These are all "plaster over the crack" fixes. Housing issues are a consequence of excessive restrictions on development. The only true solution is to sort out the unnecessary road blocks. Wellington should be pressuring Central government to reform the RMA and working with its neighbouring councils to reduce the onerous district plan requirements. "Special Housing Areas" or "Special Housing Vehicles" are tool to fast track to a broken system (the RMA) - Why not just fix the system instead of dreaming up costly short cuts?

Cycle ways are nice but bikes do not fund a city's economic prosperity. If you sort the roads, people, trucks and goods can be moved around. This will result in greater efficiency thus greater business confidence - business will boom. If business booms, money rolls in. If money rolls in, you can build all the cycle ways you want.

You cant just jump to step 3 with out sorting the basics.

Plus the current transport plans are not thinking big enough - upgrades around the basin won't future proof us, it'll just solve today's problem. the Vic tunnel has had it's used by date, it's too high and cant be integrated with a modern transport solution. Think bigger. the city needs a 4 lane tunnel under the full city - it'd only need to be 3km!! then you'd be sorted for 50 years instead of 5.

Transport and infrastructure should be the Number 1 priority. A close second should be a significant reduction in the never ending wasteful spending and the ill-thought-out ideas, such as island bay cycleway and the Tory street one way system. WCC productivity review (external) and subsequent improvements and cost saving would be a 3rd. 4th a reduction in planning red tape.

I'm not sure that it's necessary for the reservoir built on the hill where we walk, run or sit on the bench because we will lose going this way everytime we go through Prince of Wales park. I'd suggest it can be built by the hills where we walk with covered trees.

Comments:

As a progressive city, Wellington should be leading the way in EV (Electric Vehicles). Provide more incentives for residents to purchase EV's, provide special council parking spaces with fast chargers, especially at popular locations like Te Papa, Cuba St, the zoo, and train stations.

This will help reduce inner city pollution and reduce dependence on foreign oil by tapping into our clean grid.

I feel that trying to be the first City to be predator free is not an urgent matter. I don't agree with people administering traps in their neighbourhood, due to the fact domestic cats can easily become trapped. Regions have always lived with predator animals and life goes on without this priority to eradicate. It could easily become obsessive and encourage people perhaps in an abusive way to take eradication unnecessarily into their own hands. The resilience of the transport corridor could quite well need more expensive work done once this new bus strategy, which is due to start in July, radically changes routes. It will be a complete shambles as it represents a poorly planned and confusing map. Not beneficial to the City public transport users with such dramatic changes.

Very good to help the more vulnerable in Society. However, I would not like to see Wellington dominated by these proposed building schemes for cheaper housing. It could spoil the appearance of the City. However the new Taranaki St and Hopper St apartments look quite stylish. Therefore the complexes need to be of sound quality and monitored in numbers.

I do not support the proposed change commencing in July. It is unfair to elderly bus users, disabled and young Mothers, who all carry shopping and will have to change to 2 buses. This, in itself, is definitely not an improvement. The plan seems to favour the young and city workers. Even they will not enjoy standing around waiting to connect to their 2nd bus before 30 minutes (hopefully if they are not full already), so they won't have to pay another fare. There will be more cars on the road if this is going to be the new regime for bus travel. It is a very poorly planned way of keeping the City congestion free.

Our zoo is a wonderful asset to retain. I feel the Micheal Fowler Centre is an adequate venue and can't really see a proposed new convention centre built so close, to be an advantage.

Comments:

Listen to the ratepayers a lot more and inform them. There are so many bus users who know very little about the July changes and who did not know how to make comments about the change. There will be complete confusion when introduced all at once and not bit by bit .Keep rates as low as possible, even if it means prioritising less on some of the above.

Reduce waste collection to bi-weekly or even monthly to encourage people to find a way to compost or buy less. Drinking water is critical in an emergency situation but don't forget to include the outer suburbs.

Landlords and Rental Agencies are getting away with poor maintenance whilst increasing rents. My salary hasn't increased in years yet I am forced to pay more - 55% of my salary is spent on rent. Yet it took 4 months for the agency to get a leaking roof fixed. They say increasing rent is keeping it in line with market rates but why are they increasing? Landlords need to realise owning a property is a business and a long-term investment. I don't exist to pay for their luxury holidays.

Comments:

Most people who drive into the CBD say it's cheaper than taking public transport. So by making it cheaper and easier for people to take the bus or train is the only way you will convert people who are addicted to driving to work. Substantially increase parking charges Monday - Friday, but don't penalise the weekend shoppers and tourists - keep those days free.

I also believe WCC need to realise the advantage of people riding motorcycles into the CBD. Imagine if everyone of those decided to drive instead. So provide more free parking for motorcycles and realise that electrically powered motorcycles will become popular, so don't forget to install charging zones for bikes too.

More community gardens. Less homeless. Perhaps a local currency to support the circular economy. More maker spaces. More incentives/infrastructure to compost organic waste- introduce a third bin for organic waste. Increase the cost of landfill. Ban plastic bags.

Comments:

Development of new housing projects specifically encouraging co-housing development with community-led development providers, supporting their development and encouraging the open sourcing of templates and models for use here and abroad.

Instead of supporting more expensive and centralised water and energy infrastructure, incentivising existing homes and building to install water and energy capture and storage systems to increase resilience and reduce costs for all parties

Alongside subsidies for community-led trapping, I would like to see more subsidies for community-led ecological planting initiatives to help combat erosion and promote greater endemic biodiversity and community resilience.

Urban developments that incorporate flora should require a high percentage (>70%) of native trees, shrubs and herbs be planted - both deciduous and evergreen. Fruit trees and other human-edible species should also be prioritised ahead of other exotic species.

B (security of water supply) I think WCC should move faster on water supply resilience before building concert hall!
C (Stormwater clean-up) I have advocated for over 5 years now WCC should be building seawalls @CBD, both sides of Lyall Bay and Island Bay = $1billion over 30 years. Go for the big picture before we all get flooded by climate change.

having cheaper options for housing for people who are unable to pay for the prices that are just getting higher and also for students how don't move out from the parents because rent is too high. I also think that music and the arts should be taught from primary school because there are not many music students at my school because they don't want to start when their 13/14 a have to learn everything but if it started at a younger age then the art and culture in the city would grow. They should also build a venue to hold concerts inside so that you do not need to spend lots of money flying to Auckland or even Australia to see a singer perform. There should be more music events every year and they should be free or be very cheap so that everyone can go not just the rich people of Wellington and if they have more events then younger children would get into the arts and that could help it grow.

I totally support more investment in improving wastewater systems. It is such a shame that it is not necessarily safe to swim at some beaches following heavy rainfall due to possible sewage contamination - beaches should be a public asset and this can't be good for marine wildlife. The Wellington town belt is a city treasure and I am completely on board with preserving these areas and bringing back native birds. Re heritage building - it is important to maintain some historic buildings, but we also need space for new homes and facilities. I think the delays on VUW being able to purchase land and demolish old buildings on the Terrace (near Ghuznee) is ridiculous. Re Coastal Resilience - I said not sure as I support natural coastal resilience e.g. planting dunes at Island Bay

I don't know anything about SHAs so left that one blank. Housing is a critical issues though. Our rental housing stock is of a very low quality - every flat bar one which I've lived in (8 in total now) has been freezing cold in winter, which can make you more susceptible to colds and is generally a drag on you mentally. Some friends could should horror stories. There is a shortage of houses for sale and rent. Early this year my previous flat was sold and I was looking for a new place over the Jan -March peak season. It was incredibly stressful and that was for a relatively privileged 24 year old with no dependents and a full-time job. It would be absolutely merciless for, say, disabled people needing an accessible flat or single parents with children. It's also too prohibitively expensive for most people of my generation to purchase a first home in the city. Because of this, reliable public transport links to Lower and Upper Hutt and Porirua are crucial.

Also incredibly important! I bike in from Berhampore most days - it is fantastic cycling on the waterfront, and I choose back roads where I can, but some sections are really gnarly e.g. Tory Street b't Courtney Place and Vivian Street. (I love the changes to lower Tory by the way, so long as we are able to bike southwards, it's very aesthetically pleasing and the outdoor seating areas seem to be well used on sunny days). Also, bikes and buses don't go well together in share lanes - it's very intimidating as a cyclist being followed by a huge, noisy bus, but if you're behind a bus you get a face full of gross diesel fumes every time the bus leaves the bus stop.

Things I love about Wellington as a young professional:

The city is relatively compact, so it's easy to get around on bus, on foot and by bike. I've not needed to buy a car yet and I've lived here now for 7 years.

There are lots of cool green spaces and the sea is always close by. Favourites include the Botanical Gardens, South Coast e.g. Red Rocks, Makara MTB park, Otari-Wilton Bush, Mount Albert Tracks, Oku Reserve, Mount Victoria, Miramar Peninsula, Manawa Karori.

The university has an active presence in the city and there are lots of people close in age to me (it's unlike some NZ towns and cities that are dominated by a middle aged/elderly population).

Job opportunities, esp in public service and corporates

Political scene and international connections aka you feel like you're living in an exciting place where things are happening

Multiculturalism way more multicultural than, say, Dunedin and Christchurch

Festivals (heaps in summer :) :) very creative and vibrant), good cinemas, Circa Theatre, night markets, NZSO concerts :)

This is what has kept me in Wellington after graduating, in spite of the awful rental properties and ruthless property managers, completely unaffordable houses and miserable winters!

I'm all for retaining Wellington's character, but why subsidise commercial or private building owners to upgrade their tired buildings. In a city known for its earthquake risk and history, are they not incentivised enough to look after their investments? I thought they'd already been given time extensions to meet new building codes so they didn't have to outlay all at once?

Comments:

Business growth and housing growth.

While having more people come to the capital is great, there's little in the way to encourage much greater, substantial business growth in Wellington.

Given the cost of running a business in cities like Auckland, why hasn't there been a flood of corporate offices back to Wellington. Staff costs must also be less here.

We should be encouraging medium density housing hubs in areas like Johnsonville, Karori, Newtown, and Kilbirnie. With ensuring adequate transport to the CBD with two lanes of roads in and out. I'll explain further in the next section.

Private vehicle ownership and even human controlled vehicles will diminish quite rapidly in the next 10-30 years. We need to build infrastructure to handle the current increases and when that naturally starts to reduce we can reclaim that for dedicated public transport lanes and cycle lanes.

We're putting the horse before the cart currently. Cycling from the outer suburbs is not a viable option for 99.5% of the public currently and still won't be for 95% of the public in 30 years. We need roads that will serve our current and future needs while planning viable public transport to replace the need for and technological reduction of as many cars on the road.

Then there's the elephant in the room of no rail to the airport. How are we going to achieve any of the transport plans of visitors have to rent a car of they want to move around the city?

And on the airport note, it needs to be two lanes in and out to the motorway. The basin is such a bottleneck for transport, especially to the hospital. Either divert around it completely or be unpopular but right and deal with it directly.

I think it's really up to Weta to promote that aspect themselves unless we want to just be the place that made LOTR a long time ago. That ship has already sailed and unless Wellington attracts new productions we're not really Wellwood.

We're not going to change the world and how it works. We need to plan for what's needed now and likely in 10 years, while trying to make sure that plan is adaptable to what changes are likely over the next 30 years.

Raising parking fees on weekend is a good start but is not enough, this needs to be done in concert with parking providers in city and the property owners that build/own parking garages to change the incentive structure more generally - reduce the business value of running a parking lot! Also needs to be done with employers public, private and non-profit to give employee discounts for using public transport.

The transport system needs to merge to one single payment card, like so many other cities around the world have done - so that payment on train/all bus lines/bay ferries are all on the same system. this will allow you to use transfer system between transit - no one should pay twice when they are less than 20-30 minutes between transportation!

Clean air your testing stations are not enough, there are many areas of wellington and greater wellington.

Which do not have clean air due to wood burning fires, these are located in valleys, and due to weather conditions smoke can sit in these valleys Areas of concern are Stokes Valley, Aratarawa, Pinehaven, Featherston etc.

The rate programe for clean air, for clean heat should be extended to these areas.

We should look into sustainable architecture options wherever possible instead of the continual minimum we use. You wiped the weekend parking fees to attract people into the city. If you reinstitute weekend parking fees before improving public transport you will not achieve your stated goal (so, is this a false promise?).

Why don't you negotiate with Wilson Parking to stop them gouging on parking fees? I have yet to meet a citizen who sings their praises and they offer bad service at expensive rates - an unwelcome monopoly. An alternative is to do what you do with housing - offer a competitive service! (And yes I know we want less cars in the city - but that is a management process, not a means to let Wilson's be the only firm to offer elements of the public what they need.

Attracting Businesses to the city - what is the Council doing to make it desirable to base your (head office) business here.

Recycling facilities.

Smart Tech - develop a more visible programme of using Internet of Things and sensor technology to improve our lives (Smart City to 2040 etc) - this would expand the nascent ICT incubator and start up vibe you have going - more built around gaming and cultural heritage at the moment.

Roof on the stadium.

~12-15,000 seat stadium for Phoenix and concerts/events - right alongside Stadium as a joint combination (not competing).

Increase the pragmatism around earthquake strengthening and consent rules - we seem to have pushed the boundary to an extreme where we are stifling development and productivity.

Don't lose the usable space at Frank Kitts Park.

Too many houses are being built on marginal or dangerous sites EG over cliffs, very steep faces, gulleys etc that previously were considered unsafe for building due to earthquake risks. High risk sites should not be allowed to be built on, even if within highly desirable and expensive suburbs; doing so will kill more people when the next large earthquake happens.

Wellington needs electric buses as soon as possible. The delays in the conversion with Wrightspeed systems and full EVs is disappointing and should not be allowed to let us slip back to using diesel-only buses for any longer than absolutely necessary, as it is a health issue.

It was helpful to read that the proposed weekend parking fees would be $2.50/hour and not more. It seems to me, that having parking free on the weekend contributes to increased shopping and taking advantage of parks and waterfront use. For me, I gain a sense of well-being and sense of community at being able to use the downtown with less stress not needing to worry about the meters, although I understand the need for revenue. It can already be hard to find a parking space to begin with on the weekend. I might be encouraged to go to areas where the parking is free, such as an out of town mall or staying in the suburbs. I would love to be encouraged to cycle, but through safer avenues like the ones being proposed, rather than thinking a punitive parking cost will help. I would likely use the downtown less on the weekends and feel that there is no longer a "special" access to these spaces on the weekend. If the revenue is really needed, the perhaps for the peak period of time on Saturday, such as is the case in Palmerston North.

I think the council is showing well that it is interested in supporting vibrant, modern developments.

This may not be the place for it, but for traffic safety, there are a few places in town that are particularly dangerous. Please add to or change the signage at the junction of Abel Smith and Cuba Street. Most of the traffic going down Cuba Street does not stop, either because they don't understand the four-way-stop or don't see it.

Comments:

I think a better recycling system needs to come into place. We need a council compost initiative to prevent all compost going into landfill. People living in the city centre, in an apartment building or without a garden have no choice but to put compost in the landfill. Not only does this promote the pest problem but it produces carbon emissions when the compost sits in landfill and will not decompose.

Focus on core competencies like water & waste. WCC should be good at these and spend the bulk of rates on these. Not killing predators - leave that to others.

They'll make a fortune off it. Let them pay for it. Re. That way we can test out new building techniques and learn whether or not they are working.

Relocate funding towards a better waste management. We need to rethink on how we manage our waste on our landfills. There should be more focus on recycling materials that potentially can relieve our rock resources for roading aggregates in particular concrete waste.

I truly believe that improvement of our water networks should be a priority. I am proud of what Wellington is already achieving, but we have the capabilities to be at the forefront of innovation here. I fully support the addition of land to the Wellington Town Belt. It is truly an asset to Wellington, and a pleasure to experience. I would like to see more development in the cleaning and protection of our polluted rivers, however.

I believe the idea of Special Housing Areas needs some improvement. I think that fast-tracking and building these areas ASAP will lead to a decrease in quality. Special housing areas may become stigmatic, and we may end up having a situation such as "the projects" that we see in the United States. Projects have no place in Wellington. I believe we should focus more on the other options suggested by WCC. I believe a rental WOF is necessary and should be accepted by landlords. However, I fear this WOF will give an excuse for landlords to increase their rent simply because their house isn't a C-grade dump. The condition of some rented houses horrifies me, but the increase in rent from a WOF may reverse the positive outcomes of the WOF.

