and healthy. We will continue to use cars and congestion will get worse unless we invest in roads.

Given seemingly certain sea level rises I do not wish to have a significant proportion of rates spent shoring up coastal areas for the sake of those who choose to live there. We need to manage a slow retreat rather than a fight with the sea which we can't win in the long term. Those who choose to live at sea level should be clear that they take on that risk personally. There is plenty of higher land in Wellington. Similarly we should focus our transport efforts well above sea level.

While there are the 4 possible scenarios in play (supposedly) I am flabbergasted that all you can come up with is a Cycling Master Plan and Expand Introduction of weekend parking fees. In my humble opinion the fascination with bikes has to stop and focus has to be changed to getting the cars moving. Wellington weather and surrounds doesn't warrant the investment in cycling for a minority.

I would be very interested to see the number of cyclists biking to work from the Eastern Suburbs on a regular basis and compare that to those using cars. Admittedly more could be done to fill up the cars but in this day and age with rules and regulations it seems too hard.

In addition, as far as the eastern suburbs goes, maybe get all those cabs off the road for a well promoted and sensible bus service to and from the airport and surrounds (eg. Auckland). Ever counted how many cabs are littering the route to and from the airport during rush hour.

Earthquake resilience must be a key focus for the city as it is inevitable that wellington will face a major earthquake. I believe there should be a greater focus on teaching people how to react when an earthquake hits. I.e, if I am on tory st when an earthquake hits, what do I do? Water is also key. As well as water supply and wastewater infrastructure, water sensitive urban design must be incorporated into the city to help with flooding by minimising runoff quantity and quality there are options being put to Council at the moment, which because of the slow and cumbersome state of the council housing department, are being lost, and will only cost ratepayer/ council considerably more in the future.

The Council needs to act promptly on opportunities, not spout off about the ideas.

It needs a quick decision making and experience in this department.

Cycling. Not all wellington is suitable for this.

you cannot retro-fit cycle routes into areas that do not work, you need to recognise this.

If you are proposing cycle ways, you also need to increase policing of cycle use, safety, helmets, lights, and restrict cyclists to the cycle lane only.

Currently, all other forms of movement, cars, walking are discriminated against, whereas cycles can use cycle lanes, foot-paths and roads. It needs clarity.

Do not invest in any form of light rail until we have Mt Vic, the Basin and the terrace tunnel sorted, it will only add to the congestion.

Can I assume resilience also includes road networks into and out of the cities within Wellington, if not I feel it should be included (even though I assume you have a transport section) because without transport in a disaster our city can not function at all.

The public and the council have a role to play in housing. If the council invests in newer buildings, multi dwellings etc then they also need to be responsible for the management and the up keep of the buildings and not let the tenants abuse, mistreat, neglect the buildings / investment. People do not always look after something that they do not own and have no respect for the "gifts" they are given. We talk about Warrant of Fitness for the buildings what about binding agreements from the members who reside in the properties. They should have to meet standards as well. As an ex-land lord I have had experience of the horror a tenant can leave. As an ex-renter I know I treated the properties as if they were my own and I have high standards. Things are not always the landlords fault.

As I do not use public transport at this time I feel it is best to leave this section to the users but I do believe that adequate shelters are important for passengers waiting, our buses, trains etc should be of a high standard and well maintained.

My main concern with growth is that we can not afford to grow at the expense of our unique bush environments. I worry that drain water is going to pollute our streams which in general are quite clean where bush surrounds the water ways. We are also building on land that has unique native wild life e.g. green geko with a total disregard to the wider impacts. I am also not happy when I see new subdivisions not keep their sites clean and they do not dispose of their rubbish e.g. their lunches, drink bottles, building site materials etc. They should be penalised if they do not meet a certain standard.

I love it that Wellington always has something on for each type of interest but at this time this is not an area of interest to me. I would not however like to see an over investment in this area when there are so many more immediate issues e.g. no point being known as the "arts capital" if we have sewer, water, basic supply issues.

In regards to waste management reduction, the wellington city council has been saying this for a long time but ive never seen anything actually done about it. I live in Kilbirnie and have been fighting with the council for months to offer recycling, and keep getting told that you dont care about older apartment buildings. Attitudes like this will not help reduce waste.

Please prioritise roading improvements from the Airport to the City. Traffic is getting worse and worse, and to think there is nothing in the 10 year plan means we will be waiting a whole lot longer and it will only get worse. This needs to be a priority.

I believe that the strengthening of our heritage buildings is a crucial part of our city's resilience and our city's culture. Not just the Town Hall and St James but the full range of our buildings, which is why it is really important that the Built Heritage Incentive Fund is reinstated to its former size.
The WCC has talked about an upcoming 'Decade of Culture' and the heritage buildings of our city is a vital part of our culture and how we define our city, so should be included.

