B. Who responded - Age distribution of Wellingtonians providing feedback

Most people who submitted were in the age group 19-30, with 24% of submissions. They make up 19% of Wellington's population.

C. Who responded – Wellington ethnicity distribution

The bars on this graph represent the proportion of submissions from each ethnic group versus the ethnic makeup of Wellington. People can belong to more than one ethnic group, which is why this graph adds up to more than 100%.

If heritage building owners are unable financially to maintain their buildings they should consider selling.

With regards to turning inner-city buildings into housing I am for it. However, I am aware that we have a shortage of commercial buildings so not sure how that would be able to balance out Reduce use of plastic and regulate it by imposing law specially in grocery stores that they need to bring their own recycle bags. Recycle bags will entitle you to double points in grocery reward system and also entitle you to raffles or draws.

Please consider mid class earners. Evaluate housing price not based on the buying capability but by consumers average annual salary and based on a fair price comparison. Its not fair to make the price higher just because the demand is high but make the price fair to reduce the % of people renting. This will measure true progress in this country, do not make people suffer because of the non regulated housing prices.

I would like to suggest having more science related events or museums which supports not just the neurotypical kids but also those having disabilities physical and mental like ASD, Asperger etc. Please consider this in your future plans and development of parks and other amusements as well.

Though art is an important part of Maori and NZ culture, it is also best to look at other ways we can help our community develop people to bring their own creativity not just in art but also in other aspects of Innovations like in the Hospitality industry, bringing not just flavors but also cultures to NZ community.

Other priorities

Is there anything else you think WCC should be prioritising over the next 10 years?

Comments:

1. Stabilise housing price, make it fair to median income workers.2. Create more events, museums for kids with disability like those with ASD, Asperger etc.3. Please bring in more volunteers to help kids with disabilities ( mental and physical) specially to the people who cant afford private help.

I don't know if this relates but something that bugs me is how many housing prices in areas/suburbs near the CBD has increased over the years. Gentrification is annoying and I have seen this happen where I live. In proposing these housing projects what does that mean for residents? What are your motives? is it to house more affluent residents to build a more "cultured" Wellington? I haven't actually read fully the information presented, so apologies for any ignorance.

not only look at business side of things but at more holistic advantages (sorry for vagueness). I am from the eastern suburbs and I have seen how things such as sport has been viewed by the council as something inferior to that of business and commercial means (particularly in reference of rugby). This annoys me because such things is what make a 'community'.In general I think an understanding of various cultures and what these cultures value are important for those in the council to understand. Also prioritize different educational pedagogy's in schools. Ethnic groups such pacific and maori, as too, other ethnicities learn different. Cultural variance is important for all to understand, including children.

Public transport needs to be more affordable for more people to adopt it. For example a max daily fare such as in other cities. Or as per Sydney $2.50 for all day transport anywhere on sundays

Wellington needs a proper purpose built live venue to attract international acts and show its commitment to the arts/music and not just holding cultural events in another sports arena. TSB arena seems the only option for the occasional large scale show, which is embarrassing and of poor quality

I have heard a proposal (didn't see it in this document) saying the council is considering a $1million investment in expanding the Makara peak mountain bike park. I full support this as I've seen the popularity of this amazing facility explode over the past 10 years. Its amazing to have a resource like this in the city and judging by the amount of cars parked all down the road every weekend it would be great to develop both better trailhead infrastructure and more trails on this prime terrain.

While I support helping strengthen heritage buildings in the city, I feel most of these buildings are poorly used at the moment and are generally kept in rough shape. I think having offices/apartments in the top levels of these buildings is fine but at street level there should be retail/galleries/cafes that add to the culture of the city.

Parking in the city is a difficult issue - people need to drive there but there are often no parks and driving around is horrible in congested traffic. In other larger cities I've lived in, having a parking building on the edge of town works well. Offering 2hrs free parking when you have your ticket validated by making a purchase from a city store is an easy incentive and 2hrs is plenty of time to get what you need.

Councils need to commit to improving roading infrastructure, Terrace Tunnel to Airport. I'm just seeing 'nice' words here and cycling is not going to fix Wellington's poor roading infrastructure. Also mopeds and motorcycles are a key part of improving free flowing traffic, yet council (or someone in council) doesn't like these modes of transport (all transport modes need to be included).

Movie Museum & Convention Centre, I love movies and no doubt Peter Jackson would provide a world Class museum, but it's a nice to have. And council wanting to increase debt by $500 million should not be a way to achieve this, after all, it's the rate payers who ultimately pay (you know, the people that give council money for services & and in some cases, huge salaries).

Water storage and network improvement - rated 2.5Tawa and Miramar Peninsula stormwater network improvements - rated 3.5; however, crossed out "Shelly Bay" core infrastructureResilience of the transport corridor - the buses which travel around the narrow hills must be smaller - either that or do away with all parking (eg route 14)Additional comments - Where is "upper stebbing"?re Wastewater: in reference to Shelly Bay - the developers should be required to bear the full cost of ensuring infrastructure will cope with future growth or unexpected needs (stormwater and domestic water)re BHIF: this should be means tested (ie charity okay but developers no)re PFW (predator free wellington): surely this is doubling up with GWRC role??Additional comments via attachment to form:Water storage and network improvement- I agree with some of the options but not all, therefore I slightly oppose the options.- As the Horokiwi site is almost on the border between Wellington and Hutt districts, perhaps the GWRC could pick this project up. After all if the GWRC is going to fund some of this project, then that organisation could pick up the whole project. Wastewater network improvement:- I mainly support these optionsTawa and Miramar Peninsula stormwater network improvements:- I mainly support these options - except for Shelly Bay- because both Tawa and Miramar are based on alluvial valleys, the WCC could include in its building bylaws that all new buildings (residential and commercial) be built on foundations which are (at) least 1m high. So if stormwater drains backup, the actual dwelling will hopefully still be dry.- Storm water from these areas could be recycled as grey water to provide for watering vegetable gardens in time of low rainfall. This could also apply to the rest of Wellington City.- With regards to Shelly Bay, if that development is to go ahead, the developers (not the WCC and its ratepayers) should wear the whole cost of building in stormwater infrastructure. Built Heritage Fund- I have varying opinions about this option- while I agree that some groups may need financial support to maintain their heritage buildings, there are other groups which do not fall into this category (e.g. developers)- so I suggest any and all applications to the fund be means tested

Building accelerometers:- I mainly support this option- However since we now have WREMO (instead of WEMO) perhaps the GWRC could be encouraged to contribute to the cost of these units

Predator Free Wellington and Community-led trapping:- I mainly support these options but feel that WCC is duplicating the role of the GWRC as far as pest control is concerned- with regards to food waste disposal, I full support the establishment of rat/mice resistant food and green waste kerbside bins (pickup on recycling days)

Resilience of the transport corridor:- I mainly support this option but the buses which travel around the narrow hilly roads MUST be smaller- Has anyone ever considered putting a travelator along roads such as where the No.14 bus travels above Evans Bay???

Security of water supply - I mainly support this option- However with Wellington's annual rainfall, we could all be saving runoff water for the dry months by WCC providing support for small reservoirs which could easily be sited against the sides of houses.

Waste management and minimisation:- I support this option- I strongly support a system of food and green waste kerb pick up and the development of a recycling system which would put this to good use

Storm clean up:- I support this option- WCC could provide for more employment for post storm clean ups

More land for the Town Belt:- Yes Please!

Strengthening council buildings:- I notice you didn't include this option- Is it possible that there has been an over-reaction following the Kaikoura earthquake? It was the more recently constructed buildings which received damage - not the much older buildings. So that says more to me about the construction techniques.

Comments included in attachment SHIP, Wellington housing strategy and SHAs:- I support all these options- It is important to look at co-housing and small village options. Both would provide for communal vegetable gardens and meeting facilities- Apartment buildings MUST be designed so that they provide for roof top vegetable gardens and tenant meeting places

Inner city conversions:- I mainly support this option, BUT such conversions must provide for roof top vegetable gardens, etc.- If Wellington is lacking in hotels, such inner city conversions could cater for short stays

Urban Development Agency:- I am not sure about this option- If it goes ahead, it must come under direct control of the WCC

Rental warrant of fitness:- I support this option and think such a WOF should be compulsory- In addition, the WCC should pass a by-law which links rent levels to flat insulation and ventilation qualities

Te Whare Oki Oki:- Very important

Notes on form: Introduction of weekend parking fees:- [support] but only if [public] transport improves get Wellington Moving- [neutral] only agree with 2 of the proposals comments NO extension to the runway (but if it goes ahead there should be NO ratepayer contribution)
 Many of the Adshell "shelters" do not provide shelter from wind driven rain.
 Attachment comments
 Cycling master plan:- I support this option and would like to see it completed within 10 years
 Weekend parking fees:- I support this option BUT only if public transport improves 100% and is less expensive to use
 LGWM:- I only support 2 of these options (providing more spaces for walking and cycling around the central city AND providing public transport from the central city to the airport (NOT the existing airport bus which is way too expensive compared with taking the Route 11 to one block away from the airport - great when it's fine.)- Wellington city bus fares are too expensive- More road works? Haven't we had enough already?!!!! There needs to be a comprehensive revamp of road work plans so that all companies work together - do their job once and properly and stop endlessly digging up our roads and footpaths Transport related initiatives:- I mainly support this option with ONE exception - NO runway extension to be paid for by Wellington ratepayers- As far as the bus shelters are concerned, the ADshell 'shelters' are pitiful. They do not provide shelter from wind driven rain and because the wall of most do not extend down to the footpath, our ankles freeze when there is a southerly.

Comments on form - Planning for growth - please hold a series of workshops so residents can get to grips with the issues and contribute ideas          Comments on attachment          Planning for growth:- Wellington will need to grow upwards but in a planned way. This is one area where workshops need to be held so that Wellingtonians can discuss issues and provide ideas.          Kiwi point quarry:- not sure about this option          Wellington Zoo:- I do not support this option as I cannot fathom why animals that normally live in hot climates have to be on show in a cramped area in a temperate climate. Wellington Zoo should not really exist except to educate about native fauna- Any funding which normally goes to the Zoo, should go to Zealandia          Movie Museum:- I absolutely oppose this option. No funds from ratepayers should go anywhere near this museum- A convention centre could be a PPP construction - but NOT on the waterfront. We Wellingtonians need our waterfront for recreation- And cover the cake tin - there is no need to build yet another stadium. WREDA should come under more direct control of WCC

Strengthening cultural facilities:- rated 2.5, question which museum          Additional support for the arts- rated 2.5          Comments from attachment          Strengthening cultural facilities:- Given that the accelerations in the CHCH's 6.5 earthquake were in the region of 2.2g and those in Wellington from the 7.8 earthquake 0.2g, I wonder if planners are just wrapping us in cotton wool just a bit too much. I see a lot of stickers on older buildings around the CBD and Newtown and figure that since they have survived the 7.1 in 1942, various 6.5 quakes in the 1960s and the recent 7.8, they will probably survive further quakes. The buildings which seem to have suffered most in the 7.8 are recent constructions.- The WRAC is often not accessible for lane swimming due to events (so I've renamed it the WREC). We need a 50m pool added to the existing facility to be used ONLY for lane swimming. It only needs to be 4 lanes (so aqua jogging can be included). - I hope to see lanes (25m or 50m) established beside Freyberg pool for sea swimming.          Support for the arts and recreation:- I sort of support this option- Even if the WCC funds events, many cannot attend as ticket prices are generally too high- Access to the libraries must be maintained- Access to pools must be made cheaper so that more people can learn to swim and keep active.