I believe our current recycling initiative needs to be updated. Just take a look at recycling in the Netherlands, Germany, Scandinavia etc. They have fantastic recycling rates, some of the highest in the world. They are given so much initiative to recycle with the introduction of a small fee on recyclable plastic that they get back when they recycle that item - this gives so much more incentive than having to spend money on recycling bags when our free ones run out. I am proud of Wellington for having the free glass recycling bins and providing us with free recycling bags every now and then, but the recycling bags do not fit the demand for recycling. Wellington households have been reported to be "among the worst" when it comes to recycling - there needs to be more incentive.

this approach reflects the typical pussy-footing around Wellingtonians have seen councils do for now over a decade of dithering & catering to minority nimby & archaic "heritage" interests as commuter delays & costs multiply

Boot the infinitesimal number of basin cricketers compared to vehicle commuters (who average less than 1 test match a year) out into other suburban grounds & put the lanes to the planes straight through the basin. No need for a tunnel, go up the current driveway of Gov't House & straight over/cut through the Alexander park hill to the Wellington Road/Ruahine Street intersection. Only need to compulsory buy about 20 houses on the short bit of Wgtn road between Ruahine St & Hamilton Rd = problem solved.

I believe the rental WoF should be enforced to home owners very strictly. There should be a very clear guideline on the quality of the rental, and the associated rental price that can be offered. There are far too many instances where landlords are taking advantage of the sudden increase in demand for housing, and benefiting from charging high rents for properties that are under extremely poor conditions.

As a tenant I am satisfied with paying a high rent in comparison to my income, if the quality of the rental and responsiveness of the landlord is adequately reflected.

I believe that many landlords need to be highly educated on the modern reality of owning property in the city for lease and investment. There are many property owners who have invested in rental housing with no real knowledge of how to maintain building facilities. Many landlords are unaware of the rate at which buildings deteriorate over time, and the ongoing costs necessary to maintain a livable home. Many landlords are unaware of the increased standards of the building code and RMA, and are resistant against having to pay the costs necessary to upgrade their degrading properties to be suited against current standards. The fact that many Wellington and New Zealand homes are below seismic code, and below the UN health standards for heating, dampness, and humidity; reflect this neglect that landlords have on their properties.

I believe it is important to inform landlords that the quality of their properties have a direct impact on the human occupants who are renting. If they are not comfortable to live in their own damp, leaky, moldy, earthquake prone rental property, then they should seriously reassess if it is appropriate to lease at rental prices that exceed average New Zealand wages.

I believe that an effective transportation system is created through a mutual respect of all individuals on the road. This includes pedestrians, drivers, cyclists, passengers, and bus drivers.

I have been commuting to work and University through cycling in Wellington for a year and half, but I had to abandon this because the current conditions are too dangerous to commute on a daily basis. Over this period of time I have had bikes stolen, and major injuries from traffic which required hospital visits; and being immobilised for several weeks.

In the Wellington CBD there is a culture where regardless of the situation, pedestrians and cyclists have the right of way. People would easily jaywalk within busy traffic, or cyclists would change lanes abruptly, or ride without a helmet. From experience motorists seem to despise pedestrians and cyclists significantly because of their unpredictability. However motorists need to be educated that because these are the main modes of transportation in the city that they need to slow down and give way in anticipation for a likely chance of approaching a pedestrian crossing or a cyclist changing lanes.

Furthermore, due to the nature of walking and cycling as a very organic means of getting around, the rules and traffic laws are much more ambiguous. A motorist cannot always expect a cyclist to follow the same rules as a motorist. Firstly because they are not motorised and have the same level of control as a private vehicle. Secondly, because Wellington is severely lacking in cycling infrastructure, a cyclist will have to improvise and switch lanes, or take the center of the road when they feel their safety is compromised. For example, in a high risk situation such as a right hand turn at an intersection the cyclist is most vulnerable, because there is a high chance that they may get hit in their blind spot. In a situation like this they should be encouraged to take the entire lane without experiencing road rage from other motorists. A motorist needs to be considerate of these factors when approaching cyclists on the road.

Is there anything else you think WCC should be prioritising over the next 10 years?

Comments:

The way rubbish is collected needs to be more sustainable. The current recycling bags seem impossible to actually sort the different types of waste. Most Wellingtonians know the fact that the majority of the contents of the 'recycling' bags aren't actually recycled. I believe it is necessary to try and encourage a more stringent sorting of waste within our communities.

Now is a good time to look at small homes, the era of the 1/4 acre section is long over. Also could the trolley buses and any carriages no longer required be converted into small homes, containers could also be utilised. New Plymouth had a small homes display a few years ago and they were cheap and brilliant.

Hi just wanted to say that as a Wellington musician (having emigrated here from UK within the past few years) the most exciting thing I read in your proposal is - 'creating a sense of excitement in the city'.

And I would agree with Option 1 regarding increasing levels of service.

the council really needs to take a good look at the trains especially the wairarapa lines and make that the number 1 priority before anything else as it is constantly breaking down and is not fair for all the residents that live in the wairarapa to have to constantly deal with train breaking down and them being late for work due to replacement buses taking forever to get the featherston and then the slow journey over the rimutakas

The proposals make no mention of quality of design and protection for existing home owners when new projects, infill or site development, are planned.

The consenting process is already too easy and developers can drive a truck through it without concern.

Infill design is a particular problem and the effects on surrounding properties need to be considered before approval is given. Currently it is a rubber-stamp process.

Design quality and layout on the section should be subject to approval from neighbouring properties.

Mayor Lester has stated that an infill property that affected my home is "poor design", so the question is - what is the Council doing to prevent the all-too common recurrence of this?

The projects being undertaken are worthwhile however emphasis needs to be on ecosystems as a whole to ensure these are not simply just isolated pockets of work, but rather that they are connected to each other, monitored and updated when needed.

Supporting cycling is good, however, overseas literature notes a clear gender skew in cycling populations towards males. Analysing these results also show the majority of women who undertake "active" or public transport options walk and take buses. I recommend also supporting walking as an active method of transport, and alongside this work to ensure public spaces are safe, accessible and well-lit.

There are conference centres being built all over New Zealand. Why add to it? I also note the ballooning budget required for this. We - and as a creative city - should do better than another conference centre.

To ensure a good artistic base for creativity incubators need to be a part and parcel of their planning. This includes facilitation, mentoring and access to studios. Not sure how WCC is supporting this as part of their planning process as it also needs to

It looks like bus service is taken back at the moment with reduced service on the Miramar Peninsula starting in June this year. This makes it harder to use public transport to commute (specially for part time working parents who need to fit around school hours)

What sort of absolutely useless, pie in the sky, commy hogwash is "the world's first predator free capital city"? You already have so much work to do with infrastructure and you're worrying about creating the world's first predator free capital city? What sort of narcissist dumb dumb even comes up with that idea? It'd be the world's first because it's not worth doing and without astronomical ongoing expense and effort a virtual impossibility! I think you should start with trying to be the world's first narcissistic moron free city council.

Seems like the council are taking it upon themselves to add to the work of housing nz and social development. Is this Labour attempting budget manipulation by transferring some of central governments debts to a local government? Or are there certain people at Wellington City Council that simply consider themselves more adept at solving our housing crisis than those with all the money and expertise of central government?

The evidence on cycleways is very clear. They do not work as intended. There is no added value in these road markings other than virtue signalling narcissists feeling like they are saving the planet, despite the evidence on the contrary. The increases in cycling after the implementation of a cycleway are statistically insignificant i.e. non existent, or when accounting for other factors such as population or normal fluctuations in commuter numbers. They often also force people into dangerous situations such as passenger door opening sides of parked cars, closer to parked cars than they would like to be in situations that may be unnecessary for them to be there, or simply by confusing drivers. The more road markings, speed variations, and complications you add, the more crashes there are. To coin an old phrase, look it up! Please STOP WITH THE CYCLE LANES!

Comments:

You should simply be prioritising core services, instead of constantly grasping for make work initiatives. Just focus on work and infrastructure that supports everyone. If someone has a pie in the sky, virtue signalling idea, help them to fundraise among the people who will benefit most. Stop taking rates and more debt to support these completely unscientific approaches to fix "perceived" problems. Or at the very least conduct basic cost benefit analysis, real consultation, and take a scientific approach that will all but guarantee success, instead of throwing money at things to see what sticks.

More support for existing community environmental/social projects. A way to simply build on existing momentum from passion of those residents that is already there. Their local insights and experiences are most likely the best guide to key issues.

Affordable housing should be made a priority for first-time buyers and residents of the city. There is no use in creating a raft of housing for landlords with large portfolios or foreign investment. The rental market should also be given some close attention to ensure that decent housing is available for the huge numbers of short-term residents in Wellington (students and travellers) who also contribute hugely to the economy of the city.

An improvement of public transport is key to encouraging people to leave their cars at home. Without it, any incentive that discourages car users will see people travelling to malls or complexes in the Hutt or elsewhere leaving the central city a virtual ghost land at the weekends.

Looking after students. Currently Wellington city council provides a very unappealing city for students. The housing conditions are terrible and public transport is way too expensive. Without students, this 10 year plan will not succeed. We are the future so look after us better.

Wellington has already undergone one cull of heritage buildings in the late 1980s. The BHIF has been fantastic in allowing building owners to retain heritage buildings and heritage features, whilst also adding to the resilience of the city's building stock.
While not all buildings can be saved, we need to make sure that some of the city's heritage is maintained.

I think we really need to densify our housing stock and use space more efficiently. We should try to make it easier for new builds to be constructed but also increase the insulation standards of housing. New housing projects should take into consideration existing and future transport links. Building on earthquake and erosion prone land should be avoided. It's good to hear WCC are being proactive about the state of housing and aren't just waiting for central government regulations to kick in.

Light rail should definitely be implemented in the near future before our population grows any further. Pedestrianised streets would make the city more liveable as well, encouraging more walking and giving our city more social/cultural spaces.

Comments:

There should be more use/promotion of geospatial analysis as a planning tool. All of these future plans have a geographical/spatial component and the decision process would be aided by the use of relevant spatial data. For example, housing densification projects should not occur in areas with heavy ground shaking in an earthquake such as the waterfront or Kilbirnie.

Social housing is important however council needs to stick to policy, leadership and influence.

Consider the use of public private partnerships (greenfield or brownfield [commercaill office conversion]) that shifts the burden of finance and performance to the private sector whist the cost is amortised over the longer term.

Water management is very important. As well as this resisting nature with structures, road and erosion will be a forever losing battle. Instead of restrengthening are there proposals for alternatives such as roads, tunnels etc which are 'future proof' instead of the persistence with outdated infrastructure.

In saying that, Heritage Buildings are part of what makes Wellington so unique, so where possible buildings that add value to the city through whichever way should be maintained, with infrastructure improvements possible undertaken to ensure they continue their heritage, however ensuring a modernity.. such as double glazed windows where possible or insulation so they can be utilised year around.

The Wellington Town Belt; "The land has ecological connections to nearby Zealandia and provides habitat for a wide range of native birds" why oh why would we want to ruin this by constructing a walkway through there for human intervention? Why are we obsessed with dominating the earth and eradicating all diversity? Human involvement will drive away the birds, perhaps it can me dedicated to just being nature, an untouched section of Wellington City.. if that's possible.

Improve public transport and people will be less concerned with living in Wellington City and more open to living further afield. Roads from the eastern suburbs are in desperate need for a solution (I look forward to seeing what awful ideas are suggested for the airport..), as well as a more reliable and efficient rail network for Wellington. As a resident currently in Porirua and working in the CBD, commuting via bus to the train station is arguably the worst possible decision you could make in the morning as you will get to the station 15 minutes later than the timetable says it will, so you'll miss your train. And the chap at the station will tell you that's normal. And the train only leaves every 30 minutes or so, with long times in-between services even in the morning, such as 7:22 and the next one being 7:39 (which usually turns up at 7:43) which is a rather long time between services.. So you may choose to drive to the station, and the carpark is almost the same size as Porirua CBD as every woman, man and their dog are working in Wellington CBD and want to catch the train. The rail network is struggling to cope (people are crammed heavily into the carriages, which having experienced rail networks in much larger cities with much, much larger populations is expected, but in Wellington is quite surprising.. and there is not really many bars or poles to hold onto in the carriages as well if you're caught standing.

Cutting the long story short this means living out in the suburbs can be a logistical challenge, which increases demand for purchasing properties in the city..

Improved housing conditions is also largely commonsense, although unless you're a landlord.

Just to start with the negative, paid parking in the weekend%œœare you kidding me? I $uppo$e it make$ $en$e in that way. However I think on a different way, if you're a retailer and you trade on the weekend, and you have a family that wants to go and experience some retail therapy, or just explore the city in the weekend, and now they have to pay for parking on top of that will significantly influence the city in the weekends. People will possibly turn to look to do things out of the city and avoid the CBD at all. It's a fine line to keep people interested or drive them away. Paying for parking is not the answer. The public transport has to be an absolute no brainer before you propose to penalise people for taking their own transport.

It is a behaviour, an educational process. Similar to speeding tickets, they do not curb behaviours, they just generate revenue, like paying for parking. I'd argue most people don't like having to park in the city in the weekends anyway, now they have to park in the city and pay for it because the public transport/cycling alternatives are so far below adequate.

We have snapper cards in the city for buses, yet if you catch the train your snapper card is useless. Can you pay with eftpos on the bus (or train)? Of course not. Can you pay with a $20 note from the ATM? That will get you an awful stare. Who comes up with these ideas? Do you think only with your wallet and salary in mind or do you understand how behaviours work and educating people on a large scale? Surely there are many more steps in this process before you decide to really put the squeeze on the people who inhabit the city.

Comments:

Get the airport out of Rongotai. You have an airport in Paraparaumu as well as an expressway that is being developed which will get somebody to the CBD in 30 minutes.

There is the Waikanae rail network operating through Paraparaumu as well. However the area is being built up as a residential hotbed so the room for expansion is possibly receding. But think about being in Porirua and needing to catch a flight at 9:00 a.m. on a Monday morning. You might well spend the night in the city as you'd have to be up and left home by 6:00 a.m. to get to the airport early enough as to not miss your flight.

In the next decade with population growth and the likely increased congestion due to poor planning (which I hope this plan does mitigate, I am sceptical) it will become even harder. And the Wellington airport requires so many more resources to make larger. How many millions? Just build the airport in Levin and make an incredible rail network and hey presto! You still fly over the city. You redevelop the current airport to become residential and help with the housing issues.

How many other cities in the world have airports located outside the city to alleviate congestion and other issues with doing so. The new multi million/billion dollar road is heading that way..!

There is too long an argument I'd like to have about why the airport in the Wellington City and persisting with it is a bad idea.

Public transport, buses and trains, please create some guideline whereby their timetables have to be accurate to the nearest 2 minutes or so. It is ridiculous that MetLink can publish a timetable that can be up to 15 mins inaccurate and is not uncommon! Before you start charging everybody to live their lifestyle at least make the use of public transport so incredibly viable people want to use public transport anyway! Offer an incentive to use public transport (such as paying with eftpos, or just one standard fare) rather than a punishment for driving on your own. It is a more efficient use of my time to drive myself to where I need to go and arrive today than catch public transport and turn up tomorrow.

And waste!!! Ban plastic bags, ban straws, impose that businesses must use receipts on sustainable paper.. businesses have to comply with legislation change and it becomes a norm, individual people are different.

Comments:

You've got it right so far, people need better housing that is warm and dry, with more options in the city dwellings too, (id love to live in some of the buildings that are business zoned atm) but then we also need to think about future proofing our environment etc and our futures of our young. What will we leave for them? There isnt enough for families to do here, especially when it is cold and wet (most of the time). Te Papa is only fun a couple of times. The NGV has it down, the changing artists and exhibitions are amazing, and often free! I have just moved back and some changes have happened and there is a cool vibe of laneways, bars and eateries, but what about the rest for families (apart from our beautiful walks of course!)

Support local musicians and artist by having a greater sound control free area within the CBD. There is currently only one club outside of Courtney Place that doesn't get sound control after 1AM. This is absolutely killing music culture within Wellington.

Even if people who 'need' private transport are a minority, for them they use it _all the time_, so removing it as an option, or making it a more difficult option (which seems to be in all proposals) seems grossly unfair and inaccessible.

Auckland's housing crisis must not be repeated in Wellington. If housing prices are allowed to increase without interference, Wellington housing will become a playing field for speculators. Prices will be driven by how much speculators can maximising profits. The housing "market" must not be governed by "supply and demand", much like the labour "market". The basic needs of citizen must not be allowed to serve capitalist interests.

Wellington, with its narrow streets and many steep inclines, does not lend itself to become a bicycle city like Amsterdam.

It would be much more sensible to replace the very noisy and environment-polluting Diesel buses with electric buses. A large proportion of New Zealand electricity is produced by water and wind power so the whole country should be moving towards electric transportation. Electric transportation will be inevitable in the future and Wellington should lead the way instead of regressing into the past with Diesel buses.

Rather than spending money on a centralised system for water and sewage, I would recommend that you have a distributed system (e.g. grey water in people's backyards) that is more resilient in an EQ and makes people more responsible for their own "poo".

As a driver and and a cyclist I can assure you that cyclists have been forgotten for the last 100 years. This needs to be fixed as if it were a road that ended at the top of a cliff.... IT IS URGENT.
Not in ten, twenty or 100 years.
Cycling has so many benefits that are left out of cost benefit analyses (e.g. better health, cleaner air, lower road maintenance cost, etc... etc...)