I am disappointed that heritage is not mentioned in this area of 'arts and culture' in the 10 year plan consultation document - heritage is crucial to the city's concept of its culture.

Other priorities

Is there anything else you think WCC should be prioritising over the next 10 years?

Comments:

Heritage is underfunded in Wellington, and it is disappointing that the WCC has only 3 heritage staff. In contrast there are 40 heritage staff in Auckland Council. I would suggest that your heritage team is increased to be able to cope with the extraordinary pressures put it while responsible for heritage issues during a time when massive EQ strengthening issues are at play. The role of the heritage team within the council policy decision-making process should also be reviewed to ensure that they have enough of a say in planning and public policy issues.

Also, I think revising and updating the heritage list on the district plan is very much overdue and should be a priority - its heritage list on the district plan has not been revised for 10 years.

Trapping and predator free projects are great ideas, but there needs to be a strong commitment to animal welfare in that though pests, all animals need to be treated with respect and dignity to encourage kind behaviour toward animals.

As part of predator free, the council's Animal Control service provision should include the management of cats (working in collaboration with the SPCA, Cat Fancy, Cats Protection League etc). The council should give consideration to the registration of cats to allow for better statistical analysis and operational effectiveness. This is in addition to cat microchipping. The cat registration would be able to support the cat control function within animal control, as well as ensure funding is available to assist the council meet its obligations under the National Civil Defence Emergency Management Plan Order 2015 to care for disaster affected companion animals.

Owners who have multiple animals are also vulnerable to disasters, therefore if registration of cats was available (understanding this may require additional laws/bylaws), then a permit for owning multiple (i.e. 3 or more) cats could be required and as part of such permitting that the owners provide proof they have sufficient resources to evacuate all animals and care for them in an emergency. This would be world leading if achieved.

There is no significant discussion or projects about emergency management for the city, which is just as critical as infrastructure resilience. There needs to be a strong commitment to WREMO and associated functions within council.

Finally, dog parks are sub-optimal in Wellington City. They are either too small (i.e. Cog Park), or lack drainage making them frequently susceptible to becoming muddy/boggy. There should be more fully fenced dog exercise areas, that also have basic shelter, water tanks and lighting so they can be used for pet friendly evacuation points. Research supports that if the needs of pets are included in evacuation planning including suitable pet friendly spaces, this will lead to improved evacuation compliance rates, thus improving public safety and animal welfare. Again, this could be another world leading initiative that enables Wellington to showcase a project as part of its 100 Resilient Cities programme. These improved dog exercise parks should also have permanent/robust agility obstacles. If you need an exemplar, refer to the Rolleston Dog Park established by Selwyn District Council.

Microchipping although now mandatory for cats (and dogs) in Wellington, should be supported as it is currently. Wellington should aim to be the most desexed and microchipped city in the world (for cats!).

We have a great Mayor and the city is heading in a positive direction. I hope the above, which are not major costs can be included in the 10 year plan.

Kind regards

Steve Glassey

Progressive rollout of cat non-replacement, by proximity to existing and restoring ecological areas (eg Polhill, Wrights Hill, Te Kopahau, etc.

Stop cutting mountain bike tracks through areas of existing and restoring ecological areas!

Rationalise existing public land use with a long term view towards improving the contiguity of ecologically important areas, rather than everything turning into a 'mixed use' recreation space.

Rather than cutting further walking tracks and bike tracks through Te Kopahau (the habitat of one of Wellington's remaining gecko populations) think more about restoring the land, linking it up to Zealandia.

Do not put in a parking fee on the weekends. It is one of the nice things about our little city. This is just revenue gathering and mean spirited. Everything is already going up in price at a constant rate.. this is just chipping away at people more who are already under extreme pressure with the costs today, do you want to literally drive away shoppers from the businesses in Wellington? there is no reason for it. Also where you say... in partnership with others, please feel free to invest in NZ rather than Australian transport companies.

I think a big component of housing is also increasing the build quality of new residences. Currently, most residential houses are only built to current code (which is still substandard when compared to other developed countries). We know that engineers and builders focus on meeting the minimum standards--so why don't we raise those minimums and increase the acceptable bench mark. Housing in New Zealand is woefully substandard, and if you've ever lived in a country in Europe/North America, this is painfully obvious. Encouraging people to build better and build more is fantastic, but we also need to set the standards higher from the get go. For the amount we pay in rent and mortgages, we deserve higher quality, safe, dry homes.

Increased cycle plan will work, but only if it's done right with cycle lanes which are physically separated from other methods of transport. If the roads are too narrow then perhaps you should consider creating a single cycle trunk through the city instead of trying to accomodate cyclists on every single road and street.

Charging a fee to park on weekends will snub economic growth. Nobody that currently drives into the city on the weekend will catch public transport instead.