Don't want a convention centre next to Te Papa - it's a really nice park and public space as is. A convention centre won't serve Wellington residents. There are too few large public spaces in the city as is.

I oppose the introduction of weekend parking fees because public transport isn't frequent enough for it to be a viable alternative to private transport on the weekends. If that is changed, or there's an off-peak parking rate, I'd probably support it.

We need to get the city moving. It is getting worse each month and year we let this issue slide. For those living in the city opposing changes as it will ruin their outlook - maybe having the cars moving will stop the fumes from filtering up into their homes providing clearer air in and around their living quarters. The Council also needs to think bigger than a small section so that the public really understand what is being proposed and have their say. Last time it was a joke to say the least when the whole of the Eastern Suburbs didn't realise what would result if the basin reserve fly over was not longer proceeding. Table the big picture and be open to the wider Wellington Community so we all have a voice and not just small few.

Is this a real need or a perceived need? There is a number of venues that are getting upgraded around the city that conventions can be held out so why do we need a specific venue. Are our current venues fully utilised and booked all year round. If not why are we investing millions into something like this. A movie Museum is also something that is very subjective to a certain group of people here in Wellington. I hope that people take the time to voice their agreement or non agreement so that a good gauge is collected on this proposed expenditure which could go towards something for a wider group of people.

Comments:

I am concerned about the lack of money into sporting venues in the 10 year plan. Currently there is only one venue that can be used for televised netball games in the Wellington City and if this is booked up both Basketball and Netball are forced to play the likes of final out of the city and in the opponents city or the likes of Palmerston North. If this was a football or rugby game all hell would break loose and a new venue would be proposed and funding put towards it. I would like to see better equality when it comes to sporting venues for what is deemed minority sports here in Wellington i.e. all sports other than Rugby and Football. Currently netball for the year 1-8s are being played in schools on courts that are maintained by the schools and a rental is paid by the various Satellites to the schools. Most other sporting codes get WCC venues to play &/or participate in their sports. Netball is one of the highest female participating sporting codes throughout NZ and definitely is here in Wellington. For us to continue with this we need to ensure that we are catered for from grassroots all the way through to the Pulse level. ASB Sports Centre is amazing and netball has been there since the day it opened but even this venue is getting over loaded at peak times, netball now having to consider where else they can we go to cater for their numbers. To keep Women in the Wellington City Healthy, WCC do need to think about how they can cater for them like they do for more male dominated sporting codes.

I support rolling out the Cycling Master Plan and hope this will continue. But central Wellington is such a compact area other forms of single-person non-car transport could also be added. For instance shared electric scooters have taken off in US cities like Santa Monica, LA, San Francisco etc - see bird and spin. You download an app, find a scooter, unlock it and off you go. They're easy pick-up, easy drop-off, fun-to-ride vehicles and very popular in universities and city centres. It also fits our vibrant, edgy city vibe.

I support funding to strengthen our cultural institutions and giving additional support for the arts. As a restaurateur, I would add our hospitality sector as a major part of Wellington's culture. Hospitality supports all our cultural and arts events either directly through its own programme events like Wellington on a Plate as well as giving visitors another good reason to stay in our city. I co-own a restaurant in Wakefield Street and have with other business owners started an initiative to encourage people to come to our area - the belt of land between Courtenay Place and the waterfront. We have named it the 'Arts District' as the area is surrounded by cultural institutions, have many creative businesses in the area as well as buildings and streets of historical significance. We are active on social media and have met WREDA and Council as we look to increase our profile, with the support of local businesses. I see retailers, restaurants and creative businesses to be very much part of the 'culture of Wellington.'

Strongly support an ongoing focus on public transport; it is the only proven way to move large numbers of people around a city. It can be sustainable, better for the environment, better for health and better for the public purse. I do not support the Wellington airport runway extension project. The safety and environmental concerns should have been enough to halt any further progress. It is now mired in a legal battle; when a project reaches this stage, it is time to stop.

Comments:

Wellington is very pricy compared to any other city of it's kind in this region. We don't see any focus from government on the main issue of1. Affordable food2. Affordable electricity3. Affordable and pleasant livingI could only read that council is focussing on increasing parking rates, housing rates etc. and making hard for families. Are we proposing discounted rates for family in weekends in public transport before raising parking fee? Where are the policies "Ride to work" like UK got? We only look to raise this tax or the other.

Zoo upgrades + Movie Museum are nice-to-haves but I don't think rate payers should be footing the bill for these. If they will benefit businesses, let those businesses pay for them or come up with innovative funding models. Otherwise Wellington will become more expensive to live in due to higher rates. There's so much that NEEDS to be done. Things we WANT might have to take a back seat, I feel.

Would be good if Wellington Venues considered building its own booking system (like the Film Festival did) and shut out the monopoly that is Ticketek. They charge ridiculous booking fees + clip the ticket. Wellington City would do better without them and needs to be bolder like the Film Festival has been and embrace what's possible digitally in the 21st century.

Stop moving people out of suburbs for other people to live in. Focus on developing the lives of those who already live there. I say this because there's a huge motion of gentrification going on in where I live. The suburb I live in has changed both in a good and bad way. The suburb is a lot more "developed" but the people who've created the culture of my suburb have been forced to move for more rich folk to come in and live.

I think charging for parking in the weekends will cause less people to go shopping in town. You need to either make public transport cheaper or keep parking free in the weekends. Parking during the weekdays is already so expensive. Public transport is ridiculously expensive. If you made roads safer for all cyclists then more people would cycle more. There are so many benefits to this, for example less wear and tear on the roads, less traffic, less money spent of health care etc. Not only do the roads need to be safer for cyclists but people need to be educated about sharing the road with cyclists and how to cycle safely.

I believe resilience for me personal is how we live together and take care of each other as a community, or communities within the city, and responsibility for our actions. Active communities are great contributors to making a city resilient. Please continue or increase support to all those fantastic projects around the city. I also would love to see bins allowing citizens to separate their waste, in the city. Seeing them daily will increase awareness around waste and landfill. Resilience also means encouragement of active forms of transport, like cycling and walking, as it may help increasing more healthier people. To me it also means how we live with each other. Building houses with homes within the city or close by, where people of all ages and from diverse backgrounds live together with shared facilities, enables neighborhoods and communities looking after each other.

The rental warrant of fitness is a step in the right direction, especial for improving standards of providing homes for tenants eg warm and healthy homes. Are there plans to provide stronger support for people who wish to go the passage of long term tenancy? Why, in these days of affordable homes shortage, rental agencies or landlord are still allowed to only provide short-term contracts but ask the tenant year after year if they wish to continue for another year. That is not a fair situation for tenants. Are there any plans to help improving the situations for tenancy across the city?

I believe in today's society and behavior cities most likely have to do way more to reduce car usage. It seems research has shown that turning streets into pedestrian areas only are immensely beneficial. Of course that requires improving public transport as well. Therefore helping people getting onto bikes might be a step in the right direction. Often I feel simpler or innovative solutions may help to do so. Trials like lower Tory Street are amazing. Please do more so. How about options for park and ride. Personal I also find the amount of different speed limits, which change too often within short distances, in Wellington very confusing. Wouldn't it be good to implement just one speed limit, 40 km, throughout the city, including all suburbs, it would help so much improving safe driving, especial with around all the windy hills and confusing parking, narrow streets, but also allow for a better consideration where than improvements for walking and cycling are required. Wellington really is not that big and most places, even the airport are within easy reach.

All projects especially those related to wastewater, storm water and water supply are core council business and strongly supported. The other projects will contribute to building resilient communities.

It is critical to now strongly consider alternatives to the "more roads solution". Let's start building a world class public transport and cycling based transport system.

Why do we have to completely abolish the inner city targeted commercial rate completely? Can it not be a balance, instead of completely user-pays, as retail businesses get a benefit out of it. Would be happy with it being $2/hour.

Ratepayers' pocket are not a bottomless reserve to be plundered for council's pet playthings. To fund a poor-at best business-cased convention centre, when there is plenty of national - and international - competition, has all the hallmarks of a white elephant. Tacking on a movie museum is not a balm to soothe the financial burn either.

More attention needs to be given to protecting pedestrians from cyclists. The footpaths, pedestrian crossings and 'shared' areas such as the waterfront have become hazardous for Wellington pedestrians.

Damage done so far by storms etc. Highlights how infrastructure has been built without consideration of its resilience. Priority needs to be placed on the strengthening of infrastructure in areas not damaged by the likes of floods/quakes, and damaged infrastructure turned into wetland and bush etc. To minimise the likelihood of further damaging landscape and properties. Yes this will annoy people but it will save money in the long run.

Please invest on cycleways and ignore the ignorant drum beat of business owners. Ebikes provide the opportunity to transform cycling in the city provided that the infrastructure is there. Also, connect local cycle infrastructure including single-track. Trails connecting makara, wainuiamata, belmont and porirua would be absolutely epic and would attract people from all over.

Invest in the war memorial museum; this has got to be one of the most neglected but important attractions in wellington. It has so much more potential than has been realised. To include areas devoted to NZ land wars would be ideal, and a first step to its much needed commemoration.

We endorse the WCC's commitment to investing in, and maintaining, critical city infrastructure. Too many horror stories have surfaced in recent times concerning the build up of local government neglect and underspend on wastewater, drinking water, public transport, and other infrastructure. Let's not see Wellington - with its acute vulnerability to a big earthquake and other natural disasters - caught by the same politics. On the environmental front, we can only encourage the WCC to continue to invest in caring for, and growing, the sustainable use of its natural taonga - the town belt, bushy skyline from Makara to Porirua, and other green spaces that intermingle brilliantly with the urban parts of the city.

Is there anything else you think WCC should be prioritising over the next 10 years?

Comments:

We wholeheartedly endorse the Council's positive relationship with, and support for, the Makara Peak Supporters Club. This relationship and the benefits that have flowed from it really are a huge testament to the synergetic effects of local government working effectively with a particular community (in this case, the communities committed to mountain biking, conservation, and sustainable recreation in general). Together, the Council and the Club's combined efforts have brought significant conservation gains, trail development, local economic benefits, and positive community engagement. For this reason, we strongly support the Council's proposal to put a further $1 million over the next period to further working with and supporting the Club in bringing more of these benefits.