Comments:

Cycling. It is the future.

Also, please consider the idea of a free train (every ten minutes or so) between ...

- Petone and City.

- Porirua or Jville and City.

As well as a free bus around town.

This will make it faster, cheaper and more convenient to take public transport into town rather than driving.

Introduce water tax to reduce use use $ to build water supply it%as a no briener like what the BOP did? Invest in prevention of storm damage like regular cleaning of drains and storm water areas rather than being surprised a flood has occurred after residents ask before a known storm and or wintervis coming for their drains to be pumped out of debris

Yes the bus network is well over due for fixing and accommodating a growing population. Cycling networks around the city need attention before outside of the city. How many city cyclists cycle outside of the city vrs inner suburbs? Has analysis been done? This drives demand. How many cars really come into the city on the weekend and park unless there is a major event? Street Shopping areas like Lambton Quay are almost dead on The Weeknd. Parking buildings are full in areas like Cuba and Courtney place. May be do some analysis on car numbers then revenue from and increase in fees and if it would really achieve the aim? I don't believe it would

Is there anything else you think WCC should be prioritising over the next 10 years?

Comments:

Sorting out the traffic between the airport and the motorway for pedestrians, cyclists, buses, trucks and private motor vehicles is becoming increasingly urgent and should be a bigger focus of WCC, plus improving the length of the airport runway, primarily for safety, not just larger planes.

With regard to Predator Free Wellington - I think the council should address the impact of cats. Education is paramount - starting with kids in schools. An 'Educat' program has started in Tasmania, Australia along these lines.. and I know the people involved would be happy to share information. (See http://www.tenlives.com.au/about.html) I think all cats need to be registered and microchipped... and kept indoors at night as minimum. Introduction and perhaps subsidy for the building of outdoor cat enclosures... especially in key sensitive areas would be a good start. I have been involved with dealing with live cat trapping - returning owned cats(with a cost!), assessing feral cats (and euthanasing), and desexing/vaccinating/microchipping rehoming cats. Its all possible but must start with education!

Comments:

Wellington has the potential to be part of our national mountain bike network, linking key areas such as Rotorua, Nelson, Canterbury and Central Otago.

This is a sport on the rise and it has major benefits for this city. Including but not limited to:

- off road commuting routes (e.g Mt Victoria, Polhill)
- trail building that creates access routes for pest and weed control, and replanting with native species
- building communities and affinity for our natural environment
- improving the personal wellbeing and fitness of individuals
- creating business opportunities centred around the sport
- attracting skilled people to the region to work

Please continue to invest in our mountain biking infrastructure. The developments in Porirua will not divert people from Wellington trails to this new centre, rather it will just bring more and more people to the region.

I support the funding allocated for the coastal resilience work associated with the Worser Bay Boating Club rebuild project. This provides not only short term benefits in teh next 5 or so years , but medium and long term, as our sailing children become adults, have their own kids and introduce them to the joys of Wellington's wind. Furthermore it allows access to coastal areas for education and recreation for wide sectors of te non sailing community. This allows Worser bay to become a hub for both education and also recreation in the lower north island and upper south island.

WE need to loosen our council requirements for subdivision, encourage more houses to be built. By adding warranty costs, it will only be passed down to tenants. we should let the market decide, by helping improving supply, the costs and crisis will do down automatically.

Transport and housing are the key issues people that live here face on the daily. Affording to get to work and to keep a home is becoming challenging even for a two income house hold with no children. If this is the case we cannot keep going like this.

The quality of living in our city is closely linked to the sustainability of its transport system and the degree to which it is people-friendly. Reducing private cars in the central city area and improving public transport, plus improved cycling and walking facilities, will be important signals about the character of our city.

In regards to reducing the waste it would be amazing to have a compost collection system (especially for the CBD where there is no ability to compost) to reduce household waste as this is usually a large proportion of waste.

Providing a range of housing typologies is essential - single person dwellings to family dwellings combined in a development to also ensure more diversity within a development would be great to see.

Also renting rights and upgrading and insulating rental properties should be an absolute minimum for our housing stock to ensure better wellbeing for our city.

Wellbeing through enhancing natural resources and encouraging people to get out more - whether through cycling, walks, arts & culture or other activities - creating places for community and getting outside into nature is vital for a thriving city and population!

Also, caring for our natural resources is key - compost to reduce landfill waste would be amazing and will reduce the use of rubbish bags. How can this better align with our National Paris Agreements.

More Te Reo throughout the city would also be amazing - signs should include both Te Reo and English should be normalised.

I am very supportive of the Predator Free movement. The value of having community led (but WCC supported) groups like these is immense, and the positive effects far greater in many more areas than simply pest control and encouraging bird life. The positive social impacts and community-building aspects of these groups are massive. For the relatively low financial cost of these projects, the return (whilst hard to measure in dollar terms) is significant.

WCC's unbridled enthusiasm for the poorly conceived current Shelly Bay development is appalling, and not the answer to any housing crisis. 350 expensive apartments will not solve a housing crisis, and the Shelly Bay development should not be held up as the solution. Please do not mistake my support for increased social housing, as support for this grim development proposal.

I believe you should be prioritising listening to the citizens and ratepayers, when you ask for consultation. Too often , there is the perception that consultation is sought and undertaken, but thoroughly ignored by WCC. This can only leave the conclusion that WCC has already decided on the strategy it wants to pursue, and the consultation process is mere box-ticking.

More frequent, cheaper public transport to encourage more to use it. Then fewer cars will come into town.

Pest eradication, water and land pollution/contamination, water management and housing are all vital, but also want to make sure that access to reserves, town belts, open spaces etc are all accessible to be enjoyed by as many diverse groups as possible...including horses.

I don't support Council being directly involved in housing build on a large scale. Their role should be in encouraging construction through reducing counter productive requirements. For example remove the requirement that developments must provide motor vehicle parking. To enable this council needs to encourage active transport modes and public transport by discouraging private motor vehicles.

The cycling and walking proposals are actually very unambitious. WCC has recently watered down proposals in an attempt to pacify opposition. The plan needs to be accelerated. Jacinda Ardern has declared Climate Change to be her generation's nuclear issue, and yet this plan hardly mentions it. Please allow residents to make bold reductions to their CO2 emissions. Convert on street parking to cycle lanes, reduce suburban streets to 30kmh zones. Overseas experience (eg Netherlands) shows that when driving is made less convenient, less of it occurs.

SUBMISSION TO WELLINGTON CITY COUNCIL RE ITS 10-YEAR PLAN

I understand from the Mayor that badly-needed improvements to the Playground at Frank Kitts Park depend on resource consent being given for a nearby Garden, to be known as the Garden of Beneficence. However, the Draft 10-Year Plan states that progress on the Garden of Beneficence depends on the attainment of "External funding commitments".

According to a Memorandum of Understanding which the last Mayor signed in Auckland the Garden (and hence the improvements to the Playground) was to commence in 2015. I submit that, if the Garden of Beneficence is dependent on "External funding commitments" and if these are still not forthcoming, any proposal for building a Garden of Beneficence next to the Playground be immediately shelved and the improvements to the Playground be started immediately. In any event details of the "External funding commitments" should be made public. My email dated 13 April 2018 (referenced IRO 6778) as shown below, is relevant.

I wish to speak to an oral forum regarding this submission.

Subject: The Council's Plan - request under L.G.O.I.M.A

In connection with the phrase "Construction can commence at the beginning of 2018 provided External funding commitments for the Chinese garden (sic) are attained" as shown on Page 2 of Item 3.1 "Wellington Waterfront Development Plan" considered by the Council Meeting held on April 5 2018 please let me know the following:

- 1/ What are the "commitments"?
- 2/ To whom were the "commitments" made and by whom?
- 3/ Was any timeframe involved when the "commitments" were given?
- 4/ When and how were they made and in what circumstances?
- 5/ Has any money been earmarked in respect of the "commitments"?
- 6/ If so how much and how secure is that money so far as the Council is concerned?
- 7/ Is that money dependent on any particular condition or contingency before it is made available to the Council?
- 8/ If so, what?
- 9/ Is there any deadline i.e. do the "commitments" have to be met by a certain time?

It might be noted that I have a special interest in the matter having recently been an Appellant in the Environment Court regarding safety matters in Frank Kitts Park.

WCC needs to back roading developments and not keep stalling. The road to the airport and eastern suburbs must be improved and soon. As each month goes by it is taking longer and longer to get to and from the airport etc.

While other initiatives are good we still use cars and this must be accommodated, especially in new and renovated inner city housing developments.

I submit that I am in very strong opposition to the proposals to eradicate "predators" and to the funding of community-led trapping of "predators" on reserve land, as feral cats, wild cats and other unowned cats have been identified as being "predators" and a "threat to our native wildlife."

Since its introduction to New Zealand a very long time ago, the domestic cat (Felis catus or Felis silvestris catus) has over a long period of time become an established part of our ecosystem.

In some other countries including the United States, feral cats have been 'put to work' as an effective pest control strategy to manage rat infestations.

The plans to eradicate feral cats in New Zealand were initiated by millionaire Gareth Morgan, who by way of great financial support has succeeded in procuring highly questionable "scientific research" and "survey results" from various top level veterinary organisations including the New Zealand Companion Animal Council, which support his personal view that feral cats should be eradicated. In publishing the documents, these organisations have failed to disclose their significant financial relationships and financial conflicts of interest.

Ecologists are the only scientists who can predict the impact on our ecosystem following the removal of feral cats. It is my understanding that not one Ecologist has been consulted prior to the decision having been made to classify feral cats as "predators" and to remove them from our ecosystem.

In submission I paste the emailed response of NZ Ecologist Dr John Flux to my question put to him of which series of events would occur in our ecosystem if feral cats were eradicated:

What would happen if feral cats are removed is hard to predict, because it depends on the habitat and other animals present. Here, off the cuff, are some likely outcomes:

1 On farmland, there could be an immediate increase in rabbit numbers (a pair can have 45 young a year). Without the cats, stoats and ferrets will increase but they will not multiply fast enough to get on top of the rabbits unless cat numbers are reduced slowly over several years. High populations of stoats and ferrets will cause more damage to ground-nesting birds than cats do at present, and the likely response of farmers is to control the rabbits with RCD. That would cause more problems of hungry predators turning to eat native species.

The simplistic answer, of getting rid of all the predators at once, leaves farmers with the problem of introduced birds increasing to damage their crops.

2 In forest, cats exert a buffering effect by eating both rodents and mustelids. If cats are removed we can expect more violent predator/prey oscillations, which would be dangerous for native species. If all predators are removed at once, fine. But if any survive, in any region, without competition they would increase rapidly to higher densities than before. These survivors I expect will be weasels and mice, which are at low numbers at present, being kept down by cats, stoats, and rats, and are not trapped or poisoned so easily.

3 Alpine, coastal, and river areas will need separate consideration, and often have rare species (e.g. Rock wren, Banded dotterel, Black stilt).

4 I am not a botanist, but changes to vegetation can also be expected. Thus removal of rabbits in Central has resulted in briar spreading, and an increase in prickly bushes killing sea-birds on Motunau Island. In Nelson Lakes NP, sparniard is taking over from snow grass since deer and chamois were controlled.

5 All these changes will continue for years, and require constant management for ever.

As you see, I find this a very complex problem, and hope there will be a lot more research before widespread killing starts.

I believe a large percentage of the community are opposed to feral cats being classified as predators, and I completely discredit the "statistics" which have been procured from organisations who have not disclosed financial conflicts of interest which show otherwise.

A large proportion of the public are completely unaware that feral cats have been classified as "predators," and so the failure of the current Consultation Document to list all of the species which are now considered to be "predators" is a serious flaw in the consultation process, which may alter the perceived views of the public following the consultation and which I believe will be subject to Judicial Review.

Regards,

Mr Gerry Macridis

I am supportive of the WCC funding allocated for coastal resilience work within the 10 year plan. While significant work has been undertaken since 2013 there are some areas that have been neglected. One of these areas addressed in the draft plan is the area surrounding the Worser Bay Boating Club. Allocation of funds to this project will not only improve the area for a wide variety of users but will fix the historical issue of building materials dumped to retain the coastline by the council in the 1950's.

This is an important piece of the Wellington coast line and has been neglected over previous generations.

CYCLING

There are simply bigger priorities than cycleways. E.g. bus travel. As an example it can take around 40 minutes from Johnsonville to Wellington on the bus, a journey that should take 15mins. Having dedicated bus lanes would deal with this issue and by way of passenger numbers a bigger priority than making more cycleways.

WEEKEND PARKING FEES

I am not encouraged to use public transport here because a) fares are increasing by 3% and b) given that there is now no direct service to the city in weekends thanks to bus hubbing I will stick to private transport.

LETS GET WELLINGTON MOVING

There needs to be more done on lanes dedicated to buses, particularly around the Basin and along Thorndon Quay/Kaiwharawhara/through Johnsonville. This is a example of a higher priority than cycleways and the funding should reflect that.

Housing to me is a major issue. yes people need somewhere to live but the rights of existing home owners must not be ignored e.g. 36 Allington Road Karori.

Urban sprawl should also be considered - e.g. how is the present infrastructure going to cope.

Roading - transport - schools- medical facilities.

Damage to the developed areas - e.g. Woodridge farm. Whole sides of hills being carved away.

Food waste needs to be addressed! We should have a council run compost programme. It needs to be affordable and incentivised for inner city living. As not everyone can have their own compost and the combination of compost and plastics in landfill has dire environmental impacts.

We need to do more to encourage cycling and to make our roads safe for both cycles and cars. I can't ride a bike and walk everywhere, but I really feel like the future is looking at Scandinavian countries. But it perhaps needs to be framed in a good for everyone way, rather than just for cyclists. (Read nudge economics theories)

The rental warrant of fitness is a brilliant idea however it needs to be lowered to attainable but still safe levels, and be more accessible for landlords.

We should be spending a higher ratio of money on housing than cycle ways than we are currently, as in cycleways should not be such a priority when people are living in below standard homes or no homes at all.

While it is important to keep chipping away at cycle ways, i do not believe they need to fast tracked, when we could use this extra money more efficiently.

I would support weekend parking fees if they were coupled with cheaper public transport.

Initiatives encouraging public transport definitely needed.

Too much is being spent on widening roads and building motorways. Let's maintain what we have well and build alternative transport infrastructure.

There should be a focus on supporting small local art projects. Festivals are becoming larger with higher profile artists involved which pushes smaller local artist out.

Other priorities

Is there anything else you think WCC should be prioritising over the next 10 years?

Comments:

The most important priority is building transport alternatives to the private car. We need greater investment in public transport and walking and cycling infrastructure and an end to building more motorways or widening roads.

Further all support/investment in local projects promoting sustainability, from community gardens to object repair shops/organisations, is also needed. This can help deal with environmental and social issues together helping connect communities and provide for greater quality of life through goods and services for these on low incomes.

Though composting of household refuse as commented on there appears no new money going to it. This is an important area in terms of vermin control and helping the environment. I would like to see money fund from city, not doing Movie Museum, in past allocated to getting this initiative moving fast.

Aging population - 3 above have not seen anything in the plan that acknowledges the aging of Wellington's people. This will be a key area for all Council's regarding access to senior card support. While this is [unreadable]

Making Wellington a city that competes with Auckland as a cultural and economic hub. I think we have great potential to market ourselves as the capital of culture in NZ, and emphasise more how Wellington is a great place to live and work. We need to attract more talent - it's a shame that it's all going to Auckland or overseas.

Comments:

As a foreigner the council restrictions on residential property seem extreme. You could reduce a lot of waste in the system by liberalising and making less costly and more easy for people to improve homes. That would improve the quality of the housing stock and speed spending on trades which would seem to benefit the overall economy. Currently the consent process consumes far too many resources that then cannot be spent on the construction and fit out phases.

These are all very important & valuable initiatives. To help fund these I believe that WCC should continue exploring options to create a sustainable golf club in Berhampore. There are many golf clubs in the region within easy reach, and most struggle to recruit members . We live in Brooklyn and play at Boulcotts Farm in the Hutt. It would be totally reasonable to have a 9 hole course at Mornington; it's outrageous that my rates are supporting another golf club. Golf is a land hungry sport and Wellington is growing. What about investing our rates in shared paths on former golf club land and encouraging more off road walking and cycling? I would also like to see a lot more tree planting on that land, which would further improve biodiversity.

Resilience is great, effectively managing waste is commendable. However, tax payers subsidising Shelly Bay infrastructure is criminal giving how the land was sold cheap to developers, despite appeal and the absence of due diligence and appropriate transparent process followed. I'm sceptical of investing a further 190% more funds to rebuild the town hall. Given the initial project was nearly 200% on forecasted costs I have no confidence in successful and efficient delivery of this. In the private sector a variance of this magnitude would result in dismissals.