If you want to increase the use of public transport you should make it cheaper and more reliable, you really need to follow every other large city in the world and replace your manual ticket clippers with automated gates using a single snap on/off card.

A third lane needs to be created going north on SH2 between Ngauranga Interchange and the Petone exit, this will do so much for traffic out of the city during peek times.

There is no mention of motorcycle parking. There is not enough motorcycle parking in the city as it is, and more should be done to promote motorcycles over cars, given that most people only drive with 1 person in a car and they cause much less traffic congestion and use much less parking space. The plan should at least state that motorcycles are excluded from the proposed $2.50 per hour parking fee, and preferably mention an increase in free motorcycle parking spots.

With shifting the parking fees from a business charge to a user charge the net income to the council doesn't change. More people will decide to not bother coming to the CBD and instead choose shops in the suburbs, hurting city businesses. Of course that can also be viewed as a positive for suburban shops.

I'm against the conversion of inner city commercial buildings into residential units. Primarily because these structures are old and likely to require significant maintenance for their remaining lifetime. A push towards new buildings is more economical in the long term.

NOWHERE have you mentioned anything about motorcycles. If you want to get more cars off the roads, invest in more motorcycle awareness, and most importantly MORE MOTORCYCLE PARKS. This is something those of us who help the traffic and ride a motorbike have been saying for years, to no avail.

We constantly overfill the minimal bike parks that there are; even in the colder months these are consistently full these days with all the motorbikes (not to mention scooters).

If you want to help the congestion, encourage those who ride motorbikes, to ride to work. And designate more motorcycle parking arrears for them, in all areas of the cbd.

Alternatively, do like Melbourne, and have footpaths (the edges) available for motorcycle parking. Or any area that is actually not used by pedestrians; currently there are many areas eg on Blair Street, Abel Smith Street, that are considered council land/footpaths where we could effectively park with ease: but we get ticketed if we park there (even though no people actually walk on these spaces!)

Thank you and I hope to see an update.

Compared to other regional centres WCC's recycling programme is severely lacking. Compostable waste needs to be recycled, especially from apartment buildings and cafes in the Central City and E-waste needs attention.
Also clearly marked public rubbish bins allowing for separation of different recyclable materials, eg glass, plastic, paper etc needs to be initiated like they do in Germany.

All moves to improve social housing are excellent.

In addition, any local by-laws that can be passed to help derail the commodification of accommodation should be pursued. In a civilised society housing is a right not an entitlement and exploitation of this human need must be stopped.

Sustainable growth has to be in conjunction with upgraded infrastructure. If more tourists are going to arrive then they have to have to be regulated as National Parks are struggling. This is a National problem but local councils could formulate some kind of a tourist levy and could also initiate/promote a two tiered payment system - one for for tourists and one for locals just as they do in Thailand.

I strongly support investment in the arts and culture, however funding has to be spread across the arts spectrum so that institutions such as opera, ballet, pop and classical music don't receive the bulk of the funding. The underground, experimental and street arts need support as these are the incubators for tomorrow's artists.

I am concerned by comments made by the Council in other forums that there is no place for motorcycles in Wellington's future transport plan. I have been riding a motorcycle for 20 years. I do not have a car licence. I have noticed that motorcycles and scooters are becoming more common around Wellington, and as a result, there is increasing pressure on available motorcycle parking. I agree with the Council's plans to encourage bicycles, public transport, and other environmentally friendly forms of transport. However, that shouldn't mean that Wellingtonians have to give up their motorcycles or fight for parking. Other cities embrace motorcycles and scooters and perhaps there is some way to accommodate many different types of transport and many different types of Wellingtonians. There are many motorcyclists in Wellington that would be happy to engage with the Council and help find a solution (or solutions).

With regards to strengthening Council buildings and cultural facilities, strengthening makes sense if it is the best option economically and for safety reasons. I don't believe we should be saving heritage buildings just because they are heritage buildings. I think there are far more pressing issues that local government money (rates) can be spent on. If constructing new (and safer) buildings and facilities is more economically viable, then i think that option should be investigated.

It would be great to see more accommodation of motorcycle and scooter riders, especially more parking, but also some education for other road users so there is no antagonisation where motorcycle/scooters are legally using bus lanes for example. These vehicles are excellent for cutting-down traffic and parking congestion, and as more manufacturers add electric two-wheelers, they will help to improve pollution as well

Motorbikes should be included in any planning, this is an area where more work is required, Car parking buildings should also accommodate bikes, increase the number of free parking for bikes, and would encourage single driver cars off the road reducing congestion. We should like some cities in Australia allow bikes to park conditional on them not blocking pedestrians access to walkways.