Comments:

I think the Council should prioritise maintenance of grassed verges of suburban roads. Our local streets have large grassed areas which are cut only once per year (specifically Fettes Crescent & Tiotio Road in Seatoun). Therefore for most of the year our streets have long unkempt grass & weeds. I have asked for the long grass and weeds to be cut quite a few times over the last few years and I am advised by WCC that the road reserves are cut every 6 months and my request is then passed on to the contractor who then advises that our road reserves are only cut once per year. I would also like the Council to consider constructing land reclamations at Oriental Bay to create additional recreational areas & commercial opportunities to enhance the amenity value of the city. I have attached a document outlining reclamation concept plans.

Submission to Long Term Plan

Oriental Bay Reclamations

I would like to propose new harbour reclamations at Oriental Bay using harbour dredgings and any surplus excavated material from new tunnels as follows:

- A reclamation at Point Jerningham which could be developed into a multi-use area incorporating a park, commercial and residential use and carparking.
- An extension of the existing harbour reclamation at the Freyberg Pool which could be developed into commercial use and carparking. The space between the Overseas Passenger Terminal and the reclamation could be developed into additional marina space.

This isn't a core requirement of the council. Until the council has dealt with fixing the infrastructure then it shouldn't invest into arts or cultural projects. The role of the council is to provide critical infrastructure at the most affordable rates to its ratepayers.

I hope that all housing development, etc. is being viewed with sustainability, resource consumption, and transportation consideration in mind. It should be tied closely to the resilience projects of the 10-year plan.

The emphasis really needs to be on improved public transit. Wellington does not, and geographically probably can't ever have the road or parking infrastructure to accommodate the cars required for everyone to be driving. Traffic is already bad and one accident shuts down the whole road network - investing in public transit (improvements, expansion, etc.) is most critical.

Comments:

These ideas look really promising, but ultimately the focus must be on resilience, sustainability, and smart improvements to public infrastructure (transportation, and water, sewage, electricity networks) as the Wellington region continues to grow. Housing, also critical as the population grows, has to be looked at in very close proximity to these as well. However, I do hope that green space and outdoor areas continue to be valued and preserved as the region continues to grow.

A rental Warrant of Fitness is critically important. The standard many renters, namely students, have to endure is shocking for the prices we pay (that continue to increase), and landlords need to be held accountable for their properties.

The built heritage incentive fund should be used more effectively, and considered in a more strategic manner to uphold the heritage values within the city, whilst not inhibiting growth or delivering wider council objectives. It should not be considered in an isolated manner, and that connections would need to be made to the long term goal (realised through LTPs or WCC District Plan, or Regional Policy Statement). For instance, the Sydney Street substation, which is a heritage listed building and had funding from the built heritage fund. The former substation was allowed to be converted into a residential dwelling in a city centre site, where high rise buildings are anticipated. The conversation (and eventual upgrade) led to reverse sensitivity effect, when the adjacent car park was earmarked for an apartment building, was rejected as it impacted on the owners of this particular heritage building. Although it is acknowledged that the notification decision was challenged, and was successful.. due to the heritage status of the building. It is however hard to not acknowledge that parts of the success factor could have been the residential use of the heritage building, which forms part of the 'existing environment'.

For any potential inner city conversions, i would support any options to convert existing buildings into residential units that are suitable for families, and not just transient population. The issue (in my view) with a lot of NZ apartments (high rise especially) have not been designed with family in mind (2 kids family). To encourage family living in the city, car parks should not be been chastised, but considered holistically in a manner how a family of four, could use three modes of transport (cycle, walk and/or drive) in the time span of one hour within wellington city. In short, provide parks, good transport (all three main modes as discussed earlier) to encourage long term living in the city. i understand that this is outside the scope of WCC, but there is also a need to manage how body corporate for apartments or similar operates as this contributes to the total cost of owning or renting an apartment, especially for those who are interested in living in the city long term, but was not encouraged due to bad design (within apartments/units) and high body corporate fees. note: an old article, but worth reading: https://www.citylab.com/solutions/2014/08/how-vancouver-became-one-of-north-americas-most-family-friendly-cities/375617/ Any changes to existing to convert inner buildings into residential should also be carefully considered to avoid another sydney street substation, or result in any reverse sensitivity effects. buildings that are proposed to be converted into residential must also be evaluated if that was the best use of the building, and a focus on the longer term outcome is required (maybe better use for offices or retail space). we want inner city to be mixed use, and not becoming a single use zone.

I have a few strong reasons to oppose to the introduction of weekend parking rates. They are: - the bus transport is not as frequent and extend as far as you think, despite the change that will be fully introduced on july 15th 2018. Many bus stops are not in close proximity (welly does sprawl too).- many families enjoy the CBD, by bringing their children into the city and their bikes. often this is a 2-3 hours affair. Buses for two adults and two children, will set them back at least 20nzd. It is important to note that not all areas would have frequent buses over the weekend, and the buses often have limited spaces for bikes and prams. the price tag will not differ much if you take the train. - small businesses who rely on people doing 'quick' shopping or get a quick coffee over the weekend will lose out to areas where free car parks are being provided. These small businesses do not have a high profit margin, and may rather shutter over the weekend. this is not desirable to create a vibrant city centre (The Terrace is a ghost town on Sunday for instance). - visitors who own a vehicle and visiting wellington may not want to stay in the cbd for long. Car parking buildings are now scarce in Welly, especially after the earthquakes. - lack of comparative review how christchurch city and auckland city struggle to get their residents in the CBD over the weekend. - removing downtown target rate (revenue only generates 1.4 mil) and introducing weekend parking rate will cost more (monetary and vibrancy of the city) if other transport modes are not being more available (children cant bike through Ngauranga Gorge easily fyi), or cheaper.Suggested improvements (should the parking fee is introduced for the weekend) - charging no more than 1.50 per hour, and only in the golden mile area. - increase the frequency of buses or trains, especially for northern suburbs, porirua or hutt valley to access the CBD - reduce the public transport fee over the weekend. gold coin for children and adults, for example. - increase the capacity of the bus/trains to carry prams/bikes. for example: only 2 bikes are allowed for every train (only one carriage allows bikes) during non-peak hours for Jville Line. nothing against the proposal for better cycleways. i understand this is often more visible policy, especially for local government which has a short 3 year term cycle (i guess same as general elections). However, it is worthwhile noting that just focusing on the proposal to build cycleways, but not reducing bus/train rates... and not increase the number of bikes/prams allowed in bus and trains simultaneously would likely to detract people from the city. The cycleway is only more effective if... existing modes of transport would be able to 'connect' to it well. Buses to carry multiple number of bikes. I have seen cyclists/grandmas with prams being rejected as the buses could not carry more. Usually it's a 20mins wait for a next bus.

i dont see a lot of point of movie museum and convention centre. This is because, this could be competing for visitors from other existing attractions in wellington. I find it more reasonable to use existing buildings that are already museum and repurpose it for a movie museum instead of a purpose built movie museum. This could be using the city gallery or tepapa. the cost to maintain and build is fairly high, and the 134 million or more could be used for better infrastructure within wellington, or better transport system, which would benefit the local population more than a movie museum, which may not have a long life span.

Any charges during the weekend car parking should also mean reduction in the bus/train fee. I understand greater wellington regional council looks after public transport such as trains and buses. However, i would rather the money that is raised from the car parking be used to subsidise trains and buses. This would also lower emission as well.The cycleway development does not need to be accelerated and any cycleway should be considered carefully, and that it should be considered holistically. The movie museum is not required, as this would largely benefit overseas tourists and not local/regional visitors. A higher level of investment in festivals in the city would be much more appreciated than movie museum.

Water security & storm water capacity can be handled in a more environmentally sustainable and cost effective manner through mandatory rainwater collection & tanks on all buildings & residences. Digging up our city before rainwater collection only benefits the infrastructure companies.

Can you please get the Wellington / Petone bike route done sooner than later. Also can you improve the access bikes have to trains. So many opportunities are lost (business/recreational) because of poor facilities for cyclists that wish to get out of (or in to) Wellington by bike. It seems crazy that in this great compact city, we must be rely on a car to get to a location to bike. 3 bikes on a train is just a token gesture. For example, having enjoyed a day biking around Kapiti Coast over summer one day, we had to miss two trains to get back into Wellington due to the number of other cyclists (not that many) needing to also get back into the city. It's poor form.

The Let's Get Welly Moving proposals are pretty unambitious. I think some more "future" focused solutions need to be looked at. If Wellington wants to be a world class city we need to invest in infrastructure for the future not just what may provide for where we are at now.

Why does Wellington need a snow leopard?? Wellington is not an appropriate climate for this type of animal. Houses in this city are way too expensive and poor quality. I would expect more from a capital city. Work needs to be done to innovate building designs, reduce the cost of prohibitive council fees, and encourage release of red stickers buildings to be demolished and medium density housing to be built with a mandate that none are to exceed $700k (for example) and first home buyers be prioritised over investors in some areas. Investors need to also wear the burden of ensuring their investment is fit for purpose.

Forget cycleways until other more important issues are also sorted - do them both at the same time if a road needs to be fixed and not reduce road capacity because of a cycle way - this causes more congestion and more frustration and 'bikelash'. This council has made a huge mistake with the island bay cycleway evidenced by having to go back and re-spend a huge amount of money to 'fix' a design that wasn't fit for the purpose and context of Wellington or Island Bay. Essentially that's $14m and time that has been wasted which could've been put in to other projects on this list. It's wasteful spending and irresponsible. I'm not 100% against cycleways but it has to be way more considered and pragmatic than what this current council is proposing.

Regarding cycling, how about this for a revenue incentive that additionally will contribute to better safety practices and will work towards repairing relationships with suburbs that currently know that the WCC simply isn't listening to them on issues that directly effect that suburb.1) Registration plates for bicycles. Registration would be renewed once a year at a cost of $15.00. Cyclists would become both a contributing road user and would become more easy identifiable should they be at fault for any traffic misgivings. Additionally if a plate was out of date, you could fine then $30.00 for it.2) Brake lights, indicators, headlights and bells. All of these on bikes would contribute to better communication with drivers and pedestrians and help to prevent accident and injury.3) In relation to the previous point, let them ride on the path, and mark paths with painted signage as appropriate. When walking, if I encounter a bike on a sidewalk I know it thoroughly safer than riding on our roads as it removes a road hazards for both cyclists and drivers . A simple bell would alert walkers and runners to move aside when a bike is approaching. 4) Again in relation to the previous point, if cyclists were allowed on sidewalks and had proper equipment then expensive, complaint generating dedicated cycleways would not have to be constructed. WCC could divert the money into other projects while at the same time a cycleway would technically be readily available in all places and the WCC could meet their cycling transport target of having available, appropriate spaces for cyclists. and finally, as a former Island Bay resident,5) Revert Island Bay Parade to its pre Wades-Brown layout in its entirety. It would buy the WCC desperately needed good social credit while providing a safer road area for all. Follow these 5 steps and the council will save and even make money while at the same time appearing reasonable, responsible and clear thinking when it comes to cyclist safety.