Auckland, the rest of the country and indeed the world has shown us, building more houses doesn't address the housing pricing / wage problem. The country faces a housing epidemic and the council propose investing $140m, yet they want to invest half that amount on cycles lanes? Question of priorities and focus. The recent lanes near the IRD building are dangerous for both cyclists and vechles. The Island Bay cycle lane project was an unmitigated dangerous disaster. It genuinely brings into question the sanity and commonsense of people in a position of influence. I fear further cycle lanes will increase congestion in Wellington where there simply isn't the luxury of space to add. There is only the option to consume vehicle lanes which will cause increased congestion and frustration for the majority. Like it has in London and any other city who have jumped on the green bandwagon with a biased view. Reality is more people need and consume vehicles - make that more viable than hiding behind a "green" initiative that will increase pollution via congestion!

Arts and Entertainment - invest here for growth and prosperity of the city.

Housing needs a step thought process - think differently. Repeating mistakes of the world. Invest in public transport - good. The majority DO NOT want more cycle lanes around the city. Again, cities around the world should serve as an example of where this fails. Rebuilding the town hall is a concern. Initial project budget forecast was 190% out. That's reprehensible and unforgivable. I wouldn't trust this team to deliver a paper airplane!

It's so important to have the prepared infrastructure after a huge disaster. Anything that prevents additional work after such an event saves money in the long run and helps for a speedy recovery. Reducing waster and the predator problems may seem trivial they provide a huge benefit to native wildlife.

We need to increase our housing capacity, I spend a lot of time around the city and see many homeless around as well those who capitalise off the shortage of housing by hiking rentals as far as they can go without consideration for their tenants circumstances.

I love the introduction of the double decker busses along the major bus lines. Public transport is the future of any city, and if Wellington can stay ahead of population growth and increase capacity and efficiency of it's transport system, it'll be better for everyone. The parking on weekends is good, as it provides more money for essential services such as roads as beneficial city wide events.

I support a new quarry on the circumstance that the current one is almost depleted. Increasing funding for culture is great and what better way to do it that cinema and a convention centre. Not a big fan of animals, so not bothered about zoo upgrades.

Culture is the difing factor of who we are as a people. Without it we become bland, boring and complacent. To see where we're going we must know where we've been. We must understand who we are.

The housing crisis is partly due to ridiculously high rents. Setting maximum rents for certain property types the landlords/agencies can charge the tenants would help. These limits should reflect the median wages in the region (NOT the mean, as the distribution of wages in the region is very skewed).

Public transport needs to be fully integrated (covering buses, cable-car, trains and ferries), affordable (introducing attractive monthly or quarterly rates, so that commuters who use public transport more than three times a week would feel encouraged to use public transport more and enjoy unlimited travel within the City, Hutt Valley and Kapiti) and efficient (if weekend parking fees are to be introduced, then more lines need to operate at weekends to provide people with an alternative to driving - for example, bus number 18, connecting Karori with Miramar, should definitely run on the weekends).

Most of the above propose further construction on the reclaimed land around the waterfront and Miramar. This is opposing the idea of the plan being "sustainable" - building additional major infrastructure and public buildings in areas prone to liquefactio

By all means, supporting arts is a good idea once all the more pressing issues (housing, transportation, resilience and environment) have been addressed and implemented.

Comments:

What I miss in the plan - in particular somewhere between the resilience, housing and sustainable development - is providing communities and public buildings with independent sources of power and water. Public buildings such as hospitals, universities, larger hotels etc. should have solar panels and wind power generators, as well as large tanks for rainwater, to cover the basic needs for power (to operate the lifts, emergency lighting, servers, life-support machines and similar) and water in cases of major natural disasters such as earthquakes. Having some stations like this (in addition to supplies at Civil Defence centres) in residential areas could also improve the resilience of the suburbs.

I believe that the council has fully missed the issue with the traffic that forms from the Eastern suburbs through the Mt Vic tunnel. 40 plus minutes to get from Cobham Drive to the Basin is unacceptable. In addition now that the Shelly Bay development has been approved, nothing has been announced as to how this increase in traffic will be dealt with.

Cycle lanes are great to fund, but you also need to fund roads that allow parents to get from work to pick up their kids and then to after school activities. I believe that more work should have been done to assess the issue with the route from the Airport to Mt Vic rather than the many hours of consultations on cycleways that have created more damage to the image of cycling in wellington ie the Island Bay Cycleway which ruined a great road. How can this city be considered a place for tourists or businesses if it takes an hour to get into the city at peak times.

Make buses cheaper to encourage use. Eliminate the zone charges, and make one fare for all Wellington, regardless of distance travelled. Make the cable car cheaper -- more citizens would walk to the centre if they didn't have to walk back up the hill.

Events in Wellington are more costly than the same types of events in other parts of the world. As a cultural destination, NZ'ers from other parts of NZ will likely be Wellington's main clients, so make events affordable for average wage earners.

How about charging bikers a registration fee to be allowed to use the roads and then this can fund their biking upgrades required.

The council should be more worried about fixing up the congestion from the terrace tunnel to the airport!
Not a good look at all for a City that is also the Capital of NZ

Comments:

The council should make it a priority to fix the congestion in the city from the terrace tunnel to the airport. Being a capital city the current state of the roads is not good enough.

Also the city is missing out on major revenue that comes with big international entertainers. The stadium needs a roof on it ASAP so that we can stop losing millions of dollars to the economy that other cities like Auckland and Dunedin are capitalising on.

Snapper card should be for all regional transport. Zone1 should be free. All other zones price includes say 2 hrs travel. Look at Melbourne for a fine example of how to do this.

Put trams in in several circle areas around cbd. Get rid of the buses from CBD.

I should be able to tag on at Upper Hutt and tag off at say kent terrace.

Put tag on/off gates at all Wtgn rail stations and a Guard at each station (helps with employment as well).

See Japan for fine example of how to do this.

Wellington definitely need more residential buildings given its population growth. However, these new buildings while affordable should have high standards and be designed and built on a high quality. There are too many weather tightness issues, as well as maintenance issues around at the moment because cheap materials were installed. This results in non-healthy apartments, expensive remediation, and disruptions after only a few years. More money up-front is better.

I don't own a car and I walk 95% of the time. Yet I oppose parking fees the week-end simply because this is the only day I could potentially use a car. Most car users use their cars on a daily basis to go to work, and these won't be affected by the new fees. You are targeting the wrong people. Better improve other public transports so that these people don't use their car to go to work.

SUBMISSION ON DRAFT LONG-TERM PLAN 2018 - 28, FROM TRELISSICK PARK GROUP

Submitter and contact name: Peter Reimann on behalf of Trelissick Park Group

Address: c/- 51 Heke Street, Ngaio, Wellington 6035

Phone: 04 938 9602

Email: nz.peterreimann@gmail.com

Date: 3 May 2018

Trelissick Park occupies the valley between Ngaio and Wadestown/Highland Park. Our Group enjoy a collaborative relationship with Council and appreciate the work it does in the Park. Our comments on the 'Consultation Document Our 10-Year Plan' are below.

Growth initiatives risky and extravagant - The Plan lists a number of growth initiatives, costing many millions, to attract more visitors for conferences and tourism. However, the world appears to be increasingly unstable politically and climatically. Wellington also lies on a major fault line. Visitor numbers could easily suffer long-term collapse due to warfare, climate change or destructive earthquake/tsunami.

Accordingly, we support Option 2 on p.36, for the Movie Museum and Convention Centre* not going ahead. The same applies to the airport runway extension and the indoor arena on p.38. This could release more funding for environmental purposes - see below.

We should invest more in green spaces - Our parks, reserves and coastal areas are combined with the urban areas, making Wellington a unique and attractive city. Well maintained pest-free natural green spaces provide a return on investment with better mental and physical health, productivity, inventiveness, sense of place, cultural well-being and attractiveness for all.

We support the storm clean-up and predator-free initiatives on p.17. However, the infrastructure strategy on p.47 shows only 8% going to parks and reserves. We should invest more in maintenance of parks and reserves, as well as control of pest weeds and animals in our natural green spaces.

Stormwater and housing concerns - The 'Vision Statement' on p. 10 refers to Wellington as an 'eco city' - which we support. We also support the projected upgrades to the stormwater system on p.13, need for a housing strategy on p.24 and sustainable growth on p.32.

However, housing developments and infill housing are causing more fast stormwater run-off from hard surfaces. This causes flooding, stream bank erosion, siltation and destruction of aquatic life.

This root-cause of fast stormwater run-off must be addressed. New developments should be biophilic. Council's 'Water Sensitive Urban Design' guidelines for stormwater must be mandated to counter these adverse stormwater effects. All developments, including new roads, must have a neutral effect on stormwater runoff, such as by use of swales, wetlands, planting, green walls/roofs, soakage areas, permeable (instead of hard) surfaces, stormwater detention and roof water tankage.

Sustainable Growth - Streamlined Consenting

Option 1 for sustainable growth on p.34 includes a review to streamline consenting procedures. However, there is a growing tendency for major developments to be consented without public consultation. If Option 1 is to proceed, a way must be found to allow more public participation, which is also speedy. Comments from the public often highlight issues not thought of by the developer or Council.

One example, is the recent application to put 17 housing units on a small property adjoining Trelissick Park, jeopardising the original forest remnant below. Although the application is still being processed, there has been extensive public feedback on the application.

SPECIFIC REQUESTS

New entrance and track for Trelissick Park from Oban Street, Wadestown – The Mayor's introduction on p.3 refers to a need for improved walking routes. Many residents of Wadestown and Highland Park are denied walking access to green spaces within the 10 minute guideline in the Suburban Reserves Management Plan 2015. A residents' and users' survey by Council is about to take place on a track for Trelissick Park from Oban Street, Wadestown. We expect this project to proceed this year, after community advocacy since 1981 and Council organising a legal right of way in 1999.

Request: a budget provision for the entrance work from Oban Street down the legal right of way past the houses and for ongoing maintenance of the track and footbridge. (The rest of the track will be upgraded by volunteers to Council standards and the footbridge will be funded from community donations).

Parking on Lower Ngaio Gorge Road – Parking for Park users is dire as a result of the major landslips.

Request: make a budget provision for a new parking area just up-hill from the lower Park entrance, currently a grassy 'lay-by'.

Walking Tracks and Links

The Plan shows the many millions of dollars to be spent on improving cycle routes into the city. Yet walking, in comparison, gets scant attention. This is where the tracks of Trelissick Park are important for their through routes, ie Northern Walkway, Sanctuary to Sea Walkway, Te Araroa Trail and the planned track from Oban Street, Wadestown. All these routes provide links from the suburbs to the city.

The 'Walks and Walkways' section of Council's website provides excellent guides and maps, including a comprehensive map showing 'walking only' and 'combined use' tracks. However, this map does not show the multiplicity of linking tracks/footpaths between streets. Adding these to the map, with publicity, would encourage people to walk into the city or to an intermediate bus route, explore more and benefit from our green spaces.

Request: add to the following map the linking tracks/footpaths between streets, with publicity:

<http://wcc.maps.arcgis.com/apps/MapJournal/index.html?appid=4eef692753dd488d8200d896d2c80c2a>.

Cycling Routes - Developing cycling routes in Ngaio/Khandallah/Wadestown is referred to on p.28. Trelissick Park, with many tramping style tracks, cannot withstand cycling environmentally. It is also popular with walkers, children and off-leash dogs, so is a safety issue. The current cycling prohibited status must be retained.

Request: Retain cycling prohibited status for Trelissick Park.

*Old town hall and Michael Fowler Centre seem adequate for many convention purposes.

Yours sincerely,

P. M. Reimann .

Peter Reimann
(Chairman, Trelissick Park Group)

I support the EQ strengthening of the St James Theatre and Wellington Museum, but strongly oppose spending money on refurbishing the Old Town Hall. ~80M dollars can be better spent on other projects such as the WCC contribution to the new events centre.

The council should be more proactive in establishing a city wide mountain biking plan. A good start has been made, but more could be done especially in conjunction with other agencies such as the WRC, Lower Hutt, etc

Councillors and city officials should always have it at the back of their mind that it is largely ratepayer money they are spending, so they need to be prudent with these funds

Wellington desperately needs more housing development to keep up with population growth. There should also be plans to develop infrastructure alongside these developments. For example light rail options around heavily populated areas.

I strongly support Wellington City Council's leadership in providing social housing and supported living options for our most vulnerable citizens. We have been a real leader in this space compared to other parts of New Zealand in recent years and I support this continuing to be developed. Caution should be maintained over SHAs to ensure they will meet community need and are balanced towards long term outcomes. There is no question that affordable housing is needed, but we need to be careful to ensure they are not rushed and put at risk of the quality and livability of the houses in the development for future generations.

A Rental WOF is an absolute necessity! Rental properties are a business and they need to be regulated, just like every other business. The new Healthy Homes Guarantee Act doesn't go far enough. Exterior walls need to be insulated as well, and windows which don't pool with water from condensation would be great as well.

And tear down Gordon Wilson Flats and build something new.

- Introduce water meters, if this is not feasible, due to topography, then huge engagement/encouragement for the reduction of water use - commercial/industrial and residential. i.e. reducing, not building yet more supply. So spend more on resilience by reducing water needs, not by increasing supply. - Educate the public about stormwater pollution that goes into our streams. E.g. clean cars on grass and provide car cleaning pads so chemicals don't go into stormwater/waterway systems → look after Kaiwharawhara and other streams. - e.g. contact http://www.theclean.co.nz/ they are looking for Wgtn sites, perhaps council could provide land in the corner of parks and they could provide the service. On average in Kapiti they currently use only 2.69c of water / day i.e. lower than restaurant use. They have filtering stormwater systems to clean chemicals. - Begin monitoring and repairing stormwater systems, include filtering systems. - Use one of http://www.stormwater360.co.nz systems to filter stormwater before it reaches streams → though this would require costly pipe convergence.

- Encourage (at very least) painting of galvanised/zinc rooves so that the zinc runoff doesn't go into streams. (In Auckland study 50% of zinc was found to come from rooves).
- Create a predator free city urgently. Yes to encourage community, city and continuing regional , council trapping. So that Zealandia can spread out across the city creating the most amazing city with our native species evident. I would like tuatara in our back yards.
- Yes add land to the Wgtn town belt, protect and plant our special native eco (sourced)-trees and creatures.
- Yes reduce landfill. E.g. by introducing plastic bag free shopping and reduced, recyclable and biodegradable/compostable packaging to the retail outlets and of course encourage own bag use. Life is not a shopping mall.
- Take great care of the historic buildings that we have left including the Kaori Teachers Training College Campus and Gordon Wilson Flats. Massey house, NZ racing conference bldg and other modernist buildings and houses by Architects and for example the Kiwi storage building on Ngauranga Gorge.
- Never build a flyover in our city. Continue with Option X concept, with walkways across the basin connecting the schools, colleges and Newton etc via pedestrian access.
- I'm not sure about the accelerometers, might be better use of money to encourage resilience - by securing cabinets and chimneys and latching cupboards. We know EQs will happen; best that money is spent to prepare for them, i wonder with systems these days if this will REALLY increase assistance time and if this will make a difference e.g. in a big quake assistance will be required everywhere.
- Build a city for pedestrians and bicycles and people and with great public transport. Ensure the bus company is required to run to schedule - some drivers literally just go when they want to, early, they have told me this. Have vehicles on a few more main roads around the edges of city with excellent bridges and access across them like Athfield's city to sea bridge from civic square. Listen to the AI information and don't spend money on roads.
- We need to create alternative sustainable energy supply e.g. solar hotwater, PV and wind generation on small local community scale.
- The Rimu trees at Otari Wiltons need immediate protection from foot traffic.
- Coordination and drive is required to support and liaise community planting, weeding, stream and fish restoration projects etc throughout the region.