Spending should be minimised and subsidised over a longer period from existing budgets. Zoo's are obsolete and we should be working towards creating a Zoolandia type area there and retiring the exotic animals or moving them to other zoos. Urban development should be funded by those building in new areas or by new houses, with Transmission Gully opening land up Porirua council and other areas North of the city are creating new subdivisions and a regional wide approach should be undertaken minimising the increase in population within Wellington city, rail to the Wairarapa should be electric, and Electric trains extended to Otaki overtime.

I do not support the spending of public money on Shelley Bay, nor helping heritage building owners. If private developers are going to develop and sell real estate in Shelley Bay they should be responsible for provision of services such as water and sewerage. Owners of heritage buildings should be helped financially only so far as there is a direct benefit to the public and the building owners do not benefit financially e.g Council funds given to heritage building owners unable to meet their obligations, should elicit a corresponding proportion of the ownership of the building for the public i.e. The Council should be allocated a proportion of the ownership relative to the Council's contribution.

There is gaping hole with regards to plans for motorcyclists. There is ample evidence written already about the benefits of motorcycling on congestion and productivity gains. Where are the plans on reviewing motorcycle parking spaces? You can fit 5 or 6 motorcycles into a single car space easily. For someone who commutes every day, it is very clear that most cars are single-occupant vehicles. Take a leaf out of Auckland Transport's book and actually have a pro-active strategy. I want my rates to go towards better providing for motorcyclists in the city.

I would like to see the a section of Kenmore Street (between Horokiwi Rd W and Bancroft Tce) functionally widened to allow traffic to flow freely in both directions. This could include yellow no-parking lines along one side of the road, or reducing the berm. Kenmore is significant collector road and due to cars parking on both sides of the road this section of the road is regularly (like most of the time) reduced to one way traffic, with cars having to give way to each other to use the road. Regards, Newlands Resident.

With the Special Housing Area proposal, there was a caveat that buildings couldn't be more than 6 stories high. I'd be interested to know whether that would limit the potential capacity a developer might otherwise build to.

The Prince of Wales Park reservoir I believe is a good idea. The issues I have are how long the construction will take and its thereby its impact on birds migrating away from Zealandia. Kaka have been found in POWP, and I think long term construction noise could be a slight conflict in the council's interest of having the birds continue to rise in numbers. However, if it is completed over the winter period before November, I think its disturbance of birds will be minimal and thus a great asset to the city. In terms of the Water Security Supply, I tend to agree with it, but I also know that aquifers are a non-renewable resource (over our lifetime). I would urge the council to have strict management on the use of the aquifer's water, and that it should only be accessed in times of dire need - and even then, it should be distributed rationally.

For the SHAs, I am a little uneasy. I would not like to see housing developments just popping up like they have done in Auckland. If they are to do so, they should be carefully planned so that they are pedestrian friendly, community-based, and include all facilities for a neighbourhood to function in isolation (if it chooses to do so). Investment in sustainable planning should be implemented for these SHAs. For the Whare Oki Oki, I think talking to some of those homeless people or at least talking to the people who are talking to them would be really helpful. If we can understand what it is that they really need, then we can plan a proposal that isn't just chucking some roofs over their heads and waiting for a thankyou letter. If that makes sense?

I believe reducing car usage should be a priority, but weekend parking fees isn't going to solve it. We should instead be prioritising serious considerations of the Light-Rail project (a brand new, traffic skipping project is an awesome way to get people into the city), more/smarter motorcycle parking (encouraging those with bikes to bring their partners in as pillions and reduce congestion), and more research into how to encourage people to reduce car usage. I am no expert in environmental psychology, but whilst studying it at university I learnt that there is no be-all-and-end-all solution to solving any environmental problem. At the base of this, there is a continuum upon which people sit, between altruism and egoism. Those who are more altruistic will respond well when they are shown the effect of their actions on other people, the environment, or the economy. Those more towards the egoistic side will respond more with empirical evidence on how it is going to help them be better off. These have no correlation with socio-economic status, where you were brought up, or where you live. It's a tough challenge, but I urge you to begin. I dream of a city that is clean, peaceful, and public transport driven - look at Curitiba in Brazil for inspiration! The egoism-altruism scale is just the start of it, there are plenty of journal articles out there that can be studied to help rethink the concept of a car-free city.

My concern for the Planning Growth is that it will result in rapidly built housing establishments, which aren't sustainably planned. My concerns are the same as I mentioned earlier about fast-tracking housing approval.

The quarry is certainly necessary to reduce emissions, and having a local source of income. However, I would like to be shown how the areas will be dealt with after the resources are exhausted. Will it be regenerated into native forest to assist in the Predator Free Wellington movement? Or left as it is - a hole in the ground?

Lastly, I support the zoo bringing in more local, intranational and international tourism, but at what cost? What animals will be brought in? Are they endangered? Are these subpopulations helpful to recovering the endangered species' number? I can guarantee you if they are rhinoceros, there is more harm than good being done having them in a zoo.