Alright, another one that needs addressing - the convention center.This is a key issue within the city and city council and having one would contribute to a more successful Wellington.Who owns the TSB arena and adjoining Queen's Wharf building across from it? Have them demolish both and use that land to create a duplicate Spark Arena.It'd be costly but it would be the star to reinvigorate the waterfront and wonderful addition to the whole region.

I welcome the focus on resilience. The City can never be safe from natural hazards because that it is on a fault line and at risk from sea level rise, storms and flooding. However, risks can be managed to reduce vulnerability. I also welcome the focus on the environment. However, the vision is not fully consistent with the strategic priority because the word resilience is missing from the vision.

1. City drift: My background is in working with homeless people. My first jobs after university were at night shelters, then services for young people and offenders. I am concerned that any proposal that congregates people is counter-productive. In particular, city drift occurs when city's provide services that attract people to move into the city from rural communities and other places to maintain a street lifestyle. The city has many students and tourists who are more likely to give to beggars. However begging is bad for the mental health of the people who beg and maintains them in a dysfunctional patterns of dependency. I am seeing too much of a housing based approach to mental health needs. Housing First is a misnomer as it is about support first. It is a repackaging of work that began well before the term was branded. What we learnt in developing innovative services in the UK that significantly reduced street homelessness was the importance of connecting people to their communities of support and families, which were often not in the city at all. I am concerned that the charity model of warehousing people is not the solution, but part of the problem. In Oxford, England we had to close a new, small specialist shelter for young people as it became a magnet for pimps, drug dealers, fights and criminalising influences. Every support service that I have worked in that congregated people with similar needs in similar houses had poor outcomes.

2. Mission drift: The city provides generally well-managed housing units in partnership with government financial support. However, there is too much congregation which can compound disadvantage. Housing should be dispersed with rental units and private ownership mixed, and with some cheaper units among higher price units. I see council estates as a form of social segregation. Importantly the Council is not the social welfare agency. The provision of housing services by taxing housing higher (through rates) is counter-productive and paradoxical. It leads to hardship for those on fixed incomes. The city is best to focus on increasing supply through urban development, but not be the provider of the housing. I suggest that the City should transfer its stock and staff to a Social Housing Provider which is better placed to borrow money to grow the stock, and more likely to maintain it to a high standard over time. The history of council housing is that over time non-essential maintenance is deferred and the stock deteriorates. A rental warned of fitness is a misapplied metaphor. A house is not a mechanical unit like a car that can injure the public and requires annual inspection. A WoF to be effective requires inspection. With no inspection a WoF is ineffective (and not really a WoF). With inspection it is costly (e.g. $1-2 on weekly rent to pay for one annual inspection). A compulsory WoF could create an underclass of renters with no tenancies in substandard housing. Over regulation or local aspirational schemes are not likely to succeed. The government can and must regulate housing quality. Support government to help it do a better job of that. The Council is best to focus on where it can make the biggest difference and not be distracted trying to do the work of central government, social enterprises and the private sector. The moral imperative of we must do something results in unintended negative consequences. Do what works, not what makes you feel better.

Since moving to Wellington I have given up on owning a car. I mainly cycle. The city will be choked by cars if radical changes are not made. We need to develop a twenty-first century transport infrastructure. Electric cars still result in danger to pedestrian and cyclists, as well as congestion and inefficient allocation of land. Motor vehicle roads and car parks take up significant space and lead to noise pollution, air pollution, water pollution, problems with heat from tarmac, and flooding. They are also very expensive. Wellington is perfectly situated geographically for a congestion charge which is a much more effective and efficient form of charging, as well as potentially a fairer system than a regional fuel tax.

I do not consider more development on waterfront land to be wise until we can be sure that inundation and liquefaction risks can be managed. As a matter of priority this looks like a nice to have, not essential. Economic impact assessments are often exaggerated as most spend on an event of a facility is displaced from other spend that would occur in the city. The Zoo could be more focused on native wildlife.

The arts are a strong competitive advantage for Wellington of economic, social and cultural benefit. I also feel that the city should strongly support sport as another valuable part of recreation and culture.

- A plug for the Freyburg Pool & Fitness Centre which is a great facility with good design, managed by friendly staff with an inclusive community feel. I wonder if some day the competitive swimmers will get a full length pool somewhere - maybe through a partnership?- Zealandia is fantastic and to me a jewel in the crown. I hope that the Council can continue to progress predator control. Restrictions on cats have been well implemented and led the way in New Zealand. I was sceptical and have been proven wrong - great leadership by the Councillors. I would like new developments to have a no dogs, cats or mustelid restriction under the RMA so that we can see our penguins and other native wildlife flourish. A city that allows introduced predators is not so much an eco city. With growth, the challenges on our native wildlife increase. We don't need extra mammals on top of the humans! People will adjust to a new norm and enjoy the wildlife.- Last I would like the Council to avoid alcohol sponsorship of Council events. Public bodies should show leadership due to the harm caused by alcohol. We got rid of tobacco sponsorship in the past.

To: BUS: Long Term Plan
Subject: Submission regarding Khandallah Pool

Hello,

It is come to my attention as a member of the local Khandallah community that the council has requested submissions in regards to the investment into our summer pool.

Since my family moved to Wellington 6 years ago our summer pool has been an absolute staple in our families day to day lives over the summer months.

My two girls aged now 7 and 11 go to our pool every day they do not have after school activities. They simply love it and would hate to see it deteriorate.

I believe the Khandallah and the wider community would hugely benefit from investment into the pool area. The only complaints that I hear from local people are that it is too cold and needs heating. I would also use it personally so much more if only it was slightly warmer!

My family and I will be following this project with great enthusiasm and interest!

Thanks and kind regards,
Guin Malpass

Sent: Monday, 7 May 2018 10:35 p.m.
To: BUS: Long Term Plan
Subject: Khandallah pool and park

To whom it may concern

I entirely support the plan to revitalise the khandallah pool and park coming up to it's 100 year anniversary. The park and pool is the jewel in the northern suburbs crown. Enjoyed by young and old. It really is in need of some care particularly trimming or felling of trees to get more light into the park and pool.

The khandallah community in my view is well placed and willing to raise significant funds to contribute as was done previously for the khandallah hall. I don't personally think the pool needs to be heated. Just a lot more natural light and facilities upgrade.

Yours sincerely

Madeleine berry

The strengthening of heritage buildings is incredibly expensive when money would go so much further funding active transport infrastructure. I suggest that your priorities in this area could be adjusted.

Some of the cycling infrastructure improvements are good, but there are nowhere near enough of them and they are STILL too far away. Significant improvement from a poor status quo doesn't get you much further. The Council currently appear determined to weaken all potential cycling improvements until they do absolutely nothing (i.e. Thorndon Quay, Oriental Bay). Central Government have outlined an enormous increase in national funding for active transport and specifically cycling infrastructure around the country. They are likely to be in power during most of the active life of this ten-year plan. So why have we not incorporated that drastic increase in funding into our plans for a cycle network. We need fewer carparks in the central city, and available parking needs to be pay-parking at all times. The fees for parking need to rise. People should not be encouraged to park on major transport corridors (Adelaide Road, Evans Bay Parade, Aro Street, Constable Street, too many more to name). In short, while the supposed time given to cycling is nice, it is woefully deficient for what the city really needs. What it needs is a much bigger cycle network across all the transport corridors of the entire central city. Cars need to be actively discouraged from entering the city. A 30kmph speed limit should be enforced through the entire CBD, so as to make the streets more walkable and friendly. Please be courageous.

Wellington needs to build a network of Changing Places bathrooms, to allow people with profound or complex disabilities to take part in civic life. Standard disability toilets can't be used by people who need a ceiling hoist, adult-sized changing table, or room for two caregivers to assist with toileting. Building even one Changing Places bathroom downtown would be life-changing for the people who need these facilities.

Changing Places, Changing Lives

I'm a long-time resident of the Wellington region and the father of a special needs teenager with cerebral palsy. I built the website <http://changingplaces.org.nz> and wrote the Information Guide.

My friend Jenn Hooper created the charity Changing Places NZ and led the project to open the first Changing Place at Hamilton Gardens, which recently opened in March 2018. There is plenty more information (and links to videos and downloads) on the Changing Places website. Thanks!—Nat

The Issue

People with profound or complex disability can't use standard "disability toilets".

Wellington's long-term vision is to be an inclusive, people-centred city where talent wants to live.

The Accessible Wellington Action Plan 2012–2015 states we will know Wellington is accessible when all residents and visitors have ready access to information, services, transport, and buildings.

However, it doesn't matter how accessible you make your transport systems, or how many signs, ramps, and handrails you build, if people can't use a toilet when they get there.

Everyone needs to use the loo when they're out and about. Without fully accessible bathroom facilities, the whole city becomes inaccessible to people with profound or complex disability, and their families or caregivers. They have to cut short their trips (in between loo breaks), leave early (in case of an accident), or make do with conditions that are undignified, unsanitary, and unsafe (like changing on the floor of a public toilet!)... or they simply stay at home.

This is a chance for Wellington to show that it's a leader in accessibility. Building a fully accessible bathroom in a central location can make an entire city precinct accessible.

The Solution

Public toilets which meet the highest standard of accessibility are called Changing Places. Today, there is exactly one Changing Place in all of New Zealand, and it's located in Hamilton.

Every Changing Places bathroom provides:

The right equipment

- a height-adjustable, adult-size changing table
- a height-adjustable hand basin
- a ceiling track hoist system
- a privacy screen or curtain around the toilet

Enough space

- adequate space to move around, for a person in a wheelchair and two caregivers
- space on both sides of the toilet, so two caregivers can assist the toilet user

A safe and clean environment

- a shower on a flexible hose over the changing table
- a non-slip floor and well-designed wet area
- a large waste disposal bin for disposable pads
- a sharps disposal container

- a secure access system for registered users only, to ensure the room is only being used for its intended purpose

Who needs Changing Places?

Statistics on profound disability in NZ is sorely lacking. The recent 2018 NZ census asked whether people have difficulty washing themselves or dressing, difficulty remembering or concentrating, or difficulty walking or climbing steps—this data should be available in October 2018.

Potential users of Changing Places include:

- people with conditions that affect their movement, including cerebral palsy, Parkinson’s disease, multiple sclerosis, spina bifida, or motor neurone disease
- people with head injuries, severe spinal injuries, or acquired brain injury
- people living with stroke
- people with autism spectrum disorder or developmental disabilities
- people with incontinence or bowel problems
- people who use wheelchairs or who have had a limb amputated
- older people with mobility problems, continence issues, or dementia
- entire families of people with a disability, who cannot fully participate in the community because toilet facilities are not available for their loved one

This is not a complete list. There are many, many reasons why people might need special assistance to change or use the toilet.