- Create cohousing communities including diversity, predator free, composting toilets or Environmental Technology AES systems, water storage that is able to be used for both potable and non potable uses, water sensitive design e.g. permeable surfaces with swales, riparian planting, and with cars on exterior of site. Cohousing and other community projects should include alternative energy generation. <https://sites.google.com/earthsong.org.nz/home/home>
- The council could become involved in supporting and encouraging and being part of cohousing projects, working in with architects, banks and construction companies. Making consents easier by being behind this concept of brilliant community housing providing healthy resilient communities - include cohousing in your SHAs. The council and other ethical funders may like to buy into these developments to show support and provide social housing. There is no need for a developer to make a profit on developments, if sufficient interested parties are involved up front, including resident investment, developments can be sold at cost. E.g. the Nightingale project in Melbourne <http://nightingalehousing.org/>. This may fit within your Special Housing Vehicle but these projects must be sustainable.
- We need to find sites so that Wellingtonians can afford to purchase homes. This could be repurposing exciting buildings or sites and developing land near the city. The ridge north of Newlands to Granada and beyond could be opened up for some superb urban design. This would include North-South streets with properties off these streets then being long north facing sections, allowing great passive solar design. Of course it would also include providing public transport linking suburban areas.
- My concern with landlords bringing houses up to a decent standard is that rent increases pushing some tenants out of the rental market. Tenants are often too scared to ask for anything - improvements, maintenance etc - from a landperson to minimise rent increases.
- I support supported living options, but it is not just the homeless i.e. obvious people living on street, there are many other people living in appalling and unhealthy situations.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Provide pedestrian friendly access and cycle ways throughout the city and suburbs with options that are not alongside roads with fumes and especially away from the incredibly noisy buses. - The cycle plan should occur sooner than 20 years, 10 max. - Invest in sustainable transport options rather than fossil fuel ones that are noisy and dirty and destructive. Also bearing in mind the AI transport that will be upon us before your cycle plan has been mastered. - I support public transport resilience but not of roads, i believe your question on this is misleading and that WCC should not be intentionally misleading the public: We propose to invest in transport-related initiatives including a range of renewal and resilience projects and improvements to bus routes and shelters. This mentions bus routes and shelters but from the picture link it is about Victoria tunnel i.e. roads and this may be where the majority of the funding would go and if this is the case I think this is misleading. I think it is also misleading to combine both public transport and roading (for cars) in one question.

2018 WCC Long Term Plan Submission

I do not believe the submission method with oppose - support buttons is fair, as the questions are directing the answers in many instances. Sometimes questions have two in one, e.g. composting is with trapping - though perhaps these do need to go together, as composts/worm farms tend to attract pests. There will also need to be a place, for those without, to put the compost, perhaps community projects.

I would like the future of Wgtn to include:

- Introduce water meters, if this is not feasible, due to topography, then huge engagement/encouragement for the reduction of water use - commercial/industrial and residential. i.e. reducing, not building yet more supply. So spend more on resilience by reducing water needs, not by increasing supply.

- Encourage (at very least) painting of galvanised/zinc rooves so that the zinc runoff doesn't go into streams. (In Auckland study 50% of zinc was found to come from rooves).
- Create a predator free city urgently. Yes to encourage community, city and continuing regional , council trapping. So that Zealandia can spread out across the city creating the most amazing city with our native species evident. I would like tuatara in our back yards.
- Yes add land to the Wgtn town belt, protect and plant our special native eco (sourced)-trees and creatures.
- Yes reduce landfill. E.g. by introducing plastic bag free shopping and reduced, recyclable and biodegradable/compostable packaging to the retail outlets and of course encourage own bag use. Life is not a shopping mall.
- Take great care of the historic buildings that we have left including the Kaori Teachers Training College Campus and Gordon Wilson Flats. Massey house, NZ racing conference bldg and other modernist buildings and houses by Architects and for example the Kiwi storage building on Ngauranga Gorge.
- Never build a flyover in our city. Continue with Option X concept, with walkways across the basin connecting the schools, colleges and Newton etc via pedestrian access.
- I'm not sure about the accelerometers, might be better use of money to encourage resilience - by securing cabinets and chimneys and latching cupboards. We know EQs will happen; best that money is spent to prepare for them, i wonder with systems these days if this will REALLY increase assistance time and if this will make a difference e.g. in a big quake assistance will be required everywhere.

- Build a city for pedestrians and bicycles and people and with great public transport. Ensure the bus company is required to run to schedule – some drivers literally just go when they want to, early, they have told me this. Have vehicles on a few more main roads around the edges of city with excellent bridges and access across them like Athfield’s city to sea bridge from civic square. Listen to the AI information and don’t spend money on roads.
- We need to create alternative sustainable energy supply e.g. solar hotwater, PV and wind generation on small local community scale.
- The Rimu trees at Otari Wiltons need immediate protection from foot traffic.
- Coordination and drive is required to support and liaise community planting, weeding, stream and fish restoration projects etc throughout the region.

Housing

- Create cohousing communities including diversity, predator free, composting toilets or Environmental Technology AES systems, water storage that is able to be used for both potable and non potable uses, water sensitive design e.g. permeable surfaces with swales, riparian planting, and with cars on exterior of site. Cohousing and other community projects should include alternative energy generation.
<https://sites.google.com/earthsong.org.nz/home/home>
- The council could become involved in supporting and encouraging and being part of cohousing projects, working in with architects, banks and construction companies. Making consents easier by being behind this concept of brilliant community housing providing healthy resilient communities - include cohousing in your SHA’s. The council and other ethical funders may like to buy into these developments to show support and provide social housing. There is no need for a developer to make a profit on developments, if sufficient interested parties are involved up front, including resident investment, developments can be sold at cost. E.g. the Nightingale project in Melbourne <http://nightingalehousing.org/>. This may fit within your Special Housing Vehicle – but these projects must be sustainable.
- We need to ‘find’ sites so that Wellingtonians can afford to purchase homes. This could be repurposing exciting buildings or sites and developing land near the city. The ridge north of Newlands to Granada and beyond could be opened up for some superb urban design. This would include North-South streets with properties off these streets then being long north facing sections, allowing great passive solar design. Of course it would also include providing public transport linking suburban areas.
- My concern with landlords bringing houses up to a decent standard is that rent increases pushing some tenants out of the rental market. Tenants are often too scared to ask for anything - improvements, maintenance etc - from a landperson to minimise rent increases.
- I support supported living options, but it is not just the homeless i.e. obvious people living on street, there are many other people living in appalling and unhealthy situations.

Transport

- Provide pedestrian friendly access and cycle ways throughout the city and suburbs – with options that are not alongside roads with fumes and especially away from the incredibly noisy buses.
- The cycle plan should occur sooner than 20 years, 10 max.

- Invest in sustainable transport options rather than fossil fuel ones – that are noisy and dirty and destructive. Also bearing in mind the AI transport that will be upon us before your cycle plan has been mastered.
- I support public transport resilience but not of roads, i believe your question on this is misleading and that WCC should not be intentionally misleading the public: We propose to invest in transport-related initiatives including a range of renewal and resilience projects and improvements to bus routes and shelters. This mentions bus routes and shelters but from the picture link it is about Victoria tunnel i.e. roads and this may be where the majority of the funding would go and if this is the case I think this is misleading. I think it is also misleading to combine both public transport and roading (for cars) in one question.

Sustainable growth

- WCC plans need to protect our city (including buildings, land, wildlife, trees etc) from thoughtless and intentional destruction, greed, selfishness and short sighted thinking - this may not include easier consenting. We can design fantastic communities that support our ecosystem and are sustainable.
- We're proposing a District Plan change to open up another section of the quarry to access additional rock resources. I would like to know where, which section if proposed to be opened up, isn't this obvious information that the public would like to know that could be shown in a photo or two?
- I strongly oppose Wellington Zoo upgrades. We should be investing in NZ's unique wildlife that exists nowhere else on the planet, as Zealandia does. Ratepayers already provide HUGE subsidy to the Zoo and most ratepayers are unaware of this and the council needs to inform the public of this clearly and transparently. NZ has wildlife existing nowhere else in the world that we could bring to our city. We are losing apx 25 Kiwi a week in NZ and they will be gone by 2050 if we do nothing. We could have kiwi in our city. We have only a few hundred Takahe left and this is where we need to invest - in Wellington Barking geckos, dragonflies, tiny insects etc and planting and pest control to support them. People can see giraffe's and cats in other countries but nowhere else on the planet do Tuatara exist. The world will, and do, come to visit Wellington for this reason, to see these rare creatures seen nowhere else, lets expand, support and put our money where we can provide something no other city in the world can create and provide. This has been proven by what has been done at Zealandia, there is no argument.
- I utterly oppose using sites with fantastic aspect i.e. view and north facing for interior facing buildings. These flat north facing sites with views are like hens teeth in our city and the council continues to construct inward facing buildings i.e. that require no view from them. For example the ASB Sports Centre in Kilbirnie, Te Papa and unbelievably now a movie museum on Wellingtons prime site. This is detestable - these are precious sites with gorgeous views toward the north for controllable warmth and free heat.
- I support investing in EQ strengthening of the town hall, st james and wgtm museum provided that they are made accessible to the public, at times without cost and to community groups etc at low cost. So that they do not become the venue for only the wealthy.

Overall i support the arts, however, first we need a sustainable city. This includes excellent public transport, pedestrian walkway connections that are not along roads, as much as possible, and this should be designed into any future development. We need to create a cycle friendly and safe city so that more of us can cycle. We need to reduce and monitor and filter our pollution. We need to look after our environment, so that it can support us to live well, healthy and happily (and as you know this will also drastically decrease our medical and hospital costs). Our city has so much to offer, we have long gorgeous coastlines and large areas of vegetation due to the topography. Let's retain and improve on this and create an amazing sustainable city that could exist nowhere else on earth.

Kind regards,

Juli Usmar

Whilst you have recognised the importance of getting people out of their cars and walking, you have not included any pedestrian related initiatives.
Here in Karepa Street, Brooklyn, there is a 350m stretch of narrow road between the intersections with Apuka Street and Ashton Fitchett Drive that has no footpath whatsoever. There are cars parked on the edge of this road which forces pedestrian out into the roadway which is very busy. Not only do residents cars use this stretch but it is used by the Kowhai Park Bus as well as mini buses carrying tourists to the wind turbine. If the council is serious about getting people walking, then it must invest in building footpaths in the first place. People with prams or with mobility issues are not going to risk life and limb in such dangerous situations.

I think there should be a substantial upgrade to the Khandallah Park swimming pool. It is a wonderful community facility, not just for the nearby suburbs but for greater Wellington and has been underfunded for many years. It is now nearly 100 years old and needs upgrading to allow its usefulness to the Wellington community to continue.

I have reservations about relying on private companies to deliver these outcomes affordably and would feel more comfortable if this was a WCC/ NZ government-run initiative rather than WCC/ Private developer run initiative. Let private developers stay in the private market not social housing. I would like to see our unemployed young men being given employment opportunities on these projects and not have a situation where the council - outsources to development corporations who in turn outsource to private companies which will drive the cost of the delivery up and by default the drive up cost of the social housing, to where it is no longer affordable. The rents are already not in reach for a lot of people who are living on the breadline with their bank-accounts are merely transit accounts from low income/welfare - to corporations. In the real world currently rent is being paid in lieu of food, utilities and other real world necessities. I am fully away of this because we currently run a free food bank from our council estate and the food is snatched up in the first hour or so every week. Rents in comparison to state housing are overloaded based on local property values - if your neighbour's house is worth close to a million dollars, our social housing is no longer affordable based on that policy. I would like to see this project stay a part of a WCC/ Govt initiative and not private developers and contractors.

My family and I would really like to see a real effort by council on encouraging people on to bikes. This morning I rode into town to my meetings and it was so lovely riding through the tranquil green space that is the Basin Reserve. Wellington is a special city - and is lovely and compact city, lets keep it that way by not building miles and miles of new roads.

I'm a bit concerned about the lack of reference to climate change and our obligation to future generations to do what we can to reduce our emissions. This is a major issue for every city in the world and I'd like to see Wellington City do its bit.

Main issue with public transport in wgtm is the high cost. Factoring in extra time it takes me to catch the bus as well as the high fare cost these days I often opt for driving or catching an Uber especially if I am with another person or more. Subsidising public transport would make me more inclined to hop on a bus when heading into town rather than taking my car.

More arts funding is desperately needed, as a country the amount of publicity and funding that sports gets compared to the arts is shameful. A lot of our young theatre practitioners are moving to Auckland because of how vibrant the Auckland theatre scene

Comments:

Accessibility. I am surprised that this doesn't seem to get a mention and it reflects how low down on the list accessibility is as a priority. There are so many venues, even public ones that shut out our disabled and elderly population and mean that they cannot participate fully in what Wellington has to offer.

I would like to see the preservation of Khandallah Pool included in the plan, it needs a major upgrade and is a much loved destination for all Wellingtonians. Our 4 children live there in summer, and my 80 year old grandmother still enjoys swimming on the odd occasion. But it is well overdue for an upgrade. So please ensure we save this wonderful site. And bring it back to its former glory. Heck let's make it even better than before!

What happen to the Odyssey project? Council has spend more than 10 millions on rates payer money. Can we have an update on that. As per the previous mayor it has to delivered by Sep 2017 ?.

I particularly would favour an increased support for music and theatre. The classical music offerings in recent years in the NZ arts festival have been disappointing, perhaps that can be improved with council funding?

Other priorities

Comments:

I think that the council should lobby central government to allow it to be much more involved in the provision of public transport, and to change the funding model for public transport away from user-pays. The legal restrictions on what councils are allowed to provide are ACT-inspired nuttiness and should be scrapped. I would love to see Wellington city council taking a lead in working to change this.

The focus on arts is good but nothing on sport in the 10year plan. We are more than just arts and the sport portfolio councillor should have ensured that there were some sporting priorities in here. Need to start investing into the khandallah pool. It is highly used over the summer. Would like attention to improving the junior Cricket grounds and supporting the grounds keeping staff to do so. At the moment some are just a bit of Astro turf rolled over a heavily used football ground.

Cycling is a complete and total waste of ratepayer and taxpayer money. 2% of all commuters are cyclists, and they don't use existing cycle lanes or even obey basic rules such as wearing a helmet, stopping at red lights or not riding on the footpath. More should be done to discourage this behaviour, perhaps parking and walkwise wardens could be given the power to issue instant fines to these cyclists? Say, $50 for being on the footpath, another $50 if the helmet is missing.

Correct the cyclists behaviour first, stop them being such a hazard and a nuisance to the 98% majority and ruining Wellington's pedestrian-friendly nature, THEN once they're behaving, look at spending money on them.

Keep and heat Khandallah Summer pool and maintenance walking tracks up to Mt Kau Kau. Both are highly utilized and provide valuable outdoor space for a large number of people in the wider area. Locals do not want to have to lose a facility they can walk to with their families, and have to drive further afield (i.e. congested city locations like Thorndon pool that have limited parking, or indoor pools such as Johnsonville & Karori).

Special Housing Areas (SHAs)

While I support SHAs, I am firmly opposed to making the consent process quicker. It is essential that the consent process is done transparently, and allows enough time for interested individuals and organisations to understand plans for new developments, and respond/object to these plans. It is essential that this process is transparent and is not rushed, unlike - for example - the recent Shelly Bay debacle, which was far from transparent, and left many residents in the dark.

Inner-city building conversions

I support inner-city building conversions, if they provide accommodation that is reasonably priced and accessible to a wide variety of people. Furthermore, it is essential that these conversions are done properly (observing the standards followed, for example, in Europe), so they provide solid, sound-proof, safe dwellings, instead of gimcrack fast conversions through which developers make money, while tenants have to live in sub-standard (noisy, damp, unstable) housing.

LGWM

I do not support any development that sees tunnels or bridges near the Basin Reserve. Such development would permanently change the character of the area. It would be more in the interests of WCC to reduce road traffic, rather than building structures that will probably cause traffic to increase.

I do not support weekend parking charges in the city. I do not have a car, but naturally, many of my friends and colleagues do. A lot of them do use public transport to get in and out of the city during the weekend, but some - for various reasons - use their cars in the weekend.

Free parking during the weekend means the people who may not be able to access the city centre by public transport in the weekend are able to drive into the city and enjoy its amenities for recreational purposes, without incurring more expense. This is important for people on a low income, and the elderly. Some people also need to bring equipment into town during the weekend, which they can't bring on public transport.

Cycling Master Plan

The Island Bay cycleway has been a disaster - a very expensive disaster. Lack of proper planning, lack of consultation, lack of regard for the character of the area, and space available, all contributed to a situation that divided a community. Subsequent cycleway consultations have demonstrated similar problems. As a cyclist, I applaud the provision of safe cycle routes that can be used by everybody, from school children to recreational 'slow' cyclists, the elderly, and people who like to go fast. But these cycleways must not disrupt other users of the area. I am not a fan of cars at all, but in the case of Island Bay, I recognise that the new system was very difficult for motorists to contend with as well. WCC needs to take more account of all relevant stakeholders.

I would like to see more in this area with a focus on reducing carbon emissions and other ways we can educe the speed of climate change as well as a focus on resilience. Support for community resilience programmes and other community engagement programmes are a key part of resilience. Strong small communities lead to a strong bigger community.

We need to bring the housing market under control not the lack of said homes. There are plenty of homes but the rental market is not managing these properties they need to look after them and be fair in pricing. Same for selling of homes why are the homes almost double there rates values. Greed that%0Ùs all greed.

Comments:

Control the cost of houses beyond there true value. Private sales are unfare and the worth of old homes is too high. New homes are unobtainable unless you have a family fund to lean on.

Green waste collection for composting, or provision of at home composting kits and guidance.

Ensure cycling master plan is supported by facilities such as public showers, secure parking, shared use tyre pumps and a good way finding app and signage.