We must address the issue that we have with public transport to and from the airport. The Airport Flyer (91) is now being discontinued.. there is going to be no easy way for people to get into Wellington central bar taking an expensive taxi. Lots of talk about cars, but how about motorbikes? They are becoming more and more common - yet there is hardly any support for them within Wellington. People resort to riding because it is cheaper and more convenient, but it feels like the price of registration etc just keep on rising and the convenience of being able to park easily in central town is fading with designated motorcycle parks filling up instantly. Public transport should be the number one priority as we aim for a more environmentally-friendly and less-congested city, but the fact is that it won't ever work for everybody.. so why not support people to make better decisions like riding motorbikes instead of taking up a whole car for themselves. Cheers

Tawa and Miramar stormwater improvements are part of council's core business and I approve of these being in the plan. Investment in core infrastructure in Shelley Bay should be a cost for any developer, not for the ratepayer, so I do not approve of this cost being in the plan. Your survey puts these disparate items together, so I can't indicate that I approve of one type of expenditure but not the other!

Housing is really the province of central government, with regard to both legislation and funding. Council has a role to play in liaising with central government, and with charitable agencies, to facilitate what they do in this area.

Spending money on the necessary maintenance of, and improvement to, infrastructure such as the bus fleet and bus shelters, is fine. Other changes proposed, such as changes to bus routes and introduction of weekend parking fees, will make access around the city worse rather than better. Light rail would be a white elephant - expensive and disruptive during construction, then ultimately available about the time it becomes obsolete, as electric and driverless cars become the convenient new norm!

It would be great to do something progressive with sewage, like use it to grow stuff. It would also be great to see more natural infrastructure used (wetlands) for managing things like stormwater and wastewater. While storm clean up is obviously needed I completely oppose investing in protecting parts of the city (especially the coast) from events that are only more likely in the future with climate change. We need to have a discussion about managed retreat from the south coast and some other erosion prone areas. I also oppose investing any more in roads until we have a decent cycle network. Let the road users pay by hiking parking fees please. Please please meter our water so the biggest users can pay the extra infrastructure they are causing to be built.

I note you aren't consulting on strengthening buildings as part of this...

FYI This form would be a lot easier to fill out if the costs were included within rather than having to cross reference. Just saying since I am doing this on insanely slow wifi in Argentina.

The council should spin out its housing into a democratically run but stand alone Community Housing Organisation. This would be able to leverage private sector funding to achieve the Council's goals. Council land could be part of this deal. The CHO could also access Income Related Rents.

The Housing Strategy is a joke if it doesn't include these 2 points:

- shifting the basis of rates to unimproved value of land as an incentive to develop land in the Capital.
- building on Berhampore Golf Course. Refusing to do this is elitist.

The rental warrant of fitness is being picked up by Government - no need for Council here.

As mentioned I oppose any improvements in the roading network until we have a viable cycle network. For that reason I oppose the parts of the Transport related initiatives relating to roading (but not those relating to public transport).

Parking fee revenues should reflect the opportunity cost of that land. Jack 'em up.

The Council's proposal for Get Welly Moving (option D) is completely unrealistic - the Govt won't fund it. We need to focus on public transport - light rail to the airport is the best we can hope for not the gold plated wish list of roads the GWM has put forward. Build a great big parking lot in the rail yards so out of towners can ditch their cars there (if they insist on driving in the first place).

20 April 2018

Wellington City Council
101 Wakefield Street
Wellington 6011

Dear Sirs,

Submission on Wellington City Council Long Term Plan 2018-28

Mexted Performance Sports Surfaces specialises in the drainage, construction and maintenance of natural and artificial playing surfaces for all sporting codes.

We are based in the Wellington region, and for many years have provided sports turf services to Wellington City Council by way of playing field construction, drainage and seasonal renovation work. We welcome the opportunity to comment on WCC's Long Term Plan.

Sports field maintenance and capital works: Mexteds supports continued investment in the city's sports fields. This applies to both new and existing sports fields.

Council has identified the need to address the challenges of climate change, and we note on page 17 of the LTP Council has made allowance for $2 million capital expenditure for Year 1 to address the impact of significant weather events on parks, reserves and other network infrastructure.

Mexteds believes adequately budgeting for annual sports field capital improvements and operational maintenance will ensure the Council achieves its performance objectives for these important community facilities in the face of climate change, particularly in terms of usage, cancellations etc, as well as extending the overall life of the fields, thus maximising the investment in Council assets.

Based on our specialist knowledge, we suggest Council's maintenance budget should allow for $30,000 of annual expenditure for each high-performance, sand-based sports field, and $5,000 - $15,000 for a soil-based community sports field, depending on usage. (This excludes mowing.)

A best practice maintenance regime includes Spring and Autumn renovations including fertilising, under-sowing, weed control and decompaction. In addition, for a high-performance sand-based field twice-yearly sand spreading is required.