Within Wellington City alone, this includes:

- Residents and users of rehabilitation/respite care centres or Housing NZ accessible housing
- Students with profound or complex disabilities at Kimi Ora School or Conductive Education
- Users of palliative care or hospice services at Mary Potter Hospice or Wellington Hospital
- Residents of the many, many retirement communities in Wellington
- Visitors from outside the region, who have profound or complex disabilities

Where should Changing Places be located?

We would love to see Changing Places installed in all big public places. From a practical point of view, it may help to think of EV charging stations as an analogy—we should to start with a few ‘oasis’ locations and then build up a robust network. But unlike EV charging stations, we’re talking about a fundamental human need... to simply go to the loo.

In Wellington City, the following locations have over 1 million visitors per year: Wellington airport, Te Papa, the Central Library, and Wellington Railway Station. Westpac Stadium has about half a million visitors per year. Building Changing Places bathrooms at these locations would allow people with profound or complex disability to take part in the action. But the benefits are more than that—for example a Changing Place at Te Papa would open up the entire waterfront, and a Changing Place at the airport would allow people to visit Miramar or travel around the bays.

Building a network of Changing Places in the heart of the city will ensure public access to public facilities, and will demonstrate that the city has heart.

What can Changing Places NZ offer?

Changing Places NZ has taken all the lessons learned by the Changing Places Consortium in the UK, and developed working designs for fully accessible bathrooms at the highest international standards. Some of our innovations are being considered for adoption back in the UK!

We have suppliers for all the specialized equipment, and for the secure access system. We have agreements with other councils and agencies nationwide, and letters of support from Barrier Free NZ, the Office for Disability Issues, NZ First, Arjo (a specialty equipment supplier), and the Changing Places Consortium (UK). We are in discussion with Te Papa and with other sites around the country, towards building a network of Changing Places—all of which will be open to users through the same secure access system.

We have a website (ChangingPlaces.org.nz), Facebook page (ChangingPlacesNewZealand), and several online videos. We will freely share all our campaign and promotional material with you.

We will give you ALL the positive publicity!

You will get that ridiculously good feeling you get when you do a great thing—the right thing—for the people of Wellington.

I have met previously with Councillor David Lee and Te Papa facilities manager Peter Cunninghame to discuss this proposal.

Thank you very much for your time. I'd be more than happy to talk/present on this topic further.

As a Tawa resident I was devastated to see the damage that occurred in the village by the flooding in 2016. As this kind of extreme weather is expected to get worse and more frequent, the upgrade to the stormwater network is a must, not a maybe, and needs to be done as soon as possible, not in 5 or 10 years time.Regarding the transport corridor resilience, the Wellington Lifelines Group "Restoration Times" report "November 2012 clearly shows that the ability for reinstatement and recovery actions to take place (by water, power, telecommunications and gas companies) is heavily dependant on the ability of those providers to move around within the affected areas post impact. Our roads and other roading infrastructure (bridges, tunnels etc) therefore need to be a priority for seismic upgrading and/or strengthening if we want contractors to be able to reach and fix the other services we rely on every day.

I support all the transport related initiatives except the last one. I strongly oppose spending $13.2 million on safer speed limits. Safer (translated - lower) speed limits are largely ineffective and only serve to frustrate law-abiding motorists who get punished for the anti-social and illegal acts of others who don't take notice of speed limits anyway, regardless of what they are. The recent proposal for a reduction of speed limit from 50 to 30km/h in central Tawa is a perfect example of what people want (or don't want in this case).

While I highly support having additional investment for the arts and making it one of the priorities, I wonder what place has emergent companies in your plan. Most of the projects and organisations seems to be big scale, and supporting those who already receive the majority of the funding available. I believe however that the ones that truly will reinforce Wellington's reputation as a creative capital are the ones who will innovate, push the boundaries, explore new styles and ideas. The council should offer more support to ideas that are out of the ordinary and make people think and question, projects that will interest a different demographics to the one that seems to always be targeted. The shows programmed unfortunately only seems to only be more of the same thing and safe. We want to see more diversity and more risks-taking in the arts!

You have not considered Karori as part of your network of cycleways. that means that any safety improvements are 10+ years away for a very large neighbourhood with plenty of commuters already cycling.LGWM ignores many 'out of the central city' issues that affect areas such as the hospital, Victoria University, etc.

The 'movie museum' deal seems loaded in Peter Jackson's favour and there is precedent for there being greater fiscal requests on that company's behalf. Plus the [unreadable word] focus of such a project seems more akin to a vanity project than something that will represent a spectrum of the film and tv culture of Wellington, in which case why call it a movie museum, and name it the Sir Peter Jackson Museum (which will be what it is, and will have a draw itself). I am very cynical about these personality driven projects being claimed as entities of 'national significance'!

Big yes to Te Whare Hōra, WARE residencies and other projects that bring international artists to work with Wellington and NZ collaborators and audiences. It is a significant boost to our local scene for modest investment. International festival is crucial, so is fostering our ecology of arts spaces to enable a trajectory of development from emerging through to senior practitioners, and a balance of free and ticketed opportunities for audiences. I would like to propose a series of short documentaries profiling the working processes and stories behind key cultural makers and producers in the city, to give insight into how artists think and how projects get made as well as the end result being public.

Hi I've had lots of support on this idea on the I Love Karori Facebook page .We would like to see a skate park near the half pipes down at the bottom of old Karori road in the vacant land between the pipes and Old Karori rd , the young people of Karori would use this facility . As they have nowhere really to go , maybe also put a half court basket ball hoop as well.The young kids of Karori really have nowhere safe to go and skate, shoot hoops and I'm sure we would see a lot less car & House egging that goes on because they have nothing better to do.If we do this properly maybe even get a big company evolved IE Monster , Redbull , Demon etc and build a world class park that could draw events to it . We have the bike track there we have the half pipe there ....all we need is a quality skate park.That Old Saying " Build it and they will come "make it high tech web stream cameras, drinking fountains, toilets, Good Lighting etc. regardsBryce McClureKaroriWellingtonFB : Cueballwgtn

I would support water meter charging, fairer and reduce overall consumption, thereby probably reducing overall costs. Three water investment is very necessary to improve the situation when the Wellington earthquake occurs, however, our power supply is very vulnerable and without power, people will leave. Recovery will be much more difficult than in Christchurch. Maintaining confidence is key.

The cost of protecting coastal land against erosion associated with climate change should be borne largely by the community affected, not by society at large. Rising sea levels and increased frequency of storms have long been known as a risk to consider when people invest in coastal property. Sea walls are not sustainable long term investments, and we need to consider managed retreat as a serious option. Rather than upgrading the stormwater networks of Tawa and Miramar by improving pipes and outfalls, the emphasis should be on managing stormwater by decreasing the effective extent of impervious surfaces so that less water enters the stormwater network and more infiltrates to ground. As well as reducing the quantities of water being drained, this will also reduce the load of contaminants such as heavy metals and hydrocarbons entering streams and the harbour. I support Predator Free Wellington, and Community Trapping; however Council needs to improve habitat within urban areas for native species. This should include street planting.

I strongly support accelerated construction of cycling improvements. These will improve the health and wellbeing of Wellingtonians and reduce congestion. However I am very concerned by the slow progress actually constructing anything of substance to date, particularly on popular routes such as from Newtown to the city. Consultation on cycle infrastructure will not in of itself improve active transport. Council needs to make a decision, trust its experts, and act. There are many small improvements that could have significant benefits along busy routes such as from Newtown to the waterfront. If necessary, I am in favour of incremental improvement now, rather than continual delay while ideal solutions are sought.

Comments:

Street planting to provide habitat for bird species, and to connect patches of native bush. This will complement Community trapping. Accelerate construction of cycling infrastructure, especially on routes that people currently cycle on (despite currently being unsafe) such as from Newtown to the city. Council should place weight on consultation findings within the Progress Report for the 'Our Town Newtown' project because the authors used a range of methodologies to proactively reach out, and engage with, as wide a range of people as possible (i.e. through questionnaires, workshops and events). Of the wider considerations beyond just the facility upgrade being considered, the most frequent suggestion in all of the 8 categories (ranging from 'community space' through to 'safety') was 'addressing cycleways/cycling infrastructure' (75 times or 41%). In the 'Transport' category the second most recorded suggestion was 'address traffic congestion volumes' (37 times or 20%) (pg. 23). The authors recommend that the top suggestions are incorporated into long term planning for Newtown (pg 30).

How is all of this going to get paid for? I have an associate who combs over the councils spreadsheets, and it appears that there is no need for a fare increase this year. I'm not in favor of all these extras if bus fares keep going up. If you want people to use the bus, keep the fares down.

The tunnel (Mt Vic and Hataitai) issue has to be solved. Inner city: No car zone Cuba Street. Cycling safer - buses are the most dangerous vehicles for cyclists. Kerb-free streets safer for cyclists. Also considering more e-bikes next few years - this means fast cycling.

Comments:

1) No smoking in public areas in the city. 2) Ideally no or less cars in the CBD (Cuba-Manner-Courtenay-Dixion St) and more opportunities to park car at the entrance of the CBD and then to either walk or take bus, rent free e-bike or share cars. 3) Buildings that are in public areas in the inner city area and are starting to rust, rot and are empty for longer shall be forced to be addressed as it is an eyesore for our beautiful city and the public suffers.

In addition to the valuable projects in the proposal, the Council should make a commitment to not allow the irretrievable loss of state owned green space or play areas to private development. We are aware of one area under threat in our suburb, and hope that the situation is not replicated elsewhere in the city.

Traffic still needs to traverse the outer suburbs to the city and onto to the airport. They will not ride a bike and because international flights are outside public transport hours, catch a bus. Build a large parking building at Nauranga, rapid transit or gondolas from there. See Mexico city Build tunnels or gondolas

Weekend parking fees should not be a solution to parking revenue losses. Instead take some of the profits away from greedy carpark building companies and their under-utilised space.

Comments:

Because of its geography Wellington council should focus on re-structuring the city, decentralise it and improve its connectivity. It also needs to modernise its transport system and diversify it, so it doesn't rely on busses only and for example include tram services. Likewise the council needs to develop other means of transport that connect Wellington special geography more efficiently taking the traffic off the few main already congested arteries of the city. The ongoing growing population and housing crisis will phase out the charm of what one day was the coolest little capital city of the world.

There needs to be controls on rental increases year on year. Currently renters have very few rights and are put in a precarious situation when landlords decide to raise the rent by large percentages.