I think that people who can cycle to work generally do, or take public transport options available to them. I do not agree with making it more difficult for all people with cars who come into the city. Many people, like me, are taking multiple persons in our car, and small children to school/daycare etc, before coming to work. I previously used public transport or cycled, and I will do this again when my children are old enough to get themselves around, but while they are young I need to use my car to get to and from work after taking them to/from daycare and school.

The Khandallah Pool must be saved for another 100 years. This is an iconic and much loved piece of Wellington, it is extremely well loved and used by all Wellingtonians - the only pool with such beautiful grounds and park/playground so close to the city and walking distance from public transport. Please put Council money into saving this wonderful Wellington resource.

Comments:

In general the Council should prioritise a strategic focus/initiatives that enhance the well-being of its citizens. This means: continuing to, and increasing, support for our natural environment; privileging initiatives that tackle climate change and ensure access for all to healthy food and water sources (free of added chemicals such as pesticides); providing infrastructure and services that ensure connectedness of individuals to their communities; and continuing to encourage arts, cultural and sporting activities that are accessible to all. I think Wellington is on the right track, but it could be more ambitious. We should be NZ, if not world, -leading on areas such as waste minimisation and recycling and supporting sustainable and eco-conscious local businesses. I also believe the City needs to ensure its policies' effectiveness are measured in terms of its citizens physical, emotional and spiritual well-being.

Wellington is already easily accessible, however, I would like Wellingtonians 'bite the bullet', and future proof ourselves with 'light-rail'. A considerable expense but could be the envy of the Southern hemisphere. I envisage either electric or solar powered, above road, service connecting the waterfront, Courtenay Pl., northern end of Newtown, Te Aro, Lambton Quay, and possibly the Ferry Terminal.

Council needs to focus on providing infrastructure for arts and community activities. For example, it's a far more efficient and equitable use of money to provide discounted rehearsal space for all, than to fund a few advantaged individuals who are able to write a well-worded funding application to then rent rehearsal space at market rates, while everyone else misses out.

Rental warrant of fitness will be unnecessary once there are enough places to rent - maybe that should be the focus, when there is competition, landlords will need to work harder (prices go down, standard goes up)

quality, both visual and functional shouldn't be underestimated when building/and renovating - city should control not only THAT houses are getting built, but also WHAT is being built, as this shapes the future of Wellington in many ways

Introduction of weekend parking fees - instead there should be less availability of roadside car parks and more of what's happening on Tory street right now. Parking fees will not resolve the problem, but a lack of carparks will (or at least a dedication of some areas that can be used for parking, while others stay free from cars)

Let's Get Wellington Moving (LGWM) - i strongly agree with scenario 1, disagree with the others. especially in the city centre there should be more pedestrian and cycling only areas, e.g. the whole of Cuba Street. commuters into the city should be encouraged to use public transport. maybe even a super low rate for Wellington residents should be considered. if not free transport in peak times.

introducing safer speed limits is a great idea, especially in residential areas - eg. Jackson Street in Island Bay is a dead end street with poor visibility and cars parked on both sides - motorists drive up 50+ while children play on the street. Here, and in comparable situations a speed limit of 30kmh if not lower should be beyond question

Internal policy capability to inform robust decision making. I was worried by the lack of rigour around deal and decision making about co-investment/sponsorship for an airline to come to Wellington. Irrespective of the merits of that arrangement, it was revealing about the Council's policy and decision making processes, and made me lose confidence in the Council and its capabilities.

As well as strengthening tunnels, the council should consider creating or improving alternative routes or tunnels for key traffic choke points for significant population areas. For example, losing the Karori tunnel could effectively isolate a large proportion of Wellington's population.

The standard for any rental warrant of fitness should be at the MINIMUM level required to provide adequate healthy and AFFORDABLE rentals. The current highly aspirational proposals are driving small investors from the market and will reduce the stock of available rentals in Wellington or incentivise people to leave properties empty awaiting capital gains. This is a problem in many western cities where potential landlords see highly regulated rentals and rental agreements as undesirable.

Wellington is a great place to live, but finding affordable housing is challenging. It would be great to see more options for affordable housing explored. Particularly for those people who do not need large houses.

However, seeing subdivisions crawling across the hills in the northern suburbs, it is important to also have good infrastructure in place (eg public transport) and understanding the impacts urban sprawl is having on the environment.

Snapper cards are fantastic. But they need to be able to be used across the whole public transport network. Busses and Trains. Snapper cards also need to be remotely topped up via direct debit as an option so we don't always have to do into a Dairy store to do it. Have a look at the Sydney Australia's Opal card system.

Consult with the people at every step of the way. Not only rates payers but uni students living here, businesses, families, people in rentals, school students, Don't leave people out please.

Also your residential rubbish system needs some work done to it. Yellow and green rubbish bags that need to be purchased weekly are not a good option. We should be a city trying to eliminate plastic bags! How about some wheelie bins where our rubbish, recycling and green waste can be disposed of.

Those yellow and green council bags are not attractive on our streets, and they are not sturdy enough.

Think about it.....If I buy a pair of shoes and I want to throw the box away. I break it open to flatten it. Then I put it in those allocated council bags.....The bag fills up over the week and then it rips because of the firm edges of the cardboard. A mess to clean up. Solve the problem by having Wheelie bins for all homes. If wheelie bins are not an option for all homes then you need to come up with a better solution than those designated bags we have to buy. Please work on this!

Transport in 20 years will be completely different than transport today. Autonomous cars will make it unnecessary for many people to own cars. Cars will spend far less time parked, being unused. It is smarter to invest towards this future rather than sink money into projects trying to fix current congestion and parking issues which will likely abate by themselves.

1. While I strongly support the Predator-free proposed initiative, I am concerned that there are no proposals to deal with other pests impacting the Wellington environment. A range of invasive weeds, in particular, Old Man's Beard, Pampas and Banana Passionfruit, are commonly seen around the city. They occur on council owned land as well as private properties. For example, OMB is on the banks on the sides of the roads near the Karori Tunnel and Birdwood Rd, behind houses either side of Glenmore St, throughout Aro Valley. The Council have done little over the past few years to carry out effective control of these and other weeds. Native birds will not be able to thrive in these weedy environments if native plants are covered or outcompeted by these highly invasive weeds. 2. I would like to see more effort by council to actively increase planting of native species in reserves & parks to create bush corridors and increased habitat for native birds. 3. Increase funding support for Zealandia and Otari Wilton bush, while enhancing Wright's Hill Reserve as an important native bush buffer to Zealandia.

1. I do not support any changes in zoning around the Karori area (i.e. Campbell, Verviers, Beauchamp streets) to medium or high density housing. This was proposed a couple of years ago. There are a number of character homes within this area and changing the current zoning will alter the character of this area.

1. The bus Service needs to be reviewed and improved. The fares are expensive, compared with Christchurch, for example. Because a company collects the fares, the motivation is profit, not improving public transport.
The upcoming changes to bus routes for some Karori residents will actually make the journey longer and more disruptive as passengers will have to change buses during their commute to work. The response by the affected public will be to use their private vehicles.
2. The buses are using old technology (fossil fuel, diesel) and this is in stark contrast to the aspirations of Wellington City and NZ to present a clean green image using renewable energy.
3. There needs to be improvements to the roads in and out of the CBD to/from Karori. Traffic on the roads leading into the tunnel has increased dramatically over the past few years and there is significant congestion during peak hours.

Good quality Housing is vital to us all. It should not be just for the rich. As a community we want everyone to have a clean, warm home to return to. It is so wrong to have Wellingtonians seeking shelter in the nooks and crannies of our city. We know they get sick and die younger. We are overall a well educated well off city, so we can afford to support more community housing for our residents.

We need to take a regional approach to housing the homeless, working with the councils in Porirua and the Hutt.

The objective is to provide a long term solution so once housed other needs can be addressed. Housing is the first step, and the most vital step.

I am a daily cycling commuter. It's a stressful way to get to and from work because we don't have dedicated cycle lanes. It takes all my courage to cycle up Featherston street! The waterfront is congested not only with pedestrians, but construction vehicles, small trucks servicing the cafes, council vehicles etc. it's really busy now. I have been cycling this route for many years and it's getting busier and more hazardous. There are insufficient places to park our bikes. Shop owners and building owners need to provide cycle racks.

I would like more emphasis on Maori, not only street names, but generally more visibility for maori. We are the capital so we have an obligation as the capital to confirm our first people's. I think we are making a start. On Waitangi Day there was a celebration in Waitangi Park and we went to the excellent open day at the National Library. But really it was rather low key. It should be big! We know that pakeha generally are not aware of our history, so our public spaces and museums must place greater emphasis on the history, culture and language. In ten years I would like Te Reo to be routinely spoken and understood at public events.

Housing needs to be a priority. It's unacceptable that here in Wellington we are paying $800 for a shabby 3 bedroom house. It's damp, cold, rains inside and things will be broken for months without it being fixed. Somewhere only 2 hours away Palmerston North we paid $400 for a 4 bedroom house warm and everything this place doesn't have.

My house is one of hundreds like this. In fact it's my third house in a row like this.

I work full time and struggle to afford housing. If rent was to go up much more I'd be nearly homeless.

Why can't housing be cheaper when there's more people here.

The special housing zones only impact homeowners in less affluent suburbs like Newlands, they will reduce the value of our houses and turn our communities into ghettos. This is why it isn't being done in rich areas like Khandallah. Also, the new transport routes are reducing bus services through suburbs like Newlands and Paparangi and there are no roading projects planned so travelling by bus into the city for work is going to be increasingly impossible (and it is already very difficult)

All the proposals do is benefit rich people, not parents struggling with young kids in less affluent suburbs. I can not make my young child cycle from town to Newlands, you have reduced bus services and made them more expensive. If we have to pay to park in town on the weekends too it means my kids will never be able to go to events in the city. The council hates children and everyone who isn't healthy or wealthy, along with the elderly.

I'm proud that Wellington is a big provider of social housing and fully support this. However it is not the role of the city council to provide "affordable" housing which just contributes to support our low wage economy. Next comes the idea to sell off communal assets built up over decades in favour of individual dwellings later to be on-sold at profit. People may think that selling half the Berhampore golf course for housing is a good idea (who plays golf there?) without any understanding of the role played by large swards of green in assisting our water table and the environment

Light Pollution Impacts and Risks for New Zealand

Risks include to our environment, socio-economic future, Health, Education and responsibility to protect New Zealand's Indigenous Cultural Heritage

May 2018

Introduction

There is a world-wide trend for increasing light pollution, with 80% of North American and European citizens now unable to see the Milky Way at night. New Zealand, with lower population and roading density, still has significant areas where the night sky can be clearly seen¹. Our country depends strongly on a clean, green image – “100% Pure” – so protecting the values of the night-time environment fits the character of the New Zealand image.

The Opportunity

Before it is too late, we seek to maintain this advantage by urging government at all levels to halt any decisions immediately until an inquiry is led to examine the real impact of these decisions with all scientific research presented.

We urge government to adopt certain outdoor lighting policies and practices that have been shown to reduce light pollution while providing sufficient light for all of our outdoor activities at night. We therefore call upon leaders to make well considered choices as they decide our country's lighting future.

We wish to further raise alert to the cultural risks which are not yet considered in these critical decision-making processes: specifically, relating to Article Two of the Treaty of Waitangi. Māori, Pasifika and Indigenous people around the world, for thousands of years have maintained an interconnected relationship with the sky. Many still use the sky as a tool, by which to gather and plant food, as well as to share narratives gather data. The night, Te Pō, is in our genealogy lineage 'Whakapapa'; therefore, the night sky is taonga (a treasure) and protected under the treaty agreement. Depleting access to this is a very serious concern to the cultural heritage and livelihood of many peoples.

Trend for Increasing Light Pollution

The trend of increasing light pollution in New Zealand is similar to that the rest of the world², so we only have a small head start on saving our view of the night sky. That head start will be eroded by a New Zealand Transport Agency (NZTA) initiative to replace all the street lights in New Zealand with new white LED lights. The goal behind this initiative – reducing both electricity consumption and carbon emissions – is noble. However, there is a huge difference in the amount of light pollution created by white LED lights and most existing lights.

All LED types help fight climate change, but some have the potential to create significantly more light pollution than others. We're concerned that the latest scientific research on LED impacts has not been taken into consideration by NZTA before increasing the subsidy to replace almost all the streetlights in New Zealand in the coming year. For more information on good and bad LED lights we have provided a section on 'Blue Light and LED' in this document.

Three areas of concern

Three broad areas of significant concern exist regarding outdoor lighting and light pollution. We urge careful consideration, including the latest scientific research, before the whole of New Zealand undergoes conversion of street lighting to white LED. These are:

- 1 – Visibility of the night sky and the connection this makes for our children's curiosity and learning, as well as our communities' cultural connections to the night sky. A full 86% of New Zealanders live in urban areas lit with outdoor light at night.
- 2 - The known and suspected threats to our health presented by light pollution. This is particularly true as concerns our children, which recent research indicates suffer disproportionately³, and on the impacts to all our circadian rhythms which control our sleep / wake cycles. Interrupting this with artificial light at night is recognised to have physical and mental health impacts.
- 3 – The disruption to our native wildlife behaviour. By trying to turn night time into day we are confusing the natural behaviours and patterns of our native wildlife and impacting their feeding strategies, defensive behaviours and reproduction cycles⁴. We're probably also impacting their mental health through sleep deprivation, if only they could tell us...

Latest scientific research

We would like NZTA to pause its plans and properly consider the latest scientific research on the impacts of the type of white LED it proposes. NZTA has selected as its preferred lighting technology white LED whose 'correlated colour temperature' (CCT), a metric describing the colour quality of the light⁵, is rated at 4000 Kelvins (K). As a point of comparison, most lighting currently installed in New Zealand uses high-pressure sodium (HPS) technology, which has a CCT value of about 2100K. The proposed new 4000K standard results in the emission of significant quantities of blue light into the night-time environment, unlike any other lighting technology of the past century. The choice of 4000K white LED is in part motivated by the NZTA M30 Specification and guidelines for road lighting design⁶, issued in 2014, that call for a 4000K roadway lighting colour temperature standard⁷.

In turn, M30 draws heavily from the AS/NZS 1158 Series (Lighting for Roads and Public Spaces)⁸ standard, last extensively revised in 2010 before LED lighting became widely available. Neither source justifies the 4000K standard with public safety evidence; rather, in the year in which the M30 was issued, only LEDs with such high values of the colour temperature were capable of achieving the desired degree of energy efficiency. Nowadays, LED technology changes so quickly that individual lighting products are rarely on the market for more than about 18 months.

⁷ "All new LED luminaires shall have a nominal colour temperature near 4000°K such that the values shown in Table 4 for CCT tolerance and Duv and tolerance for a Nominal 4000°K CCT are achieved." (§27.2, p. 29)

Unacceptable

This type of LED, with high CCT values, has been found publicly unacceptable in other places in the world⁹. Some objections involve the perception that such lighting can negatively influence people's sense of wellbeing. In 2016, the American Medical Association released a report¹⁰ of its findings concerning the potential public health impacts of white LED lighting, encouraging "communities considering conversion to energy efficient LED street lighting [to] use lower CCT lights that will minimize potential health and environmental effects."

It further recommended "use of 3000K or lower lighting for outdoor installations such as roadways." We are, at the same time, unaware of any scientific evidence suggesting that high-CCT white LED lighting somehow conveys any advantage in terms of public safety or security that lower-CCT options do not.

Use 3000K or below

We therefore propose NZTA use lighting products rated at or below 3000K, and that it choose the option that results in the smallest amount of blue light emitted into our night-time environment. These 'warmer' type of LEDs are in increasingly wide use today in major cities around the world, and have come to equal 'cooler', high-CCT options with respect to energy efficiency, colour-rendering properties, and price. The use of high-CCT white LED lighting is now merely an aesthetic choice, one which is uncoupled from the technical considerations that once favoured it. Electing to use a low-CCT option delivers essentially identical energy savings and cost savings as the more polluting types NZTA is currently installing.

Outdoor lighting policies

Poorly designed and installed lighting costs the world economy billions of dollars each year¹¹. As a matter of cost savings and reduction of greenhouse gas emissions, New Zealand should look beyond the energy efficiency gains of LED to comprehensive policies that address the waste of resources caused by light pollution. We encourage each city and region of New Zealand to implement outdoor lighting policies on both public and private properties.

The International Dark-Sky Association, the recognised global authority on matters relating to light pollution, offers a Model Lighting Ordinance¹² (MLO) on which such policies may be patterned. This model policy was developed in collaboration with the Illuminating Engineering Society, another international organization representing lighting engineers and designers. Policies similar to the MLO are already in use in New Zealand; communities in the International Dark Sky Reserve at Tekapo on the South Island, for instance, enacted outdoor lighting restrictions three and a half decades ago.