As a rule of thumb, parks will also need a total appraisal to check on the functioning of the drainage and irrigation systems every five years, using a specialist consultant or contractor, as part of the capital planning cycle.

Sports field usage: For planning purposes, we wish to bring to Council's attention the usage guidelines from the NZ Sports Turf Institute, as published in its Autumn 2018 NZ Turf Journal.

- For a soil field, recommended use is 2-4 hours senior use in winter and <10 hours in summer. At this rate of usage, the risk of closure still remains 'very high'.
- For a sand carpet or full sand profile field, 5-12 hours senior use in winter and 10-15 hours in summer. Risk of closure is minimal and the playing quality is consistent.
- For hybrid turf, 20-23 hours senior use winter/summer. Risk of closure is minimal and the playing quality is consistent.
- For synthetic fields, unlimited usage. Risk of closure is negligible and playing quality is consistent.

If demand for usage is exceeding these hours, then given the Council may wish to look at increasing the total number of parks, or upgrading community-level fields to higher-performing sports surfaces. This can be achieved through installation of primary and/or secondary drainage and irrigation in soil-based fields, or upgrading to higher performing sand-carpet or sand-based fields.

Thank you for the opportunity to contribute to this aspect of planning for Wellington City's future.

Yours faithfully

Cameron Mexted, B.Const (Quantity Surveying)
General Manager

We already have a convention center in wellington. We dont a movie museum for $165million. Again, put money towards essential things like housing, waste management, poverty. Please spend on essential items and projects, no point in more recreational things by increasing our rates/bills. We have mouths to feed and the little money we spend on recreation, but not if you take that money away from us

Wellington needs a transport system that actively encourages sustainable choices without alienating the vulnerable and compromising accessibility. Cycling is an excellent choice but needs to be bolstered with a convenient, affordable and reliable public transport system that makes single-person car use unnecessary. At this point it is still faster to walk across the CBD than get a bus, it is impossible to travel from some suburbs on weekends, and getting to the airport or out of the city is an absolute chore if not done by car. We need a system that makes this possible - with the understanding that it is pointless and destructive if the people who want to use cannot afford to due to an unrealistic fare system.

My husband and I had been renters in the CBD for the last 10 years. In December of last year we needed to move and couldn't afford to stay in the city. In addition to the rising costs, there are other contributing factors to the inability to find suitable housing in the CBD. We have noticed a trend in the new flats being built. They cater to students and young professionals. The rooms are small with inadequate storage. In many two bedroom flats that we looked at, only one bedroom had a closet! I think it's important that the supply of flats accommodate different age groups, so the CBD remains a vibrant city. It's us older folks who are making Wellington our home and plan to stay, and no all of us want to be homeowners.

Actually that's another point. There are people who prefer to be renters. However oftentimes it's just too hard. There's very little stability in the rental market here. Coming from the US, we lived in flats for an average of 4-5 years. Here we have had to move every year for the last four years.

I strongly support a rental warrant of fitness. However I think it needs to be tempered and focus on the truly important things, such as mold and insulation. It shouldn't be too onerous for the owners. At the same time owners shouldn't be able to rent flats that endanger people's health and safety.

I strongly oppose the movie museum and convention centre. First, if Sir Peter Jackson wants a home for his movie memorabilia, then he should pay for it. Second, projects such as convention centres have an optimism bias about how much money they will bring to the community.

I would like to see more bus lanes on the run up to intersections that clog up during rush hour, e.g. on the northern side of the Hutt Road, heading into the Kaiwharawhara traffic lights. These are small fixes that collectively make a major difference to the speed, efficiency and reliability of bus routes.

Wellington Zoo should focus on showcasing a smaller range of habitats, and should get rid of the roaming carnivore animals that are caged up in there, e.g. cheetah and tiger.

The movie museum and convention centre should focus more on providing a quality conference venue, and not subsidise the movie museum part too much. The museum should only be publicly funded to the extent needed to ensure it eventually becomes self-funding - which probably means making it more commercialised.

Do you have any other comments?

Wellington is not NZ's cultural capital. A lot of arts are supported here, and that's fine, but there's no need to make this a competition with extra funding. Auckland already supersedes Wellington in arts and culture, purely because of its size.

Arts funding should be focused on events that can be enjoyed by large sectors of the ratepaying public, e.g. the LUX light festival and summertime concerts - not specialist, esoteric arts.

The proposals appear prudent. Our civic infrastructure needs maintenance and growth. This section speaks at length about water resilience. It ought to speak to energy resilience as well. The council should strengthen its commitment to sustainability. In particular the council should require renewable energy generation on site for all of its buildings.