Many of the best modern cities actively include powered two wheeled transport in their planning. The world is experiencing an explosion of clean, economical electric motorcycles, scooters and mopeds (e-bikes). Petrol powered motorcycles are also seeing continuous improvement in efficiency and emissions levels thanks to the trickle-down effect of the Euro emissions standards. Motorcycles are also proven to reduce congestion and expand network capacity. Additionally, the geography of Wellington makes it impractical and even impossible for some residents to travel by push-bike. Accepting that compact powered transport is a better alternative to cars is an important step towards managing congestion and protecting our environment. Wellington should take the following steps: - Increase overall motorcycle parking in the CBD - Introduce more short term motorcycle parking in key retail areas (without impinging existing mc parking) - Provide charging stations for e-bikes and electric motorcycles - Promote adult safety training for all users of two wheeled transport

Stop wasting money on cycleways, restore the island bay parade to how it was before you stuffed it up with a pointless cycleway for a small majority. Stop wasting money on stupid pointless pet projects like tory st, multicolour pedestrian crossing, and making Wellington a more maori city. Would like to see Wellington be as close to zero waste / landfill over predator free. I've just returned from Singapore- what about also making Wellington as clean as possible, smokefree and significantly increasing public as private gardens / planting. Including technology to tag and protect trees etc. it's had a big impact on their economy - creates jobs, creates tourism, beautifies and protects. I think the city previously had a requirement for buildings to incorporate public art. What about a requirement to incorporate green planting including vertical gardens? It looks beautiful in Singapore

Let's aim for having no one sleeping on the street. Let's be innovative in housing and not be tied to historic ideologies. I read research suggesting next generations may not value / need living rooms. Let's design housing to encourage social interaction. Let's also not have all our old folk isolated in stand alone houses. Let's truly be innovative and forward thinking and let's not only follow a western, isolationist approach.

Let's link our start-up and digital DNA with arts and culture to create exciting experiences and storytelling opportunities. Like Lux. Support programmes like Te Papas Mahuki. We are sorely lacking Maori cultural activities especially for cruise ships. What could we create? Let's be open to being edgy in arts and culture not just high brow. Increase the range of arts and culture activities that gold card holders can access for free so they have lots of opportunities for social interaction. Let's have a Wellington be the place where no one is lonely. Let's be famous for arts and culture for an aging demographic. I formed this view talking to a lady at the bus stop traveling on her gold card to go to a free concert at Michael Fowler. Life is tough for our old folk.

Be great to provide some support for independent retailing. We've lost a lot of this character and we don't want to just be mass generic stores. Develop and support suburban hot spots in a similar manner to the inner city redesign. Make it cool to visit island bay, Miramar etc. apply that awesome urban design ethos outside of CBD. Zero tolerance for graffiti and rubbish in the CBD. Do feasibility / ROI on freedom campers / capervan tourists. Do they add anything to Wellington? because they take parking out of CBD and are messy.

There are plenty of people unable to cycle to work due to distance and other reasons but motorcycles and scooters are a brilliant way to reduce congestion. You can also park around 4 motorbikes/scooters for every 1 car park. But the city does not nearly have enough parks currently and this is stopping people from using this mode of transport - build more motorcycle parking spaces! Or let them park on the pavement where it is safe and there is enough space

Comments:

A Raised monorail with a pathway through the city ( rather than the waterfront) with a regular ( every 10 minutes) departure from the Railway Station, will free the city centre of the multitude of buses taking up valuable space on the inner city roads. Its destination should be the Airport, and major stops should include Courtney Place, Newtown and Kilbirnie.

Public and active transport MUST be prioritised if the city is to grow in a sustainable manner. If Wellington wants to have the highest health, wellbeing and liveability scores in the world, it must be a city that puts people at the centre of decision making. Evidence shows the way to achieve this, and more prosperous cities is through having walkable and cycleable streets.

In order to attract more money to the city, we need a decent venue where live concerts can be held. Too often, international artists play Auckland and Christchurch, while the capital's residents miss out.

I do not think the city council should put so much money into a movie museum and convention centre (I had read that this is upwards of $100M - funded from rates!) when it has not got the basics right - the water and sewerage infrastructure requires prioritisation over the convention centre. I understand that it is to encourage people coming into the city...but get the basics right first. You can encourage the convention centre in other ways - get private businesses to invest for example.

The world is experiencing growth of clean, economical electric motorcycles, scooters and mopeds (e-bikes). Petrol powered motorcycles are also seeing continuous improvement in efficiency and emissions. Motorcycles are proven to reduce congestion and expand network capacity. Accepting that compact powered transport is a better alternative to cars is an important step towards managing congestion and protecting our environment. Wellington should take the following steps:- Increase overall motorcycle parking in the CBD- Introduce more short term motorcycle parking in key retail areas (without impinging existing mc parking)- Provide charging stations for e-bikes and electric motorcycles

Comments:

Exponential growth. Look at how modern cities have developed overseas and don't make the same mistakes they have. Trains, buses, light-rail, motorcycles, scooters and bicycles should take priority over cars in all circumstances. Modernise the suburbs close to the CBD to have medium density housing to reduce the strain on the transport network. The more people that can walk to work, the better.

Weekend parking fees won't per say incentivise public transport. There needs to be a whole range of ways to incentivise this. Putting in weekend parking fees will only serve to create more revenue. What will that go to? Initiatives to encourage more public transport use?

Comments:

Cycling lanes would be super. This will help incentivise getting people on to the roads on their bikes. The more people ride, the more others see it as safe, so becomes a reinforcing cycle. Please continue to add more 'stop boxes' at the traffic lights - at minimum they show drivers that the road is for cyclists too.
Thanks WCC

Comments:

Get the bloody basin reserve flyover sorted or develop some other means of fixing this. Why are you letting the select few sticks in the mud block progress for everyone else! Bikes are good for flat-ish suburbs yes, only the keen ones will ride up the steep hills. Remember that landlords provide a service, most of them a good service with a good deal of risk and sacrifice as well. If you bash the landlord or take away the ability for them to provide housing to those that literally don't care to be capable enough themselves, you will have greater than a housing crisis on your hands. Free parking for EV vehicles? Suburbs like Newtown/Mount Cook are walking/biking suburbs. Blocking development intensification because you enforce the need for a car park is wrong. Wellington needs to think itself a bit more like Manhattan and less like Los Angeles. The developers of Shelly Bay will make there millions, do not finance this with our rates. Put a roof on Westpac Stadium, that place is a fridge and frankly outside of the summer months a shit place to attend. The flood is coming, no amount of sea wall is going to protect places like Seatoun over 20 years. A retreat needs to be factored in today and development of low lying coastal areas should not be granted consent.

I can see the House Rental is increasing a lot in six months. There should be some rule to stop that. Also need to build a lot of new houses for new home buyers and sale price is more than 500k which is costlier than any other country

Increase the frequency of public transport on weekends, especially on Lower Hutt and Johnsonville to City. Also can encourage carpooling and giving discounts for car parking who are doing the carpooling.

New Zealand is a tourism country, There is no Direct international flights from Singapore to Wellington. All the flights are coming either from Auckland or Christchurch. Also there are lot of public transport options from Auckland but not in Wellington. Need to increase Public Transport Facility and also reduce the price so that you can see many people will use public transport than their car.

Traffic congestion in the Wellington area cannot be mitigated much less solved, by building more roads, due to the hilly topography of the city. It is therefore imperative that the volume of traffic be reduced as far as possible by providing quality public transport and safe active-mode options throughout, leaving a greater proportion of the available network for vehicles such as delivery, emergency and mass transit.

While much will need to be spent on adaptation to the effects of climate change, I see no policies here which will (meaningfully) reduce our emissions. An approach to lower emissions at their sources is just as important, if not more, as spending money on adaptation.

We need a second Mt Vic tunnel! The traffic build up on either side of the tunnel is due to vehicles having to merge to go through a single lane tunnel.

Do we really need a convention centre? Also, while I think it would be great to maintain and improve facilities at the Wellington Zoo, I don't approve of large cats (tigers etc.) being kept. I think we should only have animals that are appropriate for a zoo environment. If further 'attractions' are added then I think animal welfare and conservation need to be foremost in the decision making process.

Instead of/as well as earthquake strengthening large buildings, to create a vibrant creative city it would make sense also to ensure the city is an accessible place for our artists to live and work. Create opportunities for artists, make sure creative workspaces, practice spaces and housing is affordable. Make sure small venues are supported (in Auckland where a number have closed due to rising costs, more inner-city housing and noise complaints etc). Don't forget the grass roots...

Support option 1 wholeheartedly and welcome the commitment to maintaining Wellington's reputation as arts and culture capital. Supporting local organisations to develop rather than importing events will be more sustainable and cost-effective in the long term. WRAF should shift to a multi-year fund, allowing for planning and development that is not possible in the current year-to-year model. Static funding, or funding that does not increase year-to-year to at least keep pace with inflation, is erosion and will not support developing organisations adequately

Nothing is more important to my family than finding a house of our own we can afford. Opening up public transport to service currently under-serviced suburbs would make a huge difference to where we can afford to buy, to continue to meet our work and community needs. Broadmeadows is an example of a suburb we can't afford to live in because we would need to drive to work, and perhaps buy another car which would also increase congestion and pollution. This should be considered as part of the WCC's plans for housing and transport.

Wellington resilience needs to be a unique partnership between public, civil society, local and central government because of our seismic vulnerability and role as the nations capital. Even with significant resilience and strengthening we have significant challenges of isolation and lifeline utility disruption.

I've cycled to school, uni and work for over 20yrs. I've also owned, maintained and taxed cars and motorbikes throughout this time. Good community engagement and targeted design is vital. The Island bay cycleway debacle was avoidable and should have never been a priority. Separation between cyclists and pedestrians on trunk routes is key. The advantages of cycling are lost in locations like the waterfront after 0730 in the summer due to lack of separation reducing cyclists to walking pace.

Wellington needs land for housing, we are growing and the council should not be purchasing land to add to the town belt which makes it virtually impossible to use it for housing in the future. Building accelerometers is not needed at all. In every earthquake ever it does not take long to respond accordingly. An extra five minutes is not needed for the huge expense to install them.

We need to continue to expand our housing as our population grows. Conversions of old buildings into apartments is a great, simple way to solve problems. We need the council to be proactive and continue adding in parks, entertainment facilities and new ideas (like the movie museum) to ensure that we don't lag behind the rest of the country whilst making our city attractive to live in.

We need to be more realistic with our transport system, and reduce the bottlenecks (Terrace & Mt Vic Tunnel), especially once Transmission Gully is complete. We need to make the roads safer and accept that there will only be an every increasing amount of cars on the roads which we need to cater for. We need to increase the level of carparking buildings in the city, especially down by Waitangi Park (can we build a multi level carpark by Clyde Quay Wharf perhaps?). We need to have a world class bus system and cycle way however we have to be realistic around the weather. I like to walk & bike but most days are either too windy, too cold or rainy to bike which means I will drive. This makes me believe that spending too much money on removing carparking/narrowing the roads to make way for cycleways won't work to encourage their use. People will continue to take their families and children in a car due to convenience and so the family don't get sick. We need to be realistic with our transport hub, the roads are VERY narrow all over Wellington and we need to do something about this. One way that could work is removing one side of the roads footpath in certain areas and only have a footpath on one side of the road. This would make driving much safer, especially for people on bikes on the windy streets. We need to expand significantly the no parking yellow lines throughout the narrow streets. The introduction of weekly car parking fees will only force families away from the city, not encourage them to take their children to the park or to the shops. This cost to families is unnecessary and is not welcome. It will not mean that I take my family on an overcrowded, infrequent bus.