The NZ Government Rules of Sourcing 2014¹³ require in Rule 4 that government organisations:

- "Get the best deal for everyone - account for all costs over the lifetime of the goods or services"
- "Make balanced decisions - consider the social, environmental and economic effects of the deal"
- "Encourage and be receptive to new ideas and ways of doing things - don't be too prescriptive"

Our proposal is consistent with all of these principles. The cost of these initiatives is negligible while delivering all of the climate change benefits and electricity savings currently promised. However, such outcomes require consideration of the emerging research in what is a relatively new area of technology. We don't think this is too much to ask, given the seriousness of the impacts.

Blue Light and LED

Traditional lighting technologies, such as incandescent light bulbs, have a warm, amber glow, mimicking the sunset at the end of the day as everyone prepares for sleep. Unfortunately, these light sources also emit significant heat and so are wasteful of energy. Climate change is quite rightly a major focus of world attention, and ways to limit energy use are being investigated. As lighting represented upward of 20% of total global electricity production in the era before LED lighting became commercially viable¹⁴, a clear need to reduce our dependence on inefficient lighting technologies exists.

One logical approach would be to reduce the amount of street lighting, given the number of such lights in the world and the long hours during which they operate, but this would require a brave council to make the case. Over many years, a combination of Hollywood movies and misinformation has convinced people they are safer if we have lights on at night.

However, there is no reliable scientific evidence to support this conclusion^{15,16}. Simply put, lighting is a minor factor in what is really a universal and ongoing social problem, and there is no basis for believing that the deployment of additional outdoor light at night will cure society's ills. What our country needs is not more light, but more thoughtfully designed and installed light.

LED technology has provided an option which side-steps this issue while delivering the energy savings society desires. LEDs produce more light than heat, making them fundamentally more energy efficient than earlier lighting technologies. However, prior to 1993, LED was only available in red, orange and green which wasn't desirable to replace street lights.

This changed in 1993 when Shuji Nakamura invented the blue LED. Nakamura's invention enabled the efficient generation of 'white' light by taking a small amount of blue LED light and passing it through chemical coatings inside the capsule of the LED to produce red and green light. The combined effect of this red, green and blue light has the appearance of white light to the human eye. Its exact colour qualities are determined by the chemical composition of the 'phosphor' used to create the other colours. However, significant amounts of blue light leak through the phosphor, enhancing the resulting 'white' light in unnecessary (and environmentally hazardous) blue colours.

This emission of so much blue light is new to the night-time environment, and brings with it certain consequences. In the last few years, research has shown that this causes a number of problems:

- Blue light scatters more in the atmosphere, which is why the sky is blue during the day when the sun is high in the sky. At night, blue-rich white light creates more light pollution than an equivalent brightness of a warmer (more amber) colour¹⁷.
- Our home, the Earth, has a regular cycle of blue skies during the day, warm yellow / amber sunsets in the evenings, and only dim moonlight and starlight at night. It was discovered that our bodies rely on the blue light from the daytime sky to regulate our body clock and many biological processes which impact our health. The discovery was even rewarded with a Nobel Prize in 2017¹⁸. By introducing blue light at night we confuse our bodies and impact our sleep cycles, mental and physical health.
- Animals have also recently been found to be impacted by the colour of light pollution, as well as the intensity. As well as international research, there is research underway at Auckland University on this topic¹⁹.

Shielding

The design of traditional and poorly designed LED lights also wastes light through directing it up and across as well as down where it is needed. You'll hear Dark Sky advocates talk about 'fully shielded' or 'full cut-off' lighting that eliminates this. However, blue light emitted at very shallow downward angles turns out to have the most significant (and negative) effect at large distances from the source; the result of this is that even fully shielded, high-CCT white LED sources can result in skyglow becoming significantly worse at distances from cities of dozens to hundreds of kilometres.

The use of low-CCT white LED products instead of their high-CCT counterparts can help to reduce this effect and lower the light impact of cities in remote areas. Proper shielding is our first line of defence, but we need additional strategies to achieve the best possible outdoor lighting.

Dimming

Along with shielding of lights, and opting for 'warm' white LEDs, we recommend that the owners of lights consider reducing their total light output. That can be accomplished by selecting dimmer lights, or using switches, timers or motion sensors to reduce the amount of time that lighting is active during the night. One might even consider turning lights off completely when people are not around to use it. A combination of these approaches has recently been shown to contribute positively to reducing the impacts of light pollution in cities²⁰. As the spectrum of light emitted by LEDs provides more blue light than other lighting technologies of the past, it is much more suitable to provide sufficient illumination at lower intensities. Therefore, dimming can further reduce the need for light while ensuring adequate public safety.

Summary

The introduction of LED lighting technology in New Zealand has brought advantages in terms of reduced energy consumption and maintenance, longer working life and increased controllability. LEDs in their early state have also brought unintended consequences. However, we should take care to ensure that by acting in ways to solve one environmental problem, we don't simply exchange it for another. The use of LED can effectively prevent this outcome, but only if it is carefully implemented.

Limiting the use of this light to only the times and places where it is needed for the performance of outdoor tasks, and in the amount and spectrum appropriate to those tasks, is the most effective way to reduce both light pollution as well as the impact of outdoor lighting use on climate change. As an added benefit, this approach contributes positively toward preserving the integrity of dark night skies for which New Zealand is increasingly known and admired throughout the world.

Before New Zealand is fully committed to the uptake of these lights, more research and more technical development of the LED is required such that the government is fully informed of its options and equipped to make the best possible decisions on behalf of its citizens. Furthermore, New Zealand's environmental policies should be reviewed and updated to include protection of the night-time environment and to give effective guidance to the rules and regulations that are needed to care for the intrinsic values and functions of our night. We view these strategies as a win-win proposition for all stakeholders.

Taking these steps will position New Zealand at the forefront of nations with respect to light pollution control policy, and materially improve the wellbeing and quality of life for all New Zealanders. We respectfully call for urgent consideration of these matters.

On the subject of heritage, I believe we should also focus on historic sites around the Watts Peninsula area. This reserve is something the council has discussed but has seemingly been shelved at this time. The Watts Peninsula reserve plan could assist in historic preservation, environmental protection as an area of green space for native bird life, and potentially still have medium density housing built next to the reserve for our growing population. The reserve could then bring the public to the Miramar peninsula, increasing the economy in that region.

On the subject of SHA's, I believe this is a potentially dangerous option. Resource consents are a painfully slow process, but streamlining them could lead to a loss of cultural or environmental sites if done incorrectly. I trust that the council would provide ample research into the best way to streamline our current system, but protecting sites of importance is vital as well.

On the issue of weekend parking fees, I wholeheartedly agree that public transport is better than personal. That said, I feel the solution to this is not to charge everyone more for using their city, especially on a weekend. I believe that at this moment in time, with many of our carpark buildings (such as Readings Cinema's) demolished due to the earthquake, there is a very notable shortage of parking in the centre city. Until this issue can be resolved, either by public charged carparks or privately owned ones, I do not feel we can compromise on the carparks we currently have.

Comments:

I feel that overall this upcoming plan should help Wellington continue to grow. Recent water shortages and transport issues have made our growing pains clear, and I feel that it is time to address them as this plan does.

I also think we must not forget some of our older plans. Revisiting the Basin traffic jams is necessary for the health of our public transport system, due to the time buses spend such in this area.

As mentioned, I also feel that it is important to continue working towards protecting some historic sites around the city. The council has done a fantastic job with many historic buildings and sites, such as the Fort Dorset walking track in Seatoun. I feel this work should be extended to a reconsideration of the Watts Peninsula reserve, especially with all of the recent planning which threatens some of the 1890's fortifications on that land. I understand this land is crown owned, but I hope that consideration will be given to the valuable parts of these sites as development commences.

I have faith that these protective measures will be put in place, as I am full aware of people within the council who agree with me on this issue, and I know that culture and heritage are a major part of Wellington's identity which the council has upheld repeatedly.

To reiterate, my concerns and recommendations are not at all to the detriment of the Wellington City Council. The work they have done for this city is fantastic, and given we only have one major blunder (the Island Bay cycle way) to discuss when it comes to criticism, I feel the council deserves a great deal of praise. The work being done is generally high quality, with very few exceptions. As a resident of Wellington I have no doubt that the council is working to improve the city and bring us into the future, while still retaining our past.

The Council needs to put more effort into adaptation to climate change, eg managed retreat.
The Council should be charging for both commercial and residential use of water, which would both incentivise reduced demand and provide a more effective means of payment for infrastructure, as occurs in other locations like Auckland, Nelson and Kapiti. Water sensitive urban design would also help.

If I understand the plan correctly, The average rate of $3080 (source Stuff.co.nz) increasing by 3.9% years 1-3 and 4.1% for the next 7 years, will increase the average rates to $4576 in year 10. An increase 48.5%.

As you said "This is an ambitious plan".

I would prefer to support the rate increase be limited to the rate of inflation. Maybe for the really important items like resilience you might consider a separate charge until completed, as oppose to lumping it to the rates bill.

You have your head in the sand about our transport issues. You think cycling is a silver bullet, and you are as misguided as the retailers who think GST on foreign sales will help them. Look at the real congestion issues. You could start with red-light-runner/intersection-blocker cameras at various bottlenecks around the city. They'll learn when it hits them in the pocket.

Get your head out of the sand when it comes to cycleways; our weather is crap, and it won't solve the motorway/basin congestion. I hope Council will always consult closely with passengers and potential passengers re route changes. Plans to terminate the Route 14 bus route at Hataitai, for example, will require a major journey break for many.

I believe this is the time for Council to remove funding for an airport runway extension from its 10-Year Plan. Selling Council's stake in the airport will free up large sums for other priorities instead of borrowing.

Council receives a mere 3.2% dividend on its $375m stake in the Airport company, and has little influence on WIAL's plans. Council should sell its stake and thus have money available to fund other priorities instead of more borrowing. It would also remove any obligation to provide funding for a runway extension.

I do not believe cycling is a practical commuting options for the most people living in Wellington's hilly suburbs. Priority should be given to reliable, frequent, affordable and comfortable public transport service. Cycling may alleviate congestion in some parts of the city e.g. flatter areas with wide roads. However, there is a risk that cycling will hinder public transport where roads are too narrow for dedicated cycle lanes. It is not uncommon to see a bus with 50 commuters stuck behind a single cyclist (sometimes even in a dedicated bus lane). Where busses and cyclists have to share the same space: more cyclists = slower busses.

I do not support the expenditure of $10m for Shlley Bay infrastructure. The developer should be paying all that cost and not getting a huge subsidy from the city.
I think that before money is spent on coastal resilience a thoughtful study needs to be done on what can be sustained and what should be abandoned given the high probability of a rise in sea level of 0.5 to 1.0 m

I do not think Shelley Bay meets the criteria for a special housing area. The infrastructure does not exist, which is a key criteria and the plan proposed by the developer will not provide any affordable housing in spite of the proposed huge subsidy from the city in terms of infrastructure build and leasing out what should be public space.

Elimination of homelessness needs to be number 1 priority for the long term plan

Mandatory cat monitoring! It is absolutely crazy how much emphasis is put on dogs in the city, yet cats are roaming free unchecked. You talk about a predator free city and yet allow cats to wonder around. They are literally built by nature to effectively kill birds!

More emphasis should be placed on micro-chipping cats or putting restrictions on cats being able to wander the streets/nature reserves freely. It's sad that dogs are not permitted off leash in many nature reserves in the city, although many dogs are better behaved than cats that are allowed to roam unchecked. Cats are a greater threat to bird and wildlife than many other predators. A big change to the environment and waste management should be to ban all plastic bags entirely in supermarkets and retail shops, as well as plastic straws. A larger emphasis should be made on recycling especially soft plastics.

Transport should be a top priority for the council. Traffic is becoming increasingly congested and problematic, also contributing to increased pollution. Public transport services should be improved to be more available and affordable, encouraging people to use buses and trains instead of their cars. Drivers should have to pay for parking in the CBD every day (including weekends) to discourage driving. Cycling should be promoted with safer cycle ways to encourage more people to cycle, thereby reducing the number of cars on the roads. There should also be more bicycle parking available throughout the CBD. Recharge stations for electric vehicles should also be more easily available.

There appears to be a great deal in the plan related to reducing the effects of environmental damage and preparation for what is to come. Yet there is very little to do with reducing Wellington's impact on the planet. Surely there should be a focus on moving towards a more sustainable society, both in terms of businesses and general living. Improving our recycling systems, educating people on the importance of caring for our environment and how to do so, reducing waste in all factions and raising awareness of the causes of the environmental issues we face are just a few of the things which will be of great importance in the coming years. Reducing the carbon footprint of Wellington city should be a priority in the next ten years, yet all I can see is a focus toward both preparation for the consequences of climate change and finding ways of making the city look greener/more efficient from the outside. Whilst these may be important issues to deal with, more important is actually finding and stopping the problem at the source-one which is barely even being addressed.

Any projects to improve the walkability of the city and/or to encourage public transport should consider improvements to accessibility. Getting around parts of the city with a stroller, a wheelchair or for people who otherwise have an inability to climb stairs is almost impossible. Increasing the number of accessible pedestrian routes, or at least indicating on signage which pedestrian routes are accessible, would be really helpful.

Resilience against natural disasters should be our biggest priority. No longer can we stay naive about when the big one will hit. We must act now so we don't end up like Christchurch.

I am not sure how to interpret 'sustainable' in 'sustainable growth'. Is it the growth that needs to be sustained? (I guess it sustains itself by the constant influx of people, which is implicitly treated as a 'given' in the above description.) Or is it

Comments:

I think all the initiatives outlined above make sense and in an ideal world all would get unlimited funding support. But in our real world the tricky bit is to effectively and efficiently allocate the limited resources to ensure the best outcome over time. I think the fact that I had to express support for each of the initiatives in isolation assumed away the inherent trade-offs we (the City) will need to make. Unfortunately, they do have to compete against each other. And how we weigh the priorities against each other, what is relatively more important to some or all priorities is what would truly surface useful insights into our preferences.

I won't have access to the final results of the survey, but my intuition is that the responses will be heavily skewed toward 'pro' responses ('agree', 'strongly agree'), exactly because they are such causes that are difficult to say no to, if treated individually.

I find a lack of clarity, about what exactly is social housing, and what is affordable housing %oÛÒ who are the targets for each. This should be clearly set out in the plan, for benefit of the city, and to guide future planners.

Important that community cares for those who require help at any stage through their lives. It is also desirable to attract talent and skills to the region by enabling affordable housing to encourage people to move to/ stay in Wellington. I support increasing the level of expenditure on social and affordable housing.

However it is also important that WCC expects tenants%oÛª respect for the facilities provided, that facilities are well matched to the residents needs, and that this resource is allocated efficiently. I make this comment with the understanding that there is an overlay of complex community and social factors that needs to be considered.

Inevitably the housing programme will require significant maintenance and construction. I note that SHAs are proposed that will possibly entail a streamlined resource consenting path and several incentives. This streamlining must not be to the detriment of protecting the environment, existing residents rights, and the character of our city and suburbs. Streamlining of resource consent processes must be carried out very carefully and with community consultation. Incentives need to be clearly designed to assist those who will use the housing.

From the exposure that I have had with WCC%oÛªs recourse consent process, it appears that existing residents%oÛª rights are not accorded high priority, beside developers interests, and WCC%oÛªs interest in driving growth. Housing developments, particularly those with Council investment (as council works for and on behalf of the community, and is governed by community representatives) must value community input and communicate openly through all resource consenting processes. It is the community%oÛªs own character, infrastructure, and day to day living that will be impacted by significant housing developments, therefore existing residents opinions deserve to be heard and carefully considered.

I don't think Wellington is at all suited to light rail - to the point I can fly into a rage if it's EVER mentioned! The topography and consequent pressure on flat land in the CBD means it will be extremely expensive for very little return. I DO strongly support making buses more affordable and easy to use (the indicator signs at bus stops are awesome!).

The growth of mountain biking in the Wellington region is an opportunity to provide a destination for visitors and fantastic facilities for riders of all ages. I absolutely LOVE Makara Peak and it proves that it's a sustainable, low impact and positive asset for the city. I very strongly support investment in mountain biking facilities across the region.

What scope is there in the council plan to for initiatives that foster small to mid range venues? The council supports Toi Whakaari, the NZSM, providing training for hundreds of new creatives every year. They just invested heavily into Te Auaha, boasting

Comments:

Most wellington rental houses are damp and cold, this needs to be addressed to cut down on electricity and provide people with lower incomes habitable places to live, without putting that cost on the renters.

Wellington should be the arts and culture hub of new zealand, i would love to see this come back from the current decline i am seeing in this area.

More accessible public transport, its cheaper for me to drive from the kapiti coast into the city (including parking) and this is wrong - public transport should always be the cheaper option - also cheaper still for students (including uni and polytech students).

Investing in a friendlier city for bikes would also be great, currently the tight streets are dangerous.