We should all be greatly ashamed that these badly needed housing initiatives receive so little attention in the overall plan. We're proposing to raise an extra $226 per residence per year to pay maintenance on our pipes. We're proposing $165 million for a convention centre, another $90 million each for an indoor arena and an expansion at the airport. The housing crisis, clearly the most important issue facing our city and society today, receives an extra $13 per residence per year. Those ratios ought to be reversed. Our council exists to support the people of Wellington, not to support its buildings.

Like LGWM, this transport plan badly misses the mark. The answer to transport and growth in Wellington is expansion of public transport. We ought to be funding light rail from Karori to Miramar via the CBD.

These initiatives are not a priority for me. If the council funds them, then the council should be sure to obtain assets in return for its investment. The airport is not a charity, and every dollar the council provides should in return for shares in the airport. If the council funds the convention centre, the council should own the convention centre.

I strongly, strongly support the Rental Warrant of Fitness. Living in Wellington is expensive and to be honest, we're (Renters) getting totally ripped off. Health issues not only due to coldness and dampness but also due to Seasonal Affective Disorder are totally real and rife. I paid $160 (no bills) in 2015 to live in a Ghetto that hadn't been visited by the landlords (or rental company) in 5 years.

I strongly support living options for homeless, I can't believe it costs to stay in the shelters, that is a shocker.

That Movie Museum money could go a long way in supporting local arts. Wellington doesn't need another convention centre (from my Event Manager perspective) and certainly doesn't need to attract people here for film tourism because Weta already does that.

I am personally less interested in the venues mentioned because those are very international or large scale in the performances they present/host. I am more interested in more funding for theatre companies and theatres like BATS theatre and similar, that hold up local projects.

Comments:

If Wellington wants to remain the Arts Capital, we've got to fight for it because many artists (theatre, film, visual, music) move to Auckland due to lack of opportunity here. Graduates of Toi Whakaari for example, move straight up there! What a shame!! I

Make water supply and waste a household initiative by rates incentives so people collect and dispose of water/waste by investing in they own systems on site instead of stressing the city's infrastructure

Could we please support bus drivers and prevent the mowing down of pedestrians?

Could we teach pedestrians to stop look listen when using zebra crossings and not to launch themselves on to them causing cars to have to do emergency stops?

For our fee paying school children using trains could we stop them being bullied by adults and grumpy train staff who make them stand with heavy bags even when there are seats available? Please stop treating them like second class citizens - they have actually paid half fare and don't travel free. They re looking to adults as role models for etiquette. Please be kind to my children when they travel even if you are in a bad mood. They have feelings too.

John Key said Wellington was dying. Please don't let this be a self fulfilling prophecy. Lets keep it vibrant and eclectic and connected and a place international artists want to visit.

We also need to publicise the arts more and all Wellington events - often they are publicised too late if at all. There is a lot going on in Wellington but many people find out after the event.

It has been said that some artists don't come to Wellington as booking venues is not made easy for them and this has gone on for some time? A trip/flight to Auckland from Wellington to see an artist can run into $1000 for one overnight stay. Lets be that globally competitive destination. Lets make it easier for artists to come to Wellington. We are the cultural capital. Lets invest in this. If Wellington can host WOW it can host anything.

When artists do come the press can often be so critical and don't represent the ticket paying majority who enjoy their shows and really value them making the trip to entertain us and see our city. Press release the next day can be unfairly negative.

Stop the press hunting artists down and asking the public for sightings e.g. recently Scarlett Johanssen. Let Wellington be a place they can relax like it used to be before camera phones and social media. The farce of extensively publicising Kate Winslet buying a dress in Paganini during her visit here. Lets be a bit different to the rest of the world - when a good bloke like Ed Sheehan says he loves it here lets not let newsreaders glibly announce he is "sucking up". They don't represent the people and don't make us proud.

Other priorities

Is there anything else you think WCC should be prioritising over the next 10 years?

Comments:

More community centres with enjoyable appropriate entertainment for under 18's and the over 75's with paid staff and volunteers.

Day centres /playgroups in every suburb each day of the week for pre school children so mothers don't have to sit in small

I strongly support the idea of inner-city building conversion. Any such conversions should be carried out thoughtfully to produce well designed spaces that are really livable (like the converted Tea Store on Egmont St or Hannah's building on Eva St).

I support the idea of more medium density housing and believe it should be mixed use (social, affordable and commercially available). But again I this needs to be done thoughtfully with a strong design focus over space-optimization or economic priorities. I live next to the Arlington apartments, and while I know there were issues with these buildings, they are thoughtfully designed and are somewhat iconic; the ones being constructed across Hopper St in place of them seem less livable, less community-focussed and much less interesting as part of the urban landscape.

I would encourage more council owned housing that employed principles in use in places such as the Star Apartments (in Freeman's Bay, Auckland), which makes use of open, shared green space between buildings, concentrated parking, irregular orientation of buildings to improve privacy while making good use of natural light.