Comments:

I believe the council should be focussing more on making our city more liveable by installing more rain protection across our streets which will encourage me to walk more. We also should consider how we can add in wind protection. Unfortunately the cycleways won't encourage me to bike more, this is entirely dependant on the weather. We need to widen our roads to make it safer when I cycle by limiting footpaths to one side of the road and add in more yellow lines to stop people from parking their cars inconsiderately on narrow streets. We need to focus on making our city an entertainment city, with museums, indoor stadiums etc and we need to bring in more events. We should focus on expanding our housing and creating new hubs to encourage people to shop in their local community (eg lets create a new cafe/shopping district on Tory Street where Noel Lemmings is. It is a huge carpark which could house something extraordinary.

Support option 1. Climate change and earthquakes/tsunami are real threats to Wellington, alongside a growing population. Adequate planning and spending to account for this is essential. I support spending to make 3 waters infrastructure more resilient. In terms of who should pay for things like seawalls (assuming central government does not contribute), there should be some significant contribution from the adjacent landowners who benefit from that coastal protection work through a targeted rate, given their property values will improve (or rather, not decline) as a result. Council should also strongly consider the use of more "managed retreat" as a climate adaption option in high risk areas rather than always saying yes to the landowners who want more seawalls.

The consultation document states that the quality of rental housing is 'not always great in Wellington' - this is vastly understating the problem. Wellington's housing market already out of control, both in terms of quantity (demand greatly exceeds supply) and quality (existing stock is in steady decline). Wellington's housing system is a dream market for those who have the money to become investors, but a nightmare for tenants and our sadly growing number of homeless people. Most tenants are signed up to one year fixed-term tenancies. Buying out of a one year tenancy agreement early is expensive for the tenant (often at least 2 weeks' additional rent) and landlords are not offering longer-term tenancies because they don't have to. The majority of tenancies in central Wellington are lined up to expire sometime during the 3-month period of January-March each year, to match the start of the University calendar when the market is at its hottest. Competition for a flat is extreme over this period. Prospective tenants, desperate to find somewhere to live before Uni starts, are often forced to enter into bidding wars against each other, much to the delight of landlords and their agents. Rents go up every time a changeover happens as supply continually fails to keep up with demand. Landlords have no reason to change anything as the cash cow keeps producing. The housing stock simply isn't growing fast enough to keep up with demand, and shocks like the Kaikoura Earthquake take stock out of the market making the situation worse. This is not sustainable development and is contributing to growing inequality in our country as wealth is transferred from bottom to top. Meanwhile housing quality is in decay as landlords have no incentive to even maintain their houses, let alone improve them. Owners still make capital gain by land banking in central Wellington, and the rental market means their property is pretty much guaranteed to be rented out no matter what state it is in. When winter rolls around and tenants finally realise how freezing and damp their houses are, they are hesitant to complain for fear their tenancy won't be renewed, or they will get a bad reference from the landlord (making it harder to find a new flat next year), or the worst case scenario of ending up on the NZ landlords' 'blacklist' - meaning they may never find a flat again. Tenants simply have to accept that a cold, damp housing is part of the package when it comes to renting central Wellington. The power imbalance between landlords and tenants in Wellington is total, meaning this is not a truly 'free market' - landlords have all the power and tenants have none of it. WCC's voluntary rental warrant of fitness scheme is well-intentioned will fail to make any inroads into the problem. The consultation document states that the WOF 'requires higher standards from rental homes'. With respect, the system actually doesn't require anything, given it is voluntary, landlords have to pay for the assessment (why would they bother?), and there is no market imperative to get one given their property will be filled either way given the reality I've outlined above. As at 23 April 2018, eight months after the scheme's introduction, only two houses were listed on the WCC website as having passed the WOF, neither of which are in the central area (one in Johnsonville and one in Ngaio). This result is sad but unsurprising. The saddest part of this story is the people who suffer most are those who are most vulnerable, who simply cannot compete. The most visible outcome is the appalling increase in homelessness that we are seeing on the streets of Wellington. Wellington simply cannot continue to rely on the private sector as the problem will only continue to get worse. As far as I'm concerned, this situation is completely unacceptable and those who like to think of Wellington as 'one of the most cities liveable in the world' are either in denial or wilfully ignorant the day-to-day reality for a large proportion of Wellington's residential population. WCC, along with central government, must act. What WCC should do, at a minimum, is: WCC to build more social housing and emergency accommodation for people who get left at the bottom. Policies to ease pressure on the rental market: WCC to (a) build, and (b) require developers to build (as part of broader developments) more 'affordable' housing options for first home buyers to get out of the annual rent cycle. This will free up rental options for people 'further down the ladder'. People who purchase affordable houses should be required to own and live in them for a period of time for a minimum of 2 years, to ensure they do not instantly sell them on for a windfall profit. WCC should build on empty land it owns - anywhere except the town belt or ecologically important reserves should be up for grabs for this purpose. Policy directives for landlords to improve the quality of their rental properties without passing on the costs of these improvements onto tenants (as just another excuse to raise the rent). WCC might consider removing the fee for the rental WOF assessment, and central/local government might providing tax/rates rebates or subsidies for landlords to improve the quality of their housing to comply with the standards. But ultimately it needs to be more than just a voluntary standard given the market imbalance in favour of landlords. Policies to stop land banking in strategic areas around Wellington: An economic incentive for property owners in places near to the CBD to convert land that being land-banked and used for inefficient purposes (like car parks or storage units) e.g. Adelaide Road/Newtown. Ways to do this could be increase rates for landowners to force them to develop quality apartments, and/or use the Public Works Act as a credible threat to get them to act / actually acquire the land and develop housing if they don't. A culture change to recognise that housing is a human right (as included in Article 25 of the UN's Universal Declaration of Human Rights), rather than simply an investment (i.e. a way to make money). While it may be tempting to look at Wellington's housing problem as 'too hard' and simply accept homelessness as 'a fact of life', such an approach is inconsistent with Article 25 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. This internationally agreed principle should underpin all of WCC's strategic documents, policies, activities and, importantly, WCC's organisational culture, regarding to housing and homelessness. I realise these are politically bold moves, as landlords (ratepayers) are more often the ones who turn up to vote in Local Body Elections every three years, as opposed to tenants (who do not get a rates bill each year but still pay as it is incorporated into their rent) and homeless people. However WCC should stand up for the rights of its city's most vulnerable residents, not just for those that vote, and put in place measures to protect the vulnerable.

I support option 1 (the proposal to charge for CBD street parking during weekends, and put part of this money into the Cycling Master Plan). Inner-city traffic congestion, especially in the weekend, has reached obscene levels. Everywhere between the Terrace and Cambridge/Kent Tce, and the streets around Lambton Quay, is in gridlock particularly during the weekend. The current situation of free street parking encourages people in cars to 'meander' around the CBD looking for a free park (which usually take a long time to find), rather than driving straight to a Wilson Parking building because they think they are saving money that way. This incentive to 'meander' just increases traffic congestion within central CBD streets. The council should remove the 'free parking' subsidy for people to use their cars, and put the revenue generated by additional parking fees into alternative transport infrastructure as proposed. The consultation document recognises the risk that having to pay for parking might lead people to drive to Queensgate or Porirua malls to do their shopping instead of taking public transport, walking or cycling into Wellington CBD, reducing economic development for Wellington City. CBD businesses will no doubt be worried about this, particularly on rainy, cold days when people won't want to cycle or walk. Wellington City Council can mitigate this risk by offering free bus rides to all within public transport zone 1 (inner city). This will help encourage people to take public transport in from outside the CBD, and reduce congestion on the road. Free public transport within a CBD boundary is used in other cities for this purpose, for example Melbourne CBD has a permanent 'free tram zone' within its CBD every day of the year (see map below). I know this because I have been there, used it, and can attest that it is fantastic. Wellington should follow Melbourne's lead on this. For people who don't want to take the bus, they can still drive in, they will just have to pay for parking. If offering 'free' (i.e. council-paid) trips within zone 1 permanently is too costly for the council, this option could be limited to only during the winter months (when the weather is more likely to be cold and wet, and people are more inclined to drive to malls in outer suburbs/Porirua/Lower Hutt i.e. June-Sept), or only on Saturday/Sunday (the main shopping days), or a mixture of both.

Support option 1, but the Wellington is in desperate need of a large indoor concert venue, with capacity of around 10,000. The city is in danger of losing its "cultural capital" edge to Auckland (arguably it already has), and Dunedin is about to overtake Wellington. Both TSB Arena and Shed 6 lack quality acoustic quality, and are too small to attract large scale international headlining acts. Wellington has missed out on recent and upcoming tours from Ed Sheeran and Kendrick Lamar, which I can pretty much guarantee would have sold out a 10,000 seat venue in Wellington if we had one. I for one travel to Auckland regularly for big name concerts playing at Spark Arena or music festivals, which is very expensive if you count flights, taxis, accommodation plus event tickets, and often time off work if the concert is mid-week. There will be many Wellington residents who do the same and we would love to not have to travel to Auckland. I support the allocation of council money to this, and WCC should prioritize working out a deal with other councils in the region as soon as possible to start building in the next year or two. The document says the money won't be spent until years 5-8: there is no explanation as to why this needs to take 5 years "the demand is there now and will only get bigger as the city's population increases. The Town Hall renovation should be completed as soon as possible, however this only provides for small capacity concerts which will not attract big name acts.

Submission to the Wellington City Council's Long Term Plan 2018-2028

Beacon Pathway

Beacon Pathway encourages the Wellington District Council to employ an Eco Design Advisor to support Wellington residents to design, build and upgrade their homes to be warm, dry, healthy, and efficient. An Eco Design Advisor service supports the Council's priority of safe and affordable housing. In particular, an Eco Design Advisor can encourage local residents to make the most of the Greater Wellington Regional Council's targeted rate for home heating and insulation assistance.

Supporting Information:

Eco Design Advisors are experts in the field of home performance advice with a robust knowledge base which draws on the latest New Zealand and overseas research. Working in councils, they advise local residents on how to design, build, and upgrade homes to be warm, dry, healthy, and more energy and water efficient. Eco Design Advisors review house plans, assess existing homes providing a personalised upgrade plan for homeowners to follow, and provide advice on how to effectively and more cheaply operate a home. Research has shown that one-to-one consultations and individualised advice is an effective way to provide residents with access to information and motivate them to make changes to their homes. Councils provide considerable value to ratepayers in offering this free service, as well as upgrading local housing stock, improving housing affordability (through reduced operating costs) and housing-related health outcomes for residents, and reducing residential demand on local infrastructure (e.g. water).

Councils which currently employ Eco Design Advisors are: Christchurch City Council, Nelson City Council, Hutt Valley City Council, Kapiti Coast District Council, Palmerston North City Council, Hamilton City Council and Auckland Council. Dunedin City Council is in the process of advertising for an Eco Design Advisor.