Also the mount vic tunnel is horrible for pedestrians, people always tooting and the amount of fumes that people have to walk through, i would love to see an alternative walkway for these people to invest in people that are choosing to not drive. Even developing the walk way to be sectioned off with good air ventilation? (Im not an engineer this might not be an option).

I would love to see a better recycling/composting system in the city.

would love to see all the markets and events using compostible food packaging - and why not paper bags? newtown festival does a great job at this - should be city wide!

Would love to see clean up activities in the water (walking around the waterfront if you look into the ocean its littered with rubbish)

Is it possible to get more workers at the wellington tip to mediate what gets chucked in the tip? I have personally seen people chuck near new furniture in there that could be sold at the tip shop - and this would probably cover the wage of someone checking peoples tip rubbish..

I love seeing initiatives like the tools library and it would be awesome for grants to be made available for community initiatives like this

Try to have renewable and local sources of energy, in case of earthquake: biogas production from compostable waste, water heaters from solar energy (with incentives), rain water recovery (with incentives as well)... this would enable the city to be more resilient in case of major earthquake.

The fast-track is a good idea, but nothing is said about the quality of houses. Some regulations, based on the European ones, should be set-up to force builders and owners to do long-term choices instead of low cost solutions.

The Council should set-up programmes to improve innovation around Wellington, in topics relevant for the city; how to build long-term, green and sustainable houses; how to improve global resilience in case of catastrophe, how to re-locate economy with circular economy. Some same size cities in Europe, as Grenoble in France or Malmo in Sweden, has chosen heir development axis to improve these topics, and this is globally successful. Maybe the Council could have a look on their cities development?

Resilience on energy production should also be a concern for Wellington.
Biogas production from food waste should be investigated as a way to provide energy as well as a waste management solution.
Thermal solar for hot water production should be installed on public buildings in order to improve city resilience to emergency situation. It could also be subsidised for housings as a cost effective way to increase city resilience, as well as reducing its overall energy consumption.
Rain water recovery could also be investigated as a way to reduce the needs (and therefore costs) of improving water network resilience.

I strongly oppose to the fact that people living in the city will have to offset "parking revenue losses" : Increase it during week days instead! It will increase the use of public transportation of people coming to CBD to work... Plus, public transports are harder to find on the week-ends!
In order to reduce CBD overcrowding, implementation of activities areas OUTSIDE of the city should be promoted (tax exemption, low cost offices...).

Climate change adaptation should be at the core of city priority : It cover resilience, energy and water management, sustainable housing, waste management, transports... all core services of the city Council.

Does this city Council want to be remembered as the one which started the profound and necessary changes of this city so it will be successful in the world to come... or as the one which waste valuable time and money in vain projects such as a movie museum or an airport runway extension?

We need to be investing in public transport. Right now Wellington is a joke. The problem is that there are far too many cars which is because catching public transport is expensive and unreliable. An investment in a working public transportation system would not only help Wellington become a more liveable city but it would also help with the environment.

The statement "There are no cost implications for the Council at this time." is misleading, as there is from these proposals still a cost implication for rate payers.

So the cost will either be born directly or indirectly by rate payers. Wellingtonians will either pay directly, or indirectly via rate increases. Either way it is an increase to the cost of living in Wellington.

There needs to be a explanation what the cost to Wellington and Wellingtonians will be.

The focus on cycling and similar transport methods ignores how impractical these are for families. It ignores how impractical they are given Wellingtons weather. This all works to alienate families from inner Wellington. This makes inner Wellington a place that is designed for singles and family-less couples.

The statement "There are no cost implications for the Council at this time." is misleading, as there is from these proposals still a cost implication for rate payers.

So the cost will either be born directly or indirectly by rate payers. Wellingtonians will either pay directly, or indirectly via rate increases. Either way it is an increase to the cost of living in Wellington.

ALL OF MY RATINGS AND COMMENTS SHOULD BE READ IN CONJUNCTION WITH MY OVERALL SUBMISSION THAT ANNUAL RATES INCREASES SHOULD BE NO MORE THAN INFLATION PER THE RESERVE BANK; AND LOWER IF POSSIBLE. IF PREFERRED PROJECTS NEED TO BE DEFERRED THEN SO BE IT.

* I support improved water storage as an anti drought measure but think the Council should encourage through words (but not through direct funding) for households to purchase water butts. No matter how much is spent on distributed water storage, the effect of any earthquake on the connecting pipelines is unpredictable and therefore we should not put all our eggs in two or three baskets, as it were.

* I strong support better waste water network improvements as this is a basic Council core responsibility

* I support Miramar & Tawa stormwater improvements but strongly oppose ratepayers through the Council paying for any Shelly Bay infrastructure improvements. If developers cannot fully fund their planned Shelly Bay redevelopment then let the project lapse. It's not the Council's business.

* I oppose Council contributions to the BHIF. At most we should offer loans against future rates receipts; or if grants are made to private property owners then a lien should be placed on the title for a refund of the grant plus interest at an appropriate commercial. It's for building owners to invest in their asset, not for ratepayers to give them a handout.

* I'm neutral regarding accelerometers. There's not enough information about the benefits of knowing more quickly re. the effect of any earthquake. Would this have saved lives in Christchurch? Is it "nice to have" or "have to have"?

* I'm oppose Predator Free Wellington. While I'd like to see predators gone from Wellington, I regard cats as predators and the Council's plan does not address their presence. I'd prefer verbal support from the Council; plus considered financial support for selected sub-projects. However I think the notion of the first capital city to be predator free is fanciful, not helpful & simply a justification for spending more & more money.

* I oppose funding trapping community groups & strongly oppose food waste subsidies. Motivated citizens will provide their own traps & initiatives (and there are philanthropic bodies providing funding if justified). Businesses should completely fund their waste food disposal as part of on-going operations. It's not for ratepayers to subsidise them.

* I support strengthening the transport corridor for resilience purposes; and for the same reason oppose trams as they are not a resilient transport method. The bent railway lines after the Edgumbe earthquake illustrate this clearly.

* I support additional redundancy being built into the water supply but think that new residential development fees should cover much of the cost of making additional water available.

* I cautiously support better waste minimisation, as long as there is no direct charge on ratepayers. However I believe that operating the dump is a key Council responsibility; including having a sufficient number of public rubbish bins around town that are emptied in good time.

* At the level of funding discussed I support the Council in its storm clean up proposal.

* I strongly oppose the Council's acquisition of this land. It does not look after the land it already owns sufficiently well to be acquiring more (just look at the state of parts of the Town Belt, Trelissick Park etc in terms of rubbish & weeds). I accept the Council now owns the piece of land in question but think it should be sold to developers for housing purposes.

ALL OF MY RATINGS AND COMMENTS SHOULD BE READ IN CONJUNCTION WITH MY OVERALL SUBMISSION THAT ANNUAL RATES INCREASES SHOULD BE NO MORE THAN INFLATION PER THE RESERVE BANK; AND LOWER IF POSSIBLE. IF PREFERRED PROJECTS NEED TO BE DEFERRED THEN SO BE IT.

* I don't think the Council should be providing social housing at all. This is the role of central government; as ratepayers we simply subsidise taxpayers. Therefore I oppose funding for the SHIP as a whole. To the extent that SHIP funding is required to ready Council social housing for sale (planning, geotechnical work etc & subject to a satisfactory business case then I support limited funding for divestment purposes.

* I oppose the Council wasting time & money on developing a housing strategy to ensure Wellingtonians are well housed. This is simply not the Council's business. Leave ratepayers' money in their own pockets & let them make their own choices about renting, buying etc. The Council should butt out.

* Again, I oppose the Council interfering in commercial-to-residential building conversions. It's the Council's role to set appropriate minimum standards & then let the market decide.

* I strongly oppose Council support for Special Housing Vehicles. Council staff are not business people and are not qualified to be spending ratepayers money in this way. If they are enthusiastic about doing so then they should resign from their Council jobs & become developers (or work for one). If they think that's too risky then what make them think Council (ratepayers) should be in that line of business?

* Rental WoFs appear to be driving residential landlords out of the business, which leaves tenants vulnerable. I believe tenants & landlords should form their own view as to what is reasonable; and let them vote with their feet. Central government can set advisory standards on what could be reasonable for rental property but it's not for Council to make them mandatory, let alone inspect for them.

* I cautiously support working with & providing for our most vulnerable citizens, particularly in conjunction with MSD as I believe providing housing is a central government/ taxpayer responsibility.

ALL OF MY RATINGS AND COMMENTS SHOULD BE READ IN CONJUNCTION WITH MY OVERALL SUBMISSION THAT ANNUAL RATES INCREASES SHOULD BE NO MORE THAN INFLATION PER THE RESERVE BANK; AND LOWER IF POSSIBLE. IF PREFERRED PROJECTS NEED TO BE DEFERRED THEN SO BE IT.
* I strongly oppose Council providing & spending on cycling infrastructure. Cycling is a minority hobby, indulged in by a small part of the community only; that will never be accessible to the majority of the community & that should not be funded by the ratepayer. In my observation many cyclists, where they exist at all, use the road rather than the cycle lanes already provided. They are a complete waste of money that simply narrow the existing roadway that should be available to all citizens travelling by whatever means they choose to do so.
* I oppose weekend parking fees; in fact I recommend that the time limit be extended to 3 hours. I remember the boom in business in the city when previous parking fees were eliminated. Two hours is not enough time to carry out some engagements, including attending Lions/ Hurricanes/ Phoenix games at the Stadium; nor to attend movies (once parking/ walking to/ from the venue, having a chat with friends encountered along the way etc); hence my recommendation. My prediction is that, if fees are reintroduced, then people will simply vote with their wheels & travel out of the city to where the parking is free, to the detriment of our rate-paying businesses & the city vibe in general.
* Not enough information in the document here to comment in greater depth ; except that I oppose traffic engineering to lower speed limits for social engineering-only purposes. Any reductions in speed limits should be backed by thorough assessment identifying the risk to be mitigated; how the recommendation mitigates that risk and a post-change review to see whether the outcomes being strived for (i.e. greater safety, not lower speeds) have actually been achieved. I do support measures to double the capacity of the Mt Victoria tunnel; duplicate/ extend the Terrace tunnel & pass under Victoria/ Cuba/ Taranaki Sts etc.

I profoundly disagree with the notion that what the Council can't add on to the rates should simply be borrowed. Global interest rates may be low now but history tells us that this situation might not (or might) continue. The rise in inflation & the impact that had on asset values, loans etc was profound & illustrates the point. When leading economists & international banks cannot predict long term interest rates then I do not believe Council staff can foresee with any greater clarity.

As for the notion that our borrowings are low compared to civic assets - again, fanciful. The true comparative is tradeable assets. We may own the local roads which have a considerable book value; but who would buy them & at what cost? How would such a buyer obtain a return, except through tolling? I doubt that any resident would find that palatable.

I think Council should consider selling its share of WIAL. We do not need to own the airport; rather simply ensure central government has an appropriate regulatory regime in place. Owning the airport has led to conflicts of interest (e.g. parking restrictions near the airport leads to increased use of WIAL-owned parking facilities that WCC has a direct interest in; being able to take a neutral view about whether WIAL should be able to compulsorily purchase more of Miramar golf club), not to mention possibly funding requirements for mooted runway lengthening. For these reasons & more I do not believe the ratepayers should be owning a minority interest in WIAL.

Housing is a huge issue. The policy levers are probably more powerful at central government i.e. a land value tax or something similar. However WCC could do things like levying rates to the land value (without improvements) to create an incentive for people to build with a smaller footprint, or to subdivide their section. Wellington is a small place; we need to build smarter, with a higher density. I also get the feeling that the current planning rules favour those who already own land which makes it much harder on younger people trying to get into the market (i.e. minimum site coverage, arbitrary rules around needing a car park etc). If things don't get better, why would a young person hang around? You can go to Australia and get a $10-20 k pay rise and pay less in rent

Separated cycleways are essential, a painted line on the road is better than nothing but is not an ideal solution. One shouldn't have to risk life and limb in order to get around the city. The only way that congestion is going to ease is by getting people out of their cars and onto bikes/buses/trams/walking.

I feel the investment in arts and culture projects have big payoffs in many areas that are not easy to quantify.

Comments:

Continue to encourage entrepreneurial activity in Wellington. Encourage better links with educational institutions. And build on the remarkable opportunities for connections between the public and the national government - this occurs no where else in the world!

Wellington is not taking climate change seriously enough. We should be doing all we can to encourage use of public transit, possibly by making it totally free. We should do all we can to discourage the use of personal motor vehicles.

Too much focus on bicycles, not enough focus on walking. Access for the handicapped is completely missing.

We must take strong steps to discourage cars, and encourage use of public transit in such a way that it doesn't just make cars a thing for the wealthy.

Comments:

The council is a timid Beast.

For Wellington to even survive the next hundred years, as much of it is at sea level, we're going to have to take radical action immediately to strengthen our city and it's capability for the future.

Make public transit completely free. Ban cars rather than just making them more expensive and thus only for the rich.

More bicycle and pedestrian only zones. Actively consider the needs of the disabled and the poor in all decisions. Wellington is terrible to it's handicapped people.

We can become the greenest city in the world. We can become the most liveable city in the world. We just have to be brave and take action.

I like nearly all of these proposals, but building additional reservoirs in an earthquake prone city is not the best method of ensuring water supply. One big crack during an earthquake and we have an astronomical flood to contend with in addition to shake damage. Or, in light of increased rainfall driven by climate change, we end up with an Edgumbe scenario. On top of that, once the ecological damage is done we can never recover it.

We absolutely must tap into the cost-effective and fast manufacturing of prefabricated housing. Forget these agreements with developers that require large numbers of builders on hand and offer "affordable" housing that's $500k+ and completely unaffordable for first home buyers. Put up prefabs in the special housing areas, or offer prefab options for small sections in those areas (medium density prefabs are already being manufactured in Upper Hutt) and let's fix this housing supply problem.

In the last few years there have been two lots of consultations about changes to bus routes. The first time after an excellent consultation process with residents, the proposed route was changed. Then came the Spine proposal and the results of the previous consultation and the second one as well were mostly ignored.

The no. 22 and 23 Mairangi bus route changes in July and will be much more inconvenient to many of the users. A perfectly sensible, extremely useful bus route that went through past the university, through the central city and past the hospital has been downgraded and two buses will be needed to get anywhere past the railway station.

Another "improvement" that is coming is a reduction in the Sunday service to an hourly one. Because of the changes made after the first consultation process, many of the users don't even realise what is about to happen.

Liveability. The five priority areas you've identified have this in common.

Keep liveability as the thread. Your role is to champion people. Sustainably. In settled, safe lives. And the city as the fabric.

Keep your eyes on the bigger picture. Less in the finicky detail.

While these are all noble aims and I have no theoretical problem with them, there is only so much money available and many rate payers are already highly stretched. Some projects will have to be delayed as ratepayers cannot magically come up with 5%+ rises in rates when inflation is at 2% and real wage growth even lower.

If we did not have so many pressing concerns, this would be a fine area to invest in. However when there are pressing real needs in basic infrastructure, expanding the WCC investment in arts seems wrong.

Bus fares are expensive. For a 2 to go to town and back by bus can cost almost $20 return. (4 sections) so reduced fares on weekends could help encourage bus uptake.

In terms of waste and recycling change the material plastic products such as bags are made from to cassava which is a natural root product that breaks down. It is being done overseas with a positive outcome. Also embrace and invest in technology and automation to deal with waste and recycling. Such as set up a waste station where rubbish goes to be sorted. It gets put onto a conveyor belt and big metal arms remove recycling which then gets cleaned and turned into other stuff and reused. The other waste such as food could then be broken down and turned into organic plant food such as fertiliser and sold within NZ and worldwide. Also scientists have just discovered something that eats plastic. Invest in that to deal with plastic

Cap rents for people on benefits and pensions as the accommodation supplement only goes so far and the rent hikes will eventually push those on benefits and the pension into homelessness. Hiking a tenants rent by $60 a week after moving into an upgraded flat is outrageous and another reason your own tenants become homeless. You need to upgrade the rest of your existing housing stock as your tenants are living in cold flats which contributes to them getting sick. You need to be honest and transparent with your tenants about the housing upgrade programme

Rethink double decker buses I do not think they are suitable for wellington streets. Keep the cost of public transport low and affordable perhaps a discount for people on a benefit or pension via their community services card. With regards to scrapping the number 22 bus that currently goes up rintoul street you need to rethink that as your own housing tenants use that bus and it is not ok to take away public transport for those that live on that street

Is there anything else you think WCC should be prioritising over the next 10 years?

Comments:

You need to be more transparent with your existing tenants who live in wcc accommodation that has not been upgraded

You need to rethink increasing the cost of public transport

You need to look at capping rents for people on benefits and pensions

You need to rethink banning plastic instead change the material and embrace and invest in technology and automation to deal with waste and recycling properly

You need to rethink your decision to scrap the number 22 bus from Rintoul Street. People do use that bus on that street.