Such medium density housing projects may be well suited not only to the central city but also the nearby suburbs where good public transport links exist or will be established.

I hope that there is thought being given to an integrated ticketing system for public transport across the region. It's frustrating that when I need to change busses I may have to pay for the same zone twice or my be using two entirely different ticketing system provided by different companies.

I'd love to see transport improvements in an even shorter timeframe. The current 35 is way too long for delivery of the Cycling Plan, but even the proposed 20 years seems too long. Is it out of the question to aim for 10 years?

Do something to ease congestion on Cobham drive / Mt Vic tunnel , airport users won't cycle there and the proposed Shelly bay development will only add to the traffic. Widen the terrace tunnel.
Increase motorcycle parking in the city , there is never enough space and these users take up far less space than a car and I'm sure less polluting

Acknowledgement of the fact that Lyall Bay is Wellington's main surf beach and that the number of people surfing in Lyall Bay has increased dramatically over the past decade. This has resulted in a rapid commercial growth & gentrification of the suburb. Steps need to be taken by the council to protect Lyall Bay's natural assets, including the surf breaks and anything that may affect the surf breaks & the natural beauty of the beach.

I strongly believe that an extension of that Wellington airport runway will damage the surf breaks & natural beauty of Lyall Bay beach. Besides the pollution that reclamation will create, there is also the possible loss of the surf breaks, a whole cities surf culture & the surrounding industry, including a community's sense on identity.

One just has to look back not too far back in history at the effect that extending the breakwater in Napier had on its beaches. The sand disappeared leaving a rocky shoreline & currents making swimming dangerous.

I think if you want to hold on to your identity as New Zealand's cultural capital more needs to be done to support local artists, creatives & musicians. It's not all about the big art institutions & bringing in international shows.

Many artists, musicians & other creatives (including teachers & teachers of art & music) are leaving Wellington in favour of other regional towns, where they are able to afford to live, buy a home, and afford studio space.

Studio space is unaffordable & there are hardly any available studio spaces left in the city. The available footprint of affordable space has been long overtaken by other commercial ventures. Local universities churn out hundreds of young creative graduates every year that find the realities of being a creative in Wellington too daunting & either leave or go into other careers.

I feel that Wellington needs to do more to support artists & especially new and emerging artists. This could be in the form of subsidised studio space for recent graduates, making buildings available as studio space for artists, creatives & musicians, allowing artists to be independent, grow their practice & become part of Wellington's commercial community.

If you do not help artists, creatives & musicians thrive in Wellington, the city will lose its authenticity, identity and become just another hollow assimilated city.

To accomodate now and future population growth, the Mount Victoria car tunnel -built to cater for the minimal traffic of the 1930's- needs to be widened or have a parallel tunnel built. It is also the main route to the airport and part of Stateway 1. No point keeping your head in the sand about it.

It would be great to do something progressive with sewage, like use it to grow stuff. It would also be great to see more natural infrastructure used (wetlands) for managing things like stormwater and wastewater. While storm clean up is obviously needed I completely oppose investing in protecting parts of the city (especially the coast) from events that are only more likely in the future with climate change. We need to have a discussion about managed retreat from the south coast and some other erosion prone areas. I also oppose investing any more in roads until we have a decent cycle network. Let the road users pay by hiking parking fees please. Please please meter our water so the biggest users can pay the extra infrastructure they are causing to be built.

I note you aren't consulting on strengthening buildings as part of this...

FYI This form would be a lot easier to fill out if the costs were included within rather than having to cross reference. Just saying since I am doing this on insanely slow wifi in Argentina.

The role of Council is in facilitating development, not providing housing.

The council should spin out its housing into a democratically run but stand alone Community Housing Organisation. This would be able to leverage private sector funding to achieve the Council's goals. Council land could be part of this deal. The CHO could also access Income Related Rents.

The Housing Strategy is insufficient if it doesn't include these 2 points:

- shifting the basis of rates to unimproved value of land as an incentive to develop land in the Capital.
- building on Berhampore Golf Course. Refusing to do this is elitist.

The rental warrant of fitness is being picked up by Government - no need for Council here. It was a good idea tho!

As mentioned I oppose any improvements in the roading network until we have a viable cycle network. For that reason I oppose the parts of the Transport related initiatives relating to roading (but not those relating to public transport).

I strongly support cycling and public transport. You need to split them out from spending on roads in your options.

Parking fee revenues should reflect the opportunity cost of that land. Jack 'em up.

The Council's proposal for Get Welly Moving (option D) is completely unrealistic - the Govt won't fund it. We need to focus on public transport - light rail to the airport is the best we can hope for not the gold plated wish list of roads the GWM has put forward. Build a great big parking lot in the rail yards so out of towners can ditch their cars there (if they insist on driving in the first place).