As a student, soon to be young person entering the workforce, and in the future a young person who may be marrying/starting a family, or at least just looking to own a home, housing is of high interest to me. I currently live in a flat that could be considered to be a bit unhealthy, it is difficult to heat and keep very dry, and also may in fact be considered to be overpriced for rent per week for the condition it is in. New Zealand's Housing Crisis is a scary thought for those of us growing up into it.

I am disappointed by the slow pace of providing safe protected cycleways in Wellington. It is time the Council made some hard decisions to correct the car-centric thinking that has led to the city becoming gridlocked on a daily basis with its attendant health and climate change consequences.

Inner city building conversions will likely create more luxury flats for the rich. We need more housing for the poor. The rich can look after themselves.

How about a congestion charge for the city, much like those in London and Singapore? Cars are ruining Wellington. Where is the pedestrianisation that real modern cities have in abundance?

Let Peter Jackson, multi-millionaire (net worth $400 million plus) pay for it himself. If he wants a movie museum. The tax payer shouldn't have no part in it. And who's going to come to this fabled convention centre? Is Wellington that much of an attraction? I think not!

Comments:

To my mind Wellington is more a large village than a modern capital city. An inadequate transport system, (which is even worse on weekends,) lack of pedestrian areas, cars [unreadable] everywhere give the feel of decline rather than vibrancy. If you want a vibrant city then appropriate policies need to be found. How come we tend to import only those ideas that have failed elsewhere. Look to Scandinavia. People there have a few ideas that could wake-up brain dead policy makers here in this benighted little pretend country.

The development of the cycle network needs to be resourced to complete the project within 10 years not 35 years. The 20 year time line is unsatisfactory. The cycle network development timeline outlined does not cut it. It must be adequately resourced and managed. The increased allocation of $2.42 cts per rate payer per annum is the less than one two section bus ticket. The annual allocation needs to be increased by $10.00 per annum per rate payer to allow some development of the infrastructure that is sustainable. We need to ensure people of all ages and abilities can choose to cycle safely for short everyday trips. Safe cycling and walking should be a way of life option for all and entice those who do not actively involved in Wellington

Have Your Say on the 10 Year Plan

I have look over the 10 year plan and the following comments are made for the development of the transport options:

The plan needs to accommodate a healthier, cleaner greener Wellington.

The development of the cycle network needs to be resourced to complete the project within 10 years not 35 years. The 20 year time line is unsatisfactory.

The cycle network development timeline outlined does not cut it. It must be adequately resourced and managed. The increased allocation of $2.42 cts per rate payer per annum is the less than one two section bus ticket. The annual allocation needs to be increased by $10.00 per annum per rate payer to allow some development of the infrastructure that is sustainable. We need to ensure people of all ages and abilities can choose to cycle safely for short everyday trips. Safe cycling and walking should be a way of life option for all and entice those who do not actively involved in Wellington

The speed at which the development resources needs to be addressed with the current develop of the Hutt Road cycleway having taken 18 months to date when there is little more than 4 km to complete in total.

There is totally inadequate parking facilities for bicycles in Wellington CBD. The cycling activity needs to be connected not just business but recreation facilities and access to steps at the bottom of hills. The cycle parks need to be where people will use them and in clear site to see by the public and security reasons. It would assist if they were a consistent colour also so cyclist can see them from a distance. This is not the case currently.

Any new WCC housing for the city must accommodate the storage of bicycles in a secure area to allow tenants this option of transport accessibility.

Every bike in the city is one less car with the pollution and space it takes up. The installation of bicycle racks on public transport is fully supported.

Transferring road space from general traffic use to cycling increases overall road capacity and resilience, as the bicycle is one of the most space-efficient vehicles on the road, and causes the least wear

.Wellington City Council Submission 10 Year Plan : Peter Barlow
Apr 2018

Car parks buildings can cost $20m and just attract cars. The city needs to be geared for the pedestrian and cyclist. With the move for employees to work from home it is inevitable that the population will undertake more walking and cycling to keep fit. Keep motor vehicles out of the city if possible and people using public transport where required throughout the week.

The cycleway must be developed in Thorndon

There are two options either

Aotea Quay or Thorndon Quay. The Thorndon Aotea Quay option will if developed involve land required from Centre Port.

The Wellington City Council is a major shareholder in Centre Port and must use their influence to ensure that the needs of pedestrians and cyclist are met in accessing a pedestrian/ cycle corridor. This is the preferred option in my opinion. This will also aid the cruise ship passenger access be it pedestrian or cyclist into the CBD. Some days there are two ships simultaneously in port on the same wharf with resulting high pedestrian numbers.

The above option will ensure that there are facilities for cruise ship passenger to access the city. In addition, I understand that long term both Bluebrige and Interislander will operate out of the same port area north of the existing Interislander terminal. This being the case the Aotea Quay option is most desirable.

The existing cycle route (Apr 2018) with angle car parks on Thorndon Quay is not a cycle route but does led to a cycle network in the city. This is piece meal. The cycle way must be a network to allow all users and potential cyclists the opportunity to use in a safe environment. The grip with some potential cyclists is that they feel unsafe without a dedicated cycle path. This must be address to attract new active individuals.

Angle car parks

There needs to be a firm policy to eliminate angle vehicle parks as they are a health hazard for the safety of cyclist and road users and is holding up the development of the Thorndon Quay as an option for a cycle network currently Apr 2018.

The 10 year transport plan tries to marry the parking fees into the development of cyclist facilities. These are two different matters. Cyclist funding is not pegged to a parking fee rate. This is a total myth. It has nothing to do with a weekend parking rate being introduced. This is also reflected in the webbased questions on the internet proposal.

The 10 year plan does not recognize the contribution to health, fitness and the environment that increased pedestrians and cyclists activity as opposed to an inactive population This applies equally to the nation as opposed to just Wellington City. An inactive population means more people dying of conditions such as heart disease. It is a fact that those who cycle take less sick days per year. In this basis alone, the increase of only $2.42 pa per rate payer must be addressed.

More cycling on cycle networks in Wellington directly contributes to safer cycling and eliminates stress that transport particularly the daily commute resulting in improved psychological well-being for those involved be they rate payers or tenants. By greatly broadening the demographic of people who cycle the health and well being of the city will be enhanced.

Cyclist and pedestrians have minimal contribution to urban air and noise pollution compared to motor vehicle options. Designed well cycling helps create more liveable pleasant cities. With the shift of the population living directly in the CBD are we giving the city dwellers the opportunity to enjoy it with less motor vehicles.

The development of cycle routes that are safer allows both young and older greater independence as selecting this transport opportunity increasing the mobility and life chances of the poorest.

Used in conjunction with other public transport by cycling the catchment area can increase up to ten times the people compared to walking to public transport.

With increased travel times during peak periods for motor vehicles cycling means more predictable journey times in our cities.

.Wellington City Council Submission 10 Year Plan : Peter Barlow
Apr 2018

Cycling leads to enhancing the inefficient of wasting space and energy that motor vehicle does not offer leading to an efficient use of the transport system. One car space is the equivalent of eight bike spaces

There is a strong need to develop networks that led to increased cycling as tourist routes such as around the bays and with the Rimutuka cycle trail being one of a few international cycleways that is directly accessible from a capital city.

The reason way the existing Rimutuka cycle trail starts at Petone is caused directly by a lack of a safe cycle route from Wellington to Petone.

If businesses in Wellington are to get the benefits of increased spending they must maximise the opportunities to have visitors in the city. At present due to a total lack of a safe cycle route from Wellington to Petone individuals with cycles have to go on the train to Petone with their bicycle or traverse the Ngauranga to Petone section in reverse on a cycle route that stops at Horokiwi on the east side of Hutt Road. This is no different to the existing situation in Thorndon Quay there is no continuous cycle route as part of a network.

It's a case of does Wellington want a "Otago Cycle Trail" from the city then it must provide cycle lanes that are safe and completely integrated directly into the city. The boundaries of Wellington and Lower Hutt cities is irrelevant, the cycle routes need to be a complete network. The network must be extensive and interconnected to allow safe cycling with zero fatalities.

With better pedestrian and cyclist networks people living on low incomes struggle to access jobs and services will have increased opportunity to make a direct positive contribution to society.

There is no provision for a bike sharing scheme in the City. The Council needs to look forward. This could be introduced at no cost to the city. Ie self funding.

The preferred option is for a docked based option where bicycle are located.

It is a myth that the motor vehicles car parks are for customers of business. This is straight marketing of the adjacent business. Vehicle placed strategically and on a daily basis. Quite clear that blocking the dedicated cycle area even though they have parking space on the premises.

In summary having considered the Options 1 and 2 in my opinion the following factors need to be adopted:

Option 3

The cycling network needs to be developed over 10 years not 35 years

The increase per rate payer needs to be $10.00 per annum per rate payer.

The full $40m plus allocation currently by WCC +plus the increased contribution from the $10 per annum per rate payer plus the contribution by the NZTA of $33m ( Subsidy of 51%) over the 10 year period concerned needs to be maximised in delivering a totally integrated cycle network that continuous incorporates those factors to be revealed in the Let's Get Wellington Moving programme of work to be published in June 2018.. Resources needs to be maximised both inhouse and in engaging contractors competitively.

.Wellington City Council Submission 10 Year Plan : Peter Barlow
Apr 2018

All cycle networks will need to be complete and be fully interconnected and the use of resources maximised within the time frame. I.e. 10 years.

There needs to be a total commitment to eliminate angle motor vehicle parks on all cycle routes.

The Thorndon Quay cycle way has to be developed as a cycle route that integrated in total to the network. As it stands it is not part of a continuous cycle network. The option should be that Aotea Quay be developed as a main arterial route from the Hutt Road (SH2) to the Wellington Railway Station.

All cycle routes in the network should be in dedicated cycle/ pedestrian lanes and joined up making it easier to use, safer, efficient, providing both health and environment benefits at the same time as contributing to reducing central city congestion.

The main cycle route the Rimatuka Cycle Trail needs to be connected to Wellington both as a start and finish of the trail as part of the cycle network. This will only be achieved if the section from Ngauranga to Wellington railway station is completed and safe to use by all ages. This will need to be marketed as such.

The feasibility of having the proposed NZTA pedestrian cycle route from Petone to Ngauranga gorge extended on into Wellington on the seaward side of the motorway so that the Great Harbour way is just that and an iconic facility for both pedestrians, tourists and other users comes to fruition.

There needs to be a cycle sharing system introduced in Wellington city.

Cycling is a major part of the solution for many of the challenges our Council faces, including inactivity, obesity, pollution, inequality, access to transport, and congestion. Shifting journeys from polluting modes to cycling and walking is cheaper, quicker and more effective than a switch to electric vehicle.

The Council needs to be ambitious with it plan manage resources well and connect with the public to ensure the cycle network is done once and done well to contribute towards a liveable city of the future.

I can confirm that I like to make a presentation to the Wellington City Council
I would like to thank the Council for the opportunity to comment on the draft 10 year plan.
